Fighting Rages in Viet Nam

Body of Another American Found

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —Heavy clashes were reported today between Red guerrillas and strong force of government troops airlifted into Communist-infested territory by 30 U.S. helicopters.

Several of the helicopters reportedly were hit by Viet Cong ground fire, but there was no word of U.S. casualties. The operation was in an area about 40 miles northeast of Saigon.

Near Ambush Site

The region is not far from the spot where about 500 guerrillas ambushed a convoy of 19 vehicles and about 270 Vietnamese troops Saturday. The Reds killed 23 Vietnamese and their American adviser, Capt. Don J. York, Asheville, N.C., then got away.

Searchers have found the body of another American serviceman from a U.S. Army helicopter shot down by the Communists Sunday. This brought the toll to five Americans dead and four missing in three air crashes in two days.

The body, that of an enlisted man, was found about a mile from the wreckage of the helicopter, which plunged into the jungle near the Laotian border 280 miles northeast of Saigon. He apparently had walked the mile despite mortal wounds.

Find Charred Bodies

Charred bodies of two U.S. Army officers, another enlisted man and a Vietnamese officer were found earlier at the crash site.

Maj. Robert F. Corneil, commander of the 8th U.S. Helicopter Squadron, and a second Vietnamese officer survived.

The Pentagon announced in Washington the Americans aboard the helicopter were Lt. Col. Anthony J. Tencza, Fairfax, Va.; Corneil, of Daleville, Ala.; Chief WO Joseph Goldberg, Sanford, N.C., Spec. 5 James E. Lane, Spring Lake, N.C., and Spec. 5 Harold L. Guthrie, Burlington, N.C.

Corneil, found Sunday night wandering in the jungle about five miles from the wreckage, suffered only bruises. The Vietnamese survivor had been wounded by Communist bullets.

His Second Injury

It was Corneil's second injury as a result of Red gunfire. He was shot in the heel May 23 while flying a helicopter over the Mekong River delta.

Planes continued searching a 900-square mile area for a U.S. Air Force transport that disappeared Sunday en route from Saigon to Ban Me Thuot, 160 miles northeast of here. Bad flying weather over the mountainous terrain hampered the search for the C123, which had four American crewmen.

The fifth American air victim perished Monday in the crash of a two-engine Vietnamese Air Force transport. His name has not been released. Twenty-two Vietnamese also died.

Driver of Tractor-Trailer Killed in Dutchess Mishap

In a rash of truck accidents in recent days Dutchess County has its 23rd fatality at 2:30 a. m. today when a milk tractor-trailer left Route 9 at Spring Lake Road, near Upper Red Hook, ran some 120 feet through a field and hit a tree.

Dead is Edwin A. Jackson, about 60, of Mechanicville, who was pinned in the cab of the vehicle. He was traveling north at the time, according to Rhinebeck State Police who investigated the accident. The driver apparently lost control of the vehicle as he traveled north. There were no witnesses to the crash.

Coroner Chester H. Golding issued a verdict of accidental death from multiple internal injuries. The Rev. Emele La Houd of Good Shepherd Church, was at the scene. Members of the Red Hook Rescue squad assisted in removing the victim from the truck. His sister, Mrs. Ella Gordon of Mechanicville was notified by state police. The body was removed to the White Funeral Home, Rhinebeck and the truck owned by Beyer Trucking Company, 972 Albany Street, Schenectady, was towed to the Traver Garage in Rhinebeck.

Sunday morning about 7 o'clock a truck driver, Remo Schremin, 36, Cliffside Park, N. J., received minor injuries when his truck tipped over, pinning him underneath at the junction of Route 9 and Route 199, Red Hook. He was pinned for half an hour until released by state police and members of the Red Hook Rescue Squad after the truck was in collision with a passenger car at the junction.

Arthur Maxson, 38, Cheshire, Conn., driver of the car was arrested on a charge of failing to stop at a blinking red light. He was fined $10 by Acting Village Police Justice Smith. Red Hook fire department responded and aided in extricating Schremin whose right leg was caught between the door and truck body as the vehicle tipped over after the collision. X-rays at Rhinebeck Hospital showed no broken bones and only slight injuries.

Impossible To Destroy Press Told

Ex-Saugerties Man on Tour

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev says the Soviet Union has a global rocket that can "hit a fly in outer space" and cannot be destroyed by "any antirocket means."

Khrushchev made the claim near the end of a 2½-hour interview with 13 American editors during which he also stressed that West Berlin is the crux of the East-West dispute and must be settled by getting Western troops out of the city. He set no new deadline for their exit.

Not Boasting Though

"I am not boasting" Khrushchev told the editors in his Kremlin conference room, "but we actually have a global rocket which cannot be destroyed by any antirocket means, and I know, if anyone does, what antirocket means are, because we do have them."

"The high-altitude explosion carried out by the United States will in no way interfere with the action of our global rocket," he declared.

Khrushchev spent 37 minutes emphasizing the importance of the Berlin issue, accusing the Western powers of clinging to West Berlin as a military bridgehead.

"As long as the occupation forces of the U.S., Britain and France remain in West Berlin, they will play the role of an irritant which will raise the temperature in the relations between states," he declared.

Threatens Treaty Again

If the Western troops depart, Khrushchev said, the Soviet Union is willing to join the Allies in a pledge of noninterference with West Berlin life, a guarantee to be "sealed with the seal of the United Nations."

He threatened anew to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany, a move the Russians claim would end Western rights in West Berlin.

"When shall we do it?" he asked. "We shall not hurry, but neither shall we tarry. I will not set any time limit."

Khrushchev repeated his demand that the Western powers agree to a peace treaty with all Germany and leave West Berlin a free, demilitarized city.

"If this question were settled," he said, "we would remove the main obstacle which stands in the way of relaxation of tension and sets us at loggerheads with the U.S., Britain and France."

The interview was released the same day the Soviet Union rejected a U.S.-British-French proposal that four power talks be called in Berlin to try to ease tension caused by shootings along the dividing wall.

Denies Moratorium Break

The premier said the Soviet Union found it necessary to renew nuclear testing last fall because the "U.S. inflamed the atmosphere around West Berlin." He denied that the Soviet Union had broken the test moratorium, insisting the fall series was in reply to American tests that preceded the moratorium.

14 More Counties Desire Drought Aid

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State Disaster Committee today added 14 more counties to the list of drought-stricken counties the committee considers in need of federal assistance. This action raises the total to 24.

The new counties:

Clinton, Columbia, Cortland, Dutchess, Onondaga, Orange, Otsego, Rensselaer, Sullivan, Chemung, Broome, Tioga, Steuben and Madison.

Gov. Rockefeller is expected to endorse the committee's findings shortly and thus open the door for federal aid to farmers in the 14 counties. Rockefeller already has declared the other 10 disaster areas.

Selling Off Stock

An example of complaints about the 10-week-long dry spell came from farmers in Chemung, who said the price of hay was up 50 per cent and some heifers and steers were being sold for lack of feed.

The Weather Bureau's 30-day forecast for mid-July to mid-August indicated continued sub-normal rainfall in the northeastern states.

The committee rejected an application from Niagara County to be included on the list. The application said that the crop situation was not critical now but that farmers anticipated it would be.

To Consider Ulster

Chairman Joseph Sugden said the committee would consider later the applications received from Ontario, Ulster and Jefferson counties.

In order to qualify, an area's rainfall must have been 2½ to 4 inches below normal and its hay production 30 to 60 per cent below normal.

Sugden told reporters growth of all crops in the drought area was off 25 per cent.

Earlier, Daniel M. Dalrymple, assistant state agriculture commissioner, told reporters that "it's been two generations since New York State has had a drought like this."

He said he feared some dairymen might be forced out of business.

Sens. Jacob K. Javits and Kenneth B. Keating sent a telegram to Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman urging prompt federal action on Rockefeller's plea for aid to the stricken counties. The senators said permission to cut hay on the land held in the federal soil bank would aid greatly to relieve the feed shortage. About 800,000 acres in the state are in the soil bank.

Two U.S. Agriculture Department inspectors were appraising the situation here and will report to Freeman.

In addition to the disaster aid, three dairy cooperatives claiming to represent 22,000 Northeastern dairymen asked Freeman in a telegram to raise the farm price of fluid milk in the New York-New Jersey milkshed by $4 million from August through September.

This would represent an increase of 20 cents a hundredweight (46.5 quarts). They now receive $3.58 a hundredweight. The cooperatives are the Metropolitan Cooperative Milk Producers Bargaining Agency, the Dairymen's League and the United Milk Producers of New Jersey.

They said an expected price increase because of the expected reduction in supplies would not compensate farmers adequately for the increases in feed prices and the cost of hauling water to herds.

RAYMOND J. ARMATER

Will Head 1962 Fund Drive for Scout Council

The appointment of Raymond J. Armater of 84 Washington Avenue as chairman of the 1962 fund drive of Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, was announced today by Guy McCorkle of Stone Ridge, Council finance committee chairman.

Serves 3,100 Boys

The drive will seek to raise 1963 operating funds for the Council which serves 3,100 boys in 110 units in Greene and Ulster Counties. It will be held this fall in the towns of Ulster and Greene Counties outside of the Ulster County Community Chest area of Kingston, Saugerties, New Paltz and Rosendale.

Amater, a graduate of Kingston High School, was named in May of this year as new products and programs manager of the International Business Machines Data Systems Division plant in Kingston.

He joined IBM in 1948 in production control at the Poughkeepsie plant. He was transferred to the Kingston plant in late 1954 as manager of production control in early SAGE computer development. Since then he has served in contract negotiations, as contracts manager, and as senior marketing representative in the Kingston Federal Systems Division organization.

Member of Jurors

Armater is a member of the Ulster Grand Jurors Association and Theta Delta Chi fraternity. He received a bachelor of arts degree from Williams College.

He, his wife Wanda and children Elissa, 9, and Raymond, 4, reside at 84 Washington Avenue. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Armater of Route 209, Hurley.

VA Office Here Will Be Closed After Sept. 25

C. W. MacEllven, manager of the Albany Veterans Administration regional office, has announced that the itinerant service currently being furnished every Tuesday at the main post office, here, will be reduced to two visits per month effective August 1 and will be discontinued September 30.

During the months of August and September, F. William Sheehan, contact representative, will be at the main post office on the following dates: August 7 and 21, September 11 and 25.

Must Go to Albany

MacEllven pointed out that records of most veterans residing in the Kingston area are located in the Albany regional office and complete information and assistance may be obtained from that office. All written requests for information will be handled promptly and efficiently.

The Albany regional office is located at 12-16 Russell Road, Albany 1, N. Y.

Files $1 Million Suit For Daughter's Attack

TONAWANDA, N.Y. (AP)—The father of an 18-year-old Buffalo girl, who was allegedly raped by a Tonawanda city policeman April 7, has filed a suit for $1 million damages against the city.

Martin Lazroe charged Monday that the city was negligent in the case and that his daughter, Esther, suffered pain, mental anguish and emotional upset. She claims two policemen stopped her automobile and drove her to a drive-in movie where one of them raped here.

The policemen, Anthony D'Orazio Jr., 26, and James Pickard, 32, have been indicted by an Erie County grand jury and are free in bail, pending trial. D'Orazio was indicted on a charge of rape and Pickard on a charge of second-degree assault with intent to commit a felony.

Both were suspended from the police force.

Pleads Guilty In Dover Plains Robbery of Bank

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y. (AP) —Kenneth D. Graham, 28, of Chicopee, Mass., pleaded guilty today to charges to taking part in the $43,107 robbery of the Dover Plains National Bank in Dover Plains last April 16.

Acting Judge W. Vincent Grady of Dutchess County, set July 31 for sentencing.

Three other defendants in the robbery still are awaiting trial.

Names Committee On Fitness for Kingston Youth

Mayor John J. Schwenk today announced the appointment of a Commission to Promote Physical Fitness Among the Youth of Kingston, and named Lawrence A. Quilty, G. Warren Kias, and Louis H. Schafer as members of the three-man group.

The mayor called attention to national statistics recently quoted by President John F. Kennedy which indicated that 25 per cent of the nation's school children are unable to pass a simple physical fitness test.

Confident of Program

"This is a problem that can only be solved by citizen action at the grass roots level," the mayor declared. "I am confident that these three men, all of whom have demonstrated leadership, community interest, and a knowledge of the specific problem, will be successful in creating a program which will attract widespread citizen participation."

The mayor said that the new commission will work with the City Recreation Department in an advisory capacity, and seek to utilize the facilities of the Department in providing a physical fitness program for Kingston youngsters.

"In times such as these, when our country must be strong in all ways in order to survive," the mayor declared, "it is appalling to know that a large percentage of the young men called upon to serve in the armed forces are physically unfit to defend the nation.

Must Act Now

"Therefore, I believe we must act now for the future health and welfare of our young people, and for the safety of our country by seeking to improve the physical fitness of our children at the local level," the mayor stated.

Quilty is a local insurance agent who served with distinction under General Patton during World War II, and is the father of 10 children. Kias is physical director for the Kingston Consolidated School District, and Schafer is general secretary of the Kingston YMCA.

Red-Geared Army Is Ben Bella Power

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

ALGIERS (AP)—Algeria's Communist-equipped regular army is the ace in the gamble for power by dissident Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella.

It is an army of 45,000 tough, well-trained and determined men with something like a guilty conscience. It won its war of independence without ever fighting a real battle.

Unlike the underground resistance fighters in Algeria's cities, and the guerrilla soldiers who battled the French in the interior, the regular army spent the seven and a half years of war in neighboring Tunisia and Morocco, waiting to go into action.

Force Well Trained

Apart from sporadic attacks on the electrified French defense lines along Algeria's eastern and western borders, the action never came.

While they waited and trained, their chief of staff, Col. Houari Boumedienne, organized them into Communist-style shock troops, complete with political commissars and lectures on the evils of colonialism.

Reds Send Arms

Red China, the Soviet Union and other Communist countries sent money, arms and equipment.

It was the guerrillas of the wilayas—zones — of the interior, fighting with knives and explosives or with arms captured from the enemy, who wore down the French resistance and sacrificed their lives to win independence.

On the eve of independence, Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khdda accused Boumedienne of plotting to use the army to set up a military dictatorship in the new state. Boumedienne was fired and the general staff dissolved, but the army ignored Ben Khedda and continued to obey Boumedienne's orders.

Dislikes West

Ben Bella, advocating a speedy socialist revolution for Algeria and dependence on the Communist world rather than the West, fled from Tunis, accused Ben Khedda of heading an illegal regime and joined forces with Boumedienne and his army.

Ben Khedda's government then asked the French authorities to hold the electrified barriers and keep the rebellious army out of the country at least until the new regime was firmly installed. The French refused, pointing out that the Evian cease-fire accords call for the frontiers to be opened immediately after the July 1 self-determination referendum.

See Forced Terms

Four of the six wilayas, covering the western half of the country, the Sahara in the south and the Aures Mountains in the east, quickly joined forces with the "brothers returning from exile."

Only the autonomous zone of Algiers and the two wilayas immediately east of the capital remained loyal to Ben Khedda. This left the government in control of little more than a coastal strip, barely 60 miles wide, stretching from Algiers eastward to the Tunisian border.

The government forces would be hopelessly outnumbered in a shooting fight. Most observers in Algiers believe Ben Khedda will be forced to come to terms with his enemies.

Coup Is Feared Imminent in Peru As Cabinet Quits

LIMA, Peru (AP) — A military coup was reported imminent today following the resignation of the Peruvian Cabinet because President Manuel Prado refused to bow to the armed forces' demands that he nullify the June 10 national elections.

Premier Carlos Monreyra Paz Soldan and his ministers quit Monday night during a four-hour emergency meeting with Prado. Ex-Finance Minister Alex Zarak told newsmen he expected the armed forces to take power in a day or two.

Lima Is Calm

Word of the Cabinet resignation was received calmly in Lima. The rest of Peru also was reported quiet. Prado went from the Cabinet meeting to a party in his honor given by the diplomatic corps.

The military chiefs have demanded nullification of the national elections in a move to block the possible election to the presidency of Victor Raul Haya de la Torre, candidate of the Popular Revolutionary Alliance—APRA.

Long hated by the military,

Personal Incomes, U. S. Production High in June

By LARRY OSIUS

WASHINGTON (AP)— Personal incomes of Americans and the nation's industrial production advanced in June to record highs.

But the income gains were only half as great as in the previous month. Industrial production rose so slightly as to remain almost on dead center.

The two key economic indicators—expected to be scrutinized closely by President Kennedy as he considers seeking an economy-spurring tax cut this year—were disclosed Monday.

The Commerce Department said personal incomes rose $700 million in June to a record annual rate of $440.4 billion, an increase of $24 billion over June 1961. But the increase was only about half as big as the one registered in May and was substantially smaller than the advances made earlier this year.

The Federal Reserve Board said that industrial production in June struggled upward to a record 117.8 per cent of the 1957 level compared with 117.5 per cent in May. Some economists expressed surprise that it hadn't declined in the face of the stock market plunge and a strike which cut sharply into auto production.

The increase was less than half that recorded in May, and was so small the board said: "Most measures of business activity changed little in June."

The Reserve Board's monthly report showed these items on the minus side:

An 8 per cent decrease in auto production, attributable mostly to a strike at the Ford Motor Co., parts plant at Walton Hills, Ohio, which led to an assembly line shutdown of several days.

An 8 per cent decline in iron and steel production following a 14 per cent drop in May.

A decline in stock prices to a low point in late June.

An increase of one-tenth of 1 per cent in unemployment.

Retail sales off 2 per cent and new car sales down 7 per cent.

On the plus side, the board reported:

Continued increases in production of television sets, furniture, some consumer staples, and commercial and farm machinery.

Generally stable commodity prices.

New advances in construction that boosted residential, commercial and industrial building to a record annual level of $63 billion.

Knifed Self to Get British Justice, Bail-Jumper Soblen Tells High Court

LONDON (AP)—Dr. Robert Soblen told the British high court today he knifed himself aboard a New York-bound airliner for the sole purpose of reaching British soil—and British justice.

In an affidavit supporting his fight against removal to America to face a life sentence as a Soviet spy, Soblen said he had no intention of committing suicide.

"The wound I inflicted on my wrist was longitudinal," he said. "Had I inflicted a circular wound across my wrist, I would have bled to death.

"Similarly, the cut in the abdomen ripped through the skin and belly muscles, but did not penetrate into the abdomen itself."

Soblen said he jumped his $100,000-bail and fled to Israel last month "because I was convinced of my own innocence of the counts against me, and because I felt that justice had not been done to me in the American courts."

"I further hoped that if I were able to enjoy my freedom a little longer, my innocence might be established."

Soblen was brought before the three-judge panel from Brixton Prison on a writ of habeas corpus seeking his release from the custody of the British Home Office. The British government claims he is a deportable alien in the country illegally.

If the court rules in the 62-year-old fugitive's favor, his lawyers plan to press his appeal to the Home Office for asylum as a political refugee. He is suffering from leukemia—incurable cancer of the blood—and his doctors say he has only a few months to live.

Israeli authorities refused to let Soblen stay in Israel and on July 1 put him aboard a chartered airliner bound for New York via Athens and London. With him were an Israeli doctor and U.S. Marshal James McShane.

The judges will decide whether to continue a writ of habeas corpus Soblen's lawyers obtained in a lower court. The British government contends he landed in Britain without permission and has to leave when recovered from the suicide attempt.

If Soblen is freed, he could leave for any foreign port. The espionage charge against him is not extraditable under the extradition treaty between Britain and the United States.

Presumably, however, only a Communist country would accept him since he does not have a valid passport. He made the flight to Israel on a dead brother's Canadian passport.

The committee rejected an application from Niagara County to be included on the list. The application said that the crop situation was not critical now but that farmers anticipated it would be.

To Consider Ulster

Chairman Joseph Sugden said the committee would consider later the applications received from Ontario, Ulster and Jefferson counties.

In order to qualify, an area's rainfall must have been 2½ to 4 inches below normal and its hay production 30 to 60 per cent below normal.

Sugden told reporters growth of all crops in the drought area was off 25 per cent.

Earlier, Daniel M. Dalrymple, assistant state agriculture commissioner, told reporters that "it's been two generations since New York State has had a drought like this."

He said he feared some dairymen might be forced out of business.

Sens. Jacob K. Javits and Kenneth B. Keating sent a telegram to Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman urging prompt federal action on Rockefeller's plea for aid to the stricken counties. The senators said permission to cut hay on the land held in the federal soil bank would aid greatly to relieve the feed shortage. About 800,000 acres in the state are in the soil bank.

Two U.S. Agriculture Department inspectors were appraising the situation here and will report to Freeman.

In addition to the disaster aid, three dairy cooperatives claiming to represent 22,000 Northeastern dairymen asked Freeman in a telegram to raise the farm price of fluid milk in the New York-New Jersey milkshed by $4 million from August through September.

This would represent an increase of 20 cents a hundredweight (46.5 quarts). They now receive $3.58 a hundredweight. The cooperatives are the Metropolitan Cooperative Milk Producers Bargaining Agency, the Dairymen's League and the United Milk Producers of New Jersey.

They said an expected price increase because of the expected reduction in supplies would not compensate farmers adequately for the increases in feed prices and the cost of hauling water to herds.

VA Office Here Will Be Closed After Sept. 25

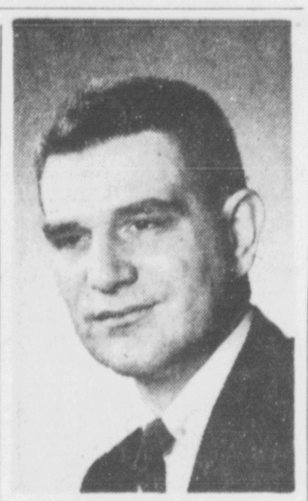

C. W. MacEllven, manager of the Albany Veterans Administration regional office, has announced that the itinerant service currently being furnished every Tuesday at the main post office, here, will be reduced to two visits per month effective August 1 and will be discontinued September 30.

During the months of August and September, F. William Sheehan, contact representative, will be at the main post office on the following dates: August 7 and 21, September 11 and 25.

Must Go to Albany

MacEllven pointed out that records of most veterans residing in the Kingston area are located in the Albany regional office and complete information and assistance may be obtained from that office. All written requests for information will be handled promptly and efficiently.

The Albany regional office is located at 12-16 Russell Road, Albany 1, N. Y.

RAYMOND J. ARMATER

Will Head 1962 Fund Drive for Scout Council

The appointment of Raymond J. Armater of 84 Washington Avenue as chairman of the 1962 fund drive of Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, was announced today by Guy McCorkle of Stone Ridge, Council finance committee chairman.

Serves 3,100 Boys

The drive will seek to raise 1963 operating funds for the Council which serves 3,100 boys in 110 units in Greene and Ulster Counties. It will be held this fall in the towns of Ulster and Greene Counties outside of the Ulster County Community Chest area of Kingston, Saugerties, New Paltz and Rosendale.

Amater, a graduate of Kingston High School, was named in May of this year as new products and programs manager of the International Business Machines Data Systems Division plant in Kingston.

He joined IBM in 1948 in production control at the Poughkeepsie plant. He was transferred to the Kingston plant in late 1954 as manager of production control in early SAGE computer development. Since then he has served in contract negotiations, as contracts manager, and as senior marketing representative in the Kingston Federal Systems Division orgahization.

Member of Jurors

Armater is a member of the Ulster Grand Jurors Association and Theta Delta Chi fraternity. He received a bachelor of arts degree from Williams College.

He, his wife Wanda and children Elissa, 9, and Raymond, 4, reside at 84 Washington Avenue. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Armater of Route 209, Hurley.

Pleads Guilty In Dover Plains Robbery of Bank

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y. (AP) —Kenneth D. Graham, 28, of Chicopee, Mass., pleaded guilty today to charges to taking part in the $43,107 robbery of the Dover Plains National Bank in Dover Plains last April 16.

Acting Judge W. Vincent Grady of Dutchess County, set July 31 for sentencing.

Three other defendants in the robbery still are awaiting trial.

Names Committee On Fitness for Kingston Youth

Mayor John J. Schwenk today announced the appointment of a Commission to Promote Physical Fitness Among the Youth of Kingston, and named Lawrence A. Quilty, G. Warren Kias, and Louis H. Schafer as members of the three-man group.

The mayor called attention to national statistics recently quoted by President John F. Kennedy which indicated that 25 per cent of the nation's school children are unable to pass a simple physical fitness test.

Confident of Program

"This is a problem that can only be solved by citizen action at the grass roots level," the mayor declared. "I am confident that these three men, all of whom have demonstrated leadership, community interest, and a knowledge of the specific problem, will be successful in creating a program which will attract widespread citizen participation."

The mayor said that the new commission will work with the City Recreation Department in an advisory capacity, and seek to utilize the facilities of the Department in providing a physical fitness program for Kingston youngsters.

"In times such as these, when our country must be strong in all ways in order to survive," the mayor declared, "it is appalling to know that a large percentage of the young men called upon to serve in the armed forces are physically unfit to defend the nation.

Must Act Now

"Therefore, I believe we must act now for the future health and welfare of our young people, and for the safety of our country by seeking to improve the physical fitness of our children at the local level," the mayor stated.

Quilty is a local insurance agent who served with distinction under General Patton during World War II, and is the father of 10 children. Kias is physical director for the Kingston Consolidated School District, and Schafer is general secretary of the Kingston YMCA.

Red-Geared Army Is Ben Bella Power

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

ALGIERS (AP)—Algeria's Communist-equipped regular army is the ace in the gamble for power by dissident Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella.

It is an army of 45,000 tough, well-trained and determined men with something like a guilty conscience. It won its war of independence without ever fighting a real battle.

Unlike the underground resistance fighters in Algeria's cities, and the guerrilla soldiers who battled the French in the interior, the regular army spent the seven and a half years of war in neighboring Tunisia and Morocco, waiting to go into action.

Force Well Trained

Apart from sporadic attacks on the electrified French defense lines along Algeria's eastern and western borders, the action never came.

While they waited and trained, their chief of staff, Col. Houari Boumedienne, organized them into Communist-style shock troops, complete with political commissars and lectures on the evils of colonialism.

Reds Send Arms

Red China, the Soviet Union and other Communist countries sent money, arms and equipment.

It was the guerrillas of the wilayas—zones — of the interior, fighting with knives and explosives or with arms captured from the enemy, who wore down the French resistance and sacrificed their lives to win independence.

On the eve of independence, Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khdda accused Boumedienne of plotting to use the army to set up a military dictatorship in the new state. Boumedienne was fired and the general staff dissolved, but the army ignored Ben Khedda and continued to obey Boumedienne's orders.

Dislikes West

Ben Bella, advocating a speedy socialist revolution for Algeria and dependence on the Communist world rather than the West, fled from Tunis, accused Ben Khedda of heading an illegal regime and joined forces with Boumedienne and his army.

Ben Khedda's government then asked the French authorities to hold the electrified barriers and keep the rebellious army out of the country at least until the new regime was firmly installed. The French refused, pointing out that the Evian cease-fire accords call for the frontiers to be opened immediately after the July 1 self-determination referendum.

See Forced Terms

Four of the six wilayas, covering the western half of the country, the Sahara in the south and the Aures Mountains in the east, quickly joined forces with the "brothers returning from exile."

Only the autonomous zone of Algiers and the two wilayas immediately east of the capital remained loyal to Ben Khedda. This left the government in control of little more than a coastal strip, barely 60 miles wide, stretching from Algiers eastward to the Tunisian border.

The government forces would be hopelessly outnumbered in a shooting fight. Most observers in Algiers believe Ben Khedda will be forced to come to terms with his enemies.

Coup Is Feared Imminent in Peru As Cabinet Quits

LIMA, Peru (AP) — A military coup was reported imminent today following the resignation of the Peruvian Cabinet because President Manuel Prado refused to bow to the armed forces' demands that he nullify the June 10 national elections.

Premier Carlos Monreyra Paz Soldan and his ministers quit Monday night during a four-hour emergency meeting with Prado. Ex-Finance Minister Alex Zarak told newsmen he expected the armed forces to take power in a day or two.

Lima Is Calm

Word of the Cabinet resignation was received calmly in Lima. The rest of Peru also was reported quiet. Prado went from the Cabinet meeting to a party in his honor given by the diplomatic corps.

The military chiefs have demanded nullification of the national elections in a move to block the possible election to the presidency of Victor Raul Haya de la Torre, candidate of the Popular Revolutionary Alliance—APRA.

Long hated by the military,

Personal Incomes, U. S. Production High in June

By LARRY OSIUS

WASHINGTON (AP)— Personal incomes of Americans and the nation's industrial production advanced in June to record highs.

But the income gains were only half as great as in the previous month. Industrial production rose so slightly as to remain almost on dead center.

The two key economic indicators—expected to be scrutinized closely by President Kennedy as he considers seeking an economy-spurring tax cut this year—were disclosed Monday.

The Commerce Department said personal incomes rose $700 million in June to a record annual rate of $440.4 billion, an increase of $24 billion over June 1961. But the increase was only about half as big as the one registered in May and was substantially smaller than the advances made earlier this year.

The Federal Reserve Board said that industrial production in June struggled upward to a record 117.8 per cent of the 1957 level compared with 117.5 per cent in May. Some economists expressed surprise that it hadn't declined in the face of the stock market plunge and a strike which cut sharply into auto production.

The increase was less than half that recorded in May, and was so small the board said: "Most measures of business activity changed little in June."

The Reserve Board's monthly report showed these items on the minus side:

An 8 per cent decrease in auto production, attributable mostly to a strike at the Ford Motor Co. parts plant at Walton Hills, Ohio, which led to an assembly line shutdown of several days.

An 8 per cent decline in iron and steel production following a 14 per cent drop in May.

A decline in stock prices to a low point in late June.

An increase of one-tenth of 1 per cent in unemployment.

Retail sales off 2 per cent and new car sales down 7 per cent.

On the plus side, the board reported:

Continued increases in production of television sets, furniture, some consumer staples, and commercial and farm machinery.

Generally stable commodity prices.

Files $1 Million Suit For Daughter's Attack

TONAWANDA, N.Y. (AP)—The father of an 18-year-old Buffalo girl, who was allegedly raped by a Tonawanda city policeman April 7, has filed a suit for $1 million damages against the city.

Martin Lazroe charged Monday that the city was negligent in the case and that his daughter, Esther, suffered pain, mental anguish and emotional upset. She claims two policemen stopped her automobile and drove her to a drive-in movie where one of them raped here.

The policemen, Anthony D'Orazio Jr., 26, and James Pickard, 32, have been indicted by an Erie County grand jury and are free in bail, pending trial. D'Orazio was indicted on a charge of rape and Pickard on a charge of second-degree assault with intent to commit a felony.

Both were suspended from the police force.

HELD IN GIRL'S DEATH—Jean Volukonis, 14, was found dead by hikers in a wooded area near Plymouth Township, Pa. Police at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., said that 20-year-old William Lewis, right, a serviceman home on leave, had admitted he was chasing Jean in the darkness when she plunged over a cliff to her death. Knifed Self to Get British Justice, Bail-Jumper Soblen Tells High Court

LONDON (AP)—Dr. Robert Soblen told the British high court today he knifed himself aboard a New York-bound airliner for the sole purpose of reaching British soil—and British justice.

In an affidavit supporting his fight against removal to America to face a life sentence as a Soviet spy, Soblen said he had no intention of committing suicide.

"The wound I inflicted on my wrist was longitudinal," he said. "Had I inflicted a circular wound across my wrist, I would have bled to death.

"Similarly, the cut in the abdomen ripped through the skin and belly muscles, but did not penetrate into the abdomen itself."

Soblen said he jumped his $100,000 bail and fled to Israel last month "because I was convinced of my own innocence of the counts against me, and because I felt that justice had not been done to me in the American courts."

"I further hoped that if I were able to enjoy my freedom a little longer, my innocence might be established."

Soblen was brought before the three-judge panel from Brixton Prison on a writ of habeas corpus seeking his release from the custody of the British Home Office. The British government claims he is a deportable alien in the country illegally.

If the court rules in the 62-year-old fugitive's favor, his lawyers plan to press his appeal to the Home Office for asylum as a political refugee. He is suffering from leukemia—incurable cancer of the blood—and his doctors say he has only a few months to live.

Israeli authorities refused to let Soblen stay in Israel and on July 1 put him aboard a chartered airliner bound for New York via Athens and London. With him were an Israeli doctor and U.S. Marshal James McShane.

The judges will decide whether to continue a writ of habeas corpus Soblen's lawyers obtained in a lower court. The British government contends he landed in Britain without permission and has to leave when recovered from the suicide attempt.

If Soblen is freed, he could leave for any foreign port. The espionage charge against him is not extraditable under the extradition treaty between Britain and the United States.

Presumably, however, only a Communist country would accept him since he does not have a valid passport. He made the flight to Israel on a dead brother's Canadian passport.

Celebrezze Faces Big Task

New HEW Secretary Sounds As Cautious as Ribicoff

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anthony J. Celebrezze, Cleveland's five-time mayor and President Kennedy's choice for secretary of welfare, sounds cautious, like his Cabinet predecessor, Abraham A. Ribicoff.

But Celebrezze faces a lot of unfinished business that falls into three main fields: federal aid to education, medical care for the aged, and running the huge Department of Health, Education and Welfare with its 70,000 employes.

Considered a Liberal

This 51-year-old lawyer, a strong advocate of civil rights but with a conservative record as mayor, is considered a liberal in Cleveland. He is also an excellent politician, as his five mayoral victories show.

Kennedy associates said a key factor in picking Celebrezze was his reputation as a good administrator.

Celebrezze must have been guided by his caution or his political sense Saturday when, shortly after Kennedy picked him as a member of the Cabinet, reporters asked him his views on the medical care program.

He didn't answer. He said he expected to discuss this with Kennedy and Ribicoff in Washington. This won't make any enemies for him in the Senate, which is expected to confirm him quickly.

Ribicoff, a 52-year-old lawyer who quit the cabinet last Thursday and was then nominated by Connecticut Democrats to run for the Senate, was asked his views on medical care after Kennedy appointed him secretary in 1961 but before the Senate acted on his nomination.

No Enemies Made

Ribicoff, who has called himself a middle-of-the-roader, didn't make any enemies for himself, either.

He was quoted by the Washington Star as saying, "It's a very interesting thing that a careful, thoughtful analysis of the varying positions on the health-care question indicates that some of these groups are not as far apart as they think they are."

That must have been news to groups like the American Medical Association, the AFL-CIO and even the Kennedy administration, which were miles apart on the kind of medical care plan Kennedy had in mind.

Ribicoff was a compromiser—he has been quoted as saying he has a weakness for the "integrity of compromise"—and was willing to compromise on Kennedy's medical care and federal aid to education programs.

Just how much of a compromiser Celebrezze is remains to be shown. But Ribicoff could hardly claim distinction for any fighting he may have done for Kennedy's medical care plan.

JFK's Baby Originally

The medical care bill before the Senate is a greatly watered-down version of what Kennedy asked for. Even if it passes the Senate, it's doubtful the more conservative House will approve.

If it doesn't, Celebrezze will have it on his hands in 1963 or 1964. For Kennedy, who is expected to run again in 1964, can hardly afford to let it die unaided. It was his baby to begin with.

Kennedy's plan of federal aid to education—with none of it going to Roman Catholic schools—is already gathering dust.

The President, a Catholic, offered it in 1961. But it was vigorously attacked by leaders of the Catholic Church, and it got a mixed reception in Congress.

There it lies, dead for this session. No one is even talking of doing anything about it before Congress quits for 1962. Kennedy could let it stay dead for the next two years, too.

If he does it will be another failure his critics can point to in the 1964 campaign, although it's such a sore issue he may think it politically wiser to forget about, at least until after 1964.

If, however, he tries to push it next year, Celebrezze will have to get involved in that also. Celebrezze is a Catholic but if he has taken a stand on Kennedy's federal aid to education program, this writer doesn't know it.

Shortly before he quit the Cabinet, Ribicoff said the welfare department takes in too much territory and should be broken up. That isn't likely any time soon. Meanwhile Celebrezze will have to make it work.

Deaths

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Charles R. L. Halley, 66, emeritus professor of clinical medicine at George Washington University School of Medicine, died Sunday of heart complications. He was a university faculty member from 1927 until retirement last year.

LONDON (AP)—Lord Nelson of Stratford, 75, head of English Electric, one of Britain's most successful exporters of steam, electric, diesel and aircraft equipment, died Monday in the headquarters of the office of the huge company. He joined the firm in 1930 when it had 6,000 employes and helped guide its operation to a combine with some 700,000 employes.

NEW YORK (AP) — "The March of the Cross," a new book by Leonard W. Cowie published by McGraw-Hill Book Company, traces the story of Christianity —in text, illustrations and maps — from the time of St. Paul to the present era of Theologian Reinhold Niebuhr and Evangelist Billy Graham.

REPLACES TENTS—This 32 by 20-foot structure is the prototype of 57 Woodcraft Camp cabins scheduled to be constructed on a 250-acre tract at the famous Culver, Ind., Military Academy. The permanent cabins will replace the tents used during the first 50 years of the program.

Democrats Will Make Selections Here Thursday

Former City Judge Bernard A. Culloton, who had been mentioned by friends as a possible candidate for the newly created position of Family Court Judge, appears to have made a decision not to contend for the office. However the name of former City Judge Aaron E. Klein continues to be mentioned as a possible selection of the Democratic convention next Thursday night at the court house. He would oppose Republican Hugh R. Elwyn who was recommended at the Republican convention last Saturday. Attorney Hubert A. Richter of Kingston is also being mentioned.

Morton E. Gilday, Poughkeepsie attorney, appears to be the choice for Member of Congress. He was recommended last week by the Dutchess County Democrats in convention on Thursday. It is expected the Ulster delegates will follow suit.

Supervisor George Majestic of Gardiner has already announced his candidacy for Member of Assembly to oppose Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, Woodstock Republican who received the Republican nod at Saturday's convention.

Expected to be named as State Senatorial candidate is Joseph Amato, Kingston Bricklayers' union official.

Among the names prominently mentioned for the Democratic designation for sheriff to oppose Sheriff Claude Bell, who received the Republican endorsement on Saturday, is former State Police Sergeant William B. Martin of Kingston.

Martin is the son of the late William B. Martin and a brother of Former Supervisor James Martin of the 12th Ward and is associated with his brother in the Kingston Print Shop on Hurley Avenue.

Martin today announced he would be available as the Democratic candidate when the convention convenes next Thursday.

In addition to recommending candidates for office, the Democratic convention next Thursday evening will name delegates and alternate delegates to the State Convention and the District Judicial Convention.

Ulster County Democratic chairman William Kelly will preside at the convention which has been called for 8 p. m. at the court house.

Modena

MODENA — The annual Modena Firemen's Fair will be held Friday and Saturday nights, July 20 and 21 on the fire department property, east of Modena on Route 44-45. Members of this and nearby communities are urged for equipment for the company.

The date of the donkey baseball game between Modena and Clintondale firemen will be held [illegible]day evening, August 8, at 6:30, on the Modena School grounds. A return engagement will be played at Clintondale.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Three out of four American corporations so far reporting earnings for the first six months did better this year than last. Together the first 200 had net incomes running 20 per cent higher than the 1961 period. And only 16 operated at a loss this year, compared with 23 a year ago.

The increased earnings also contrast, in most instances, with sharply lower prices for the companies' stocks. And dividend payments this year have been running 7 per cent above the like period of 1961. This means that stock bought at current stock prices yields considerably more than a year ago, since earnings and dividends have gained while prices fell.

But business spokesman are quick to point out that earnings this year are being compared to a period in 1961 when the last recession was ending, and that earnings started rising in the latter part of the year, as did stock prices.

Profits in the early months of 1962 were running 13 per cent below the final three months of 1961. And for many stocks the big price drops have been since the December highs, rather than from prices early in 1961.

Still Far From Adequate

Business spokesmen also contend that the level of profits now, although looking bright against that of a year ago, is still far from adequate to assure healthy business activities.

For several years sales totals have risen much faster than profits. This has cut profit margins to a point that many industries call dangerous. This contraction, charged to rising operating costs, in most instances, is said to chill any plans for faster expansion sought by the administration to spur the economic growth rate.

Business is renewing drives to cut costs, speeding automation and trimming waste. It also is clamoring for a tax cut to sweeten net income figures.

But for the first 200 to report (many for fiscal periods ending before June 30) the six months total is $681,491,000, compared with $566,901,000 in the like 1961 period.

Most corporations are yet to be heard from, and the 20 per cent gain may not be the final figure. Steel industry leaders will report later this month. Their earnings were colored by stepped up sales in the first three months by users hedging against a possible strike or price increase, and by sharply lowered production in the second quarter when customers lived off stocks as the strike and price rise threats faded.

Leaders Reporting

Among leading corporations to report so far, profit gains are announced by General Electric, Firestone, General Tire, J. P. Stevens, International Harvester, Curtis Wright, Carrier, Plough, Eli Lilly and Corning Glass. Record six-months earnings are reported by International Business Machines, whose common stock was one of those hard hit in the market break.

Meat packers reporting gains include Armour, Swift, Morrell, Wilson, Hormel. On the lower side its. This has cut profit margins was Cudahy. Shoe companies increasing profits include: U.S. Shoe, Endicott Johnson, International Shoe, Brown shoe, Green Shoe.

Paper companies doing better include Scott, West Virginia Pulp & Paper, Consolidated Paper. Lower earnings are reported by Great Northern Paper.

Also among the 25 per cent of companies having a less profitable six months this year are J.I. Case, Deere, National Tea, Safeway Stores, Celotex.

General economic uncertainty at the moment colors the future profit prospects for many companies. And even those who expect to continue to improve maintain stoutly that the profit margin won't be enough.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JULY 17, 1962

IT'S A STRANGE WORLD

A strange paradox is said to exist in the nation's financial life: Americans are saving too much money.

Some observers, at least, are of this opinion. The complaint is that consumers seem to be more interested in putting their money into the bank than in spending it on goods. This is the reason, say the experts, for sluggish sales in appliances and a long list of other items.

All of this may sound rather strange to a public which for years has been cautioned against the dangers of excessive installment buying.

It will sound ridiculous to millions who are hard put to meet all their many bills each month. To them, a too large savings account is something you dream about.

It may even sound almost "un-American" to a people that has been taught to admire the virtues of thrift and frugality attributed to its ancestors.

The fact is, however, that bank savings as reported by the Federal Reserve have climbed some $2½ billion this year and now total over $32 billion.

Part of this has been caused by the new 4 per cent interest rate approved by the Federal Reserve, which has attracted new depositors. An exodus of some investors out of the stock market and into banks since June's "crashlet" on Wall Street has accentuated the situation.

With more money on their hands, and with more interest due to their depositors, banks in many cases have been hard put to find profitable outlets for investment—ways to put the money to work to earn more money to meet the increased interest rate.

As one result, home mortgage rates have begun to drop and a buyer's market in loans has developed.

The big unanswered question is whether Americans are saving more because they have satisfied their immediate needs for goods, or whether they are refraining from buying things they want in order to save money.

To the average person, the whole thing is in the upper stratosphere of the economic world, one of those mysterious facets of capitalism that the experts argue over.

The problem cannot be ignored, however. For, if some of the experts are right, the very act of building up savings in order to weather a possible business slump may, by causing manufacturers to cut back production, bring about that very slump.

It is expected that there will be 100,000 motels and lodges for auto travelers by the turn of the century. Little is planned for the pedestrian.

Khrushchev says the U. S. capsle didn't either hit the moon. Is he trying to imply that he has observers up there keeping tabs on what arrives?

FORMULA FOR FITNESS

It may be difficult to believe that the kids who play ball down the street, race each other on the beaches and feel that they are not living if they do not own bicycles are not "physically fit." President Kennedy's council on youth fitness says it is true, however, that one fourth of the country's school children cannot pass a minimum test for physical performance.

It just shows that the exercise you like may not be all the exercise you need. In schools where a systematic program of physical education is conducted, the boys and girls generally have greater physical ability and stamina. Where special pilot experiments have been tried, the improvement has been rapid.

This is a field of activity which should not be overlooked, in school or out of school. Physical fitness in children contributes to better health in adults. Moreover, millions of adults in the United States today would benefit by sitting and riding less, by walking and exercising more.

It's nice to hear early birdsong—from a reclining position in bed, that is.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

RACIAL INEQUALITY

I have before me a Complaint filed in the District Court of the United States for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania. It is entitled: Alhajji Talib Ahmad Dawud and Dakota Staton V. Elijah Muhammad and Muhammad's Temple of Islam.

The foregoing plaintiffs assert that they are officers and members of the Muslim Brotherhood which is "dedicated to the propagation of the Islamic Faith and the teaching of the Brotherhood of Man."

In the Complaint, the plaintiffs assert that Elijah Muhammad, "in the name of the Islamic Faith and the Muslim Religion teaches in these various Temples and Mosques 'Racial Inequality,' 'Black Supremacy' and the separation of the Negro people from the American community insofar as it is white; he demands renunciation of loyalty to the United States Government; that Negroes be resettled in States as a separate nation; that they avoid all association with white persons, and that they bear no arms in the service of the United States."

In a word, according to this Complaint, Elijah Muhammad advocates sedition and even treason. This, of course, is a matter for the courts to decide. What the Complaint indicates is that there is a difference of opinion among the Moslems in this country. Why Elijah spells it Muslim, I don't know. Also why he uses the name Muhammad for Mohammed, I also do not know.

What Dawud objects to is that Elijah teaches false doctrines. He says:

". . . these doctrines, if passed off as the Muslim religion, are false, misleading, and a deliberate distortion of the Muslim Faith, directly contrary to the teachings thereof, and designed to mislead the general public into a mistaken belief about Islam, and to cast great discredit upon one of the principal religions of mankind."

The Plaintiffs aver:

"The adherents of the Islamic Faith number in the hundreds of millions, but there is no responsible group of these that advocates 'racial superiority,' 'black supremacy' or similar doctrines: the principal teaching being the Unity of God and the Brotherhood of Man. The followers of Islam are of every race and ethnic origin."

The defendant is an American Negro, Elijah Poole, who claims to be the principal prophet of Islam which puts him on a par with Mohammed who founded the Islamic faith and is reputed to have prepared the Koran. His city, Mecca, is the holy city of his faith, to which Moslems make pilgrimages.

Mohammed was an Arab not a Negro. He lived in the Seventh Century and his religion prevails today among the Arabic nations and in North Africa. There are also important Islamic areas throughout Asia.

Dakota Staton, in her statement, denies that Elijah's ideas are based on the Koran which she spells Quran.

Elijah Poole, although a Negro, is pro-segregationist, on the grounds of black nationalism. In Dawud's statement, he says:

"Islam describes the nature of God the Creator as being unseen: that 'God cannot be seen with the physical eyes . . . He is too subtle to be seen by the eye of man, but He is aware of everything.'

"On the other hand, Elijah describes as God one W. D. Fard, whom he met on a street corner in Detroit in 1934, and who appointed him his 'Messenger' to the black people of North America. If Elijah's pronouncements are true they are on their face antagonistic to the Holy Quran, of which for all Muslims, there is only one in existence."

What undoubtedly is intended here is to say that only one God is in existence. Further, he says:

"Elijah declares all white men to be 'devils,' and claims that all black men who embrace him as the 'Messenger' will be saved at the time of the destruction of the United States, while the 'devils' will be destroyed."

Dawud finally challenges Elijah Poole to debate him. He says:

"I challenge Elijah Poole to a debate on Islam as based on the teachings of the Holy Quran and the life of the Holy Prophet, Muhammad, a debate to be moderated by a person of the same eminence in the theology of Islam as the Honorable Muhammad Zafrullah Khan, Pakistani Ambassador to the United Nations, and former vice-president of the International Court of Justice."

This is an interesting quarrel. Elijah Poole runs contrary to Negro leadership in this country. His opponents have generally been Christians; in this instance, Moslem Negroes oppose him.

Nose, Throat May Cause Foul Taste in Mouth

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I continually have a foul taste in my mouth. Myteeth are in perfect condition. I brush them a million times a day. You once wrote that adenoid drainage may cause bad breath in children. Can this happen to adults, too? My tonsils have been taken out but I do have excessive mucus in my throat at times. Bad breath certainly is no asset to anyone and especially in a 21-year-old girl who is dating boys and making contact with people. I find myself backing away from people all the time. Can't you shed some light on my problem? It is causing me great mental anguish.

A—You're confusing two things. What you call a foul taste is something you notice. Bad breath is noted objectively by some person other than you. I would suggest you determine first if you truly have halitosis, for this condition despite what you see in advertisements, is very rare. To do this, ask some older person you trust to give you a direct answer after testing.

If your suspicion is confirmed, you might then visit a nose and throat specialist for, if the mucus that collects in your throat turns out to be secretion that comes from your sinuses and collects in the back of your throat (postnasal drip), this may be the cause for the bad taste and the foul breath.

However, from the fact that you are "dating boys" and, as you say, "making contacts," it's more than likely that your "mental anguish" is not warranted by the facts.

Q—Do you have a leaflet on what to tell a little boy about the facts of life? My son is now 12 years old. He is very shy and hard to talk to.

A—You may obtain excellent booklets on sex hygiene from the American Medical Association, 535 N. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill. Write first for a complete catalog and then check the titles you want.

Q—Is there a new drug or a new form of treatment that has proved helpful in the care of children with cerebral palsy?

A—Excellent results are being obtained at the Children's Rehabilitation Institute in Reistertown, Md., by Dr. Winthrop M. Phelps, a recognized authority on cerebral palsy, through use of a muscle relaxant drug. The drug is not curative in any sense, of course, but it does permit children to handle their braces more easily and eat, dress and perform their toilet routines with less tension and greater facility. Since the drug requires a prescription and can be given only under doctor's observation, you are best advised to have your physician communicate directly with Dr. Phelps.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Newest status symbol for big bureaucrats in Washington is to have a transparent plastic mat in the office. There aren't very many of them around yet, but wait till the word gets out and the fashion catches on.

Pretty soon you'll be able to tell whether the government official you call on in his spacious diggings really amounts to anything by one simple test.

IT WILL BE whether he has a sheet of quarter-inch thick Plexiglass—say 6x10—under the vast acreage of his flat-top desk and the space behind, where he rolls his $300-and-up, three-way-stretch, swivel-and-ball-bearing-castered, deep-cushioned leather-covered chair when he rises to greet you or bow you out.

No plastic chair mat, as it's called, no big shot.

The evolution of this new badge of prestige is fascinating. First, there was the marble floor, in the old government buildings. Hard on the dogs—and cold. Then there were scatter rugs. Then hardwood flooring. Then parquet flooring. Then more and bigger rugs. Then wall-to-wall carpeting. Only the biggest shots rated wall-to-wall carpets.

BUT WALL-TO-WALL broadloom created other problems. Shuffling the feet uder the desk in nervous irritation wore holes in the rug. Pushing the chair back and pulling it up wore the nap off the carpet and wore down the knee-high pile to the coarse foundation fabric beneath.

This was expensive. For the only way to replace wall-to-wall carpeting is with wall-to-wall carpeting. At $12 a square yard in a 100 to 200-square-yard office, that runs into money.

And a patch on wall-to-wall carpeting, even under a desk, would be a worse loss of face than a patch on the pants.

And so there was invented the fiberboard carpet saver. It was a T-shaped piece of hard-surfaced, brown composition something or other. The stem of the T fitted under the center well of the desk and kept the feet from wearing out the carpet. The head of the T was behind the desk and there the bureaucrat could spend hours of deep thought, rolling his wheeled chariot to and fro or rocking, without wearing out the carpet.

The trouble was, this sheet of brown hardboard looked lousy and it warped, tripping up hurried bureaucrats.

ALL THESE TROUBLES made it inevitable that some genius—he happened to be working for the Delta Division of Air Associates, in Front Worth, Tex. —should get the idea, of putting a sheet of Plexiglass under the desk and chair, over the rug, to save wear and tear. It's transparent.

A 100-square-foot mat, at $1.75 a square foot retail, would cost you-know-what.

Inquiry at General Services Administration discloses that plastic chair mats aren't being stocked as regular equipment yet. But agencies that have special interior decoration funds for fussing-up big-shot offices are permitted to buy extras like objets d' art and spittoons. New fads catch on fast.

Budgeting Approach Seen As Disarmament Answer

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

How can the armament expense of the United States—approaching $50 billion a year—be materially reduced so that an era of business growth and a sound economy can be achieved in America?

The question is more important than a tax cut or any other "gimmick" being advanced as a cure for the stagnant economy of today. For the truth is America cannot absorb the present-day expense for armament and grow productively at the same time. America, in other words, cannot have "guns and butter, too."

Most important is the fact that Moscow has discovered this same truism with respect to the Soviet Union.

The 17-nation conference on disarmament between the East and the West, which has just resumed in Geneva, cannot accomplish much, however, with a formula that calls for nations to abolish their defenses or to stop exploring the merits of new weapons. Nor is there a likelihood that an agreement can be reached to permit inspection. What is more plausible is to find a means of agreeing on the amounts of armament expense as a ratio of national budgets.

Each country — the Soviet Union and the United States will wish to be the judge of how it will spend its own money allocated to defense and what weapons it will produce. But if a budget limitation on arms spending were imposed by mutual understanding between the Soviet Union and the United States, the economic development on each side would be stimulated, and there would be a greater opportunity to improve the standard of living of peoples and to stimulate a return to a natural economy.

Khrushchev Worried

Premier Khrushchev is worried about his economic troubles. He blames the armament expense for his failure to carry out promises to the people. He cries out that Western countries are driving him into spending more and more for military purposes. He says unequivocally that, if it weren't for the threat from the West, he would be able to employ more of the national budget of the Soviet Union for better housing, for better transportation, and for more aids to agriculture and industry.

Moscow needs an agreement on reduction of armament even more than does the United States. But the American people, like the Russian people, would like to see armament reduced primarily because they have been taught to believe that the mere existence of powerful instruments of war can lead to war.

The truth is that, since the deadlines of nuclear weapons has been convincingly demonstrated on both sides, the movement to limit or reduce armament has taken on considerable impetus, though not enough to bring an effective international agreement. Before long a different and perhaps almost as powerful a stimulus may come from a calm consideration of the threat to economic stability which can arise inside the Soviet Union, as well as inside the United States, if armament expense isn't substantially reduced.

No formula has as yet been advanced by either side in the international conferences that gives any promise of an agreement. Each side is afraid of the other. The argument has long turned on "inspection," but no procedure or mechanism has been devised thus far that will satisfy both sides. An agreement on budget limitation, however, involves a different approach. The amounts of money spent are much more readily ascertained and verified than the facts concerning the location of mobile weapons at any given time.

It could be that, once a mutual agreement to limit and reduce expense is attained and proves satisfactory for a period of time, other provisions for armament reduction can then be taken up and possibly approved on a trial basis.

One thing is clear — neither side dares to disarm completely. Public opinion would not approve of such a policy either in the Soviet Union or in the United States. Neither side can afford, moreover, to give up its scientific research for better and less-expensive weapons. But each government can agree, in its own self-interest, to cut down on spending for armament.

Maintenance Problem

The zenith of destructive power has been reached. The problem now is one of maintenance, which certainly should not be as expensive as the sums paid out during the last nine years to attain what now may be called the saturation point in national security.

International agreements are rarely arrived at by powers of persuasion or by emotional appeals. They are made possible, as a rule, only when they become of direct benefit to both sides. The common obligation today is to economize on armament spending so that more funds can be devoted to bettering the lives of the respective peoples on both sides of the Iron Curtain. This would make possible, too, a reduction of tensions in the "cold war" and would give the normal processes of trade a chance to expand. For individuals—a growing number of consumers—would have more to spend for an improving standard of living. It is today the key to a business revival in the United States.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

MARYVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Dwellers in the Great Smoky Mountains will long remember Charlie Garland.

They just don't build hillbillies anymore like Charlie, who was known in his heyday as "The Iron Man of the Mountains."

Legend Among Hill People

Charlie became a legend among the hill people by one feat. He bought a cookstove at a hardware store here, heisted it onto his back and carried it 29 miles across a winding stony trail to his home without once setting it down.

The term "hillbilly" may carry a note of ridicule in the effete cities, but here in the home of the Southern highlander it is used with an affectionate respect based on admiration for the virile qualities of the men who long ago settled in these haze-covered mountains.

The traditions of the sturdy highlanders were celebrated here over the weekend in the 10th National Hillbilly Homecoming, a regional festival that now draws spectators and participants from a 20-state area.

The community here simply turns the clock back a generation or two for three days. Long beards and black mountain hats suddenly bloom everywhere.

Everyone gorges on country ham and red eye gravy, or fried fish and hush puppies, and has a fine old nostalgic gallus-snappin' time. The nights ring with Elizabethan ballads, country music, and even the black bears creep down from the star-crowned hills to listen to the haunting strains of dulcimer, lute and fiddle.

But this annual festival celebrates a way of life that is passing among a people that formerly clung most stubbornly to the folklore of their forebears.

Great Changes In Lifetime

Great changes have come within less than the span of a lifetime.

Their natural beauty has turned the Great Smokies into one of the nation's favorite resort areas. New roads and skeletal steel power lines have destroyed the isolation of the mountaineer and brought him civilization's boons—electric lights, air conditioning, refrigeration, and television.

A chronicler of these changes, Norma Wilson, who with her husband operates one of the best known restaurants in the hill country, is a bit wistful over the swiftness of the transition.

"Mountain talk is gradually dying out," she said, "but mountain people still have the good qualities inherited from their forefathers.

"They're sincere, independent, and proud, and they'll do anything for you. They stick together, and they take care of their own. Some old-timers think public welfare is ruining the mountains.

Perhaps the most striking contrast between the old and the new in mountain life is this fact: The daughter of one of the most celebrated old moonshiners recently graduated as valedictorian of her high school class.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JULY 17, 1962

IT'S A STRANGE WORLD

A strange paradox is said to exist in the nation's financial life: Americans are saving too much money.

Some observers, at least, are of this opinion. The complaint is that consumers seem to be more interested in putting their money into the bank than in spending it on goods. This is the reason, say the experts, for sluggish sales in appliances and a long list of other items.

All of this may sound rather strange to a public which for years has been cautioned against the dangers of excessive installment buying.

It will sound ridiculous to millions who are hard put to meet all their many bills each month. To them, a too large savings account is something you dream about.

It may even sound almost "un-American" to a people that has been taught to admire the virtues of thrift and frugality attributed to its ancestors.

The fact is, however, that bank savings as reported by the Federal Reserve have climbed some $2½ billion this year and now total over $32 billion.

Part of this has been caused by the new 4 per cent interest rate approved by the Federal Reserve, which has attracted new depositors. An exodus of some investors out of the stock market and into banks since June's "crashlet" on Wall Street has accentuated the situation.

With more money on their hands, and with more interest due to their depositors, banks in many cases have been hard put to find profitable outlets for investment—ways to put the money to work to earn more money to meet the increased interest rate.

As one result, home mortgage rates have begun to drop and a buyer's market in loans has developed.

The big unanswered question is whether Americans are saving more because they have satisfied their immediate needs for goods, or whether they are refraining from buying things they want in order to save money.

To the average person, the whole thing is in the upper stratosphere of the economic world, one of those mysterious facets of capitalism that the experts argue over.

The problem cannot be ignored, however. For, if some of the experts are right, the very act of building up savings in order to weather a possible business slump may, by causing manufacturers to cut back production, bring about that very slump.

It is expected that there will be 100,000 motels and lodges for auto travelers by the turn of the century. Little is planned for the pedestrian.

Khrushchev says the U. S. capsle didn't either hit the moon. Is he trying to imply that he has observers up there keeping tabs on what arrives?

FORMULA FOR FITNESS

It may be difficult to believe that the kids who play ball down the street, race each other on the beaches and feel that they are not living if they do not own bicycles are not "physically fit." President Kennedy's council on youth fitness says it is true, however, that one fourth of the country's school children cannot pass a minimum test for physical performance.

It just shows that the exercise you like may not be all the exercise you need. In schools where a systematic program of physical education is conducted, the boys and girls generally have greater physical ability and stamina. Where special pilot experiments have been tried, the improvement has been rapid.

This is a field of activity which should not be overlooked, in school or out of school. Physical fitness in children contributes to better health in adults. Moreover, millions of adults in the United States today would benefit by sitting and riding less, by walking and exercising more.

It's nice to hear early birdsong—from a reclining position in bed, that is.

RACIAL INEQUALITY

I have before me a Complaint filed in the District Court of the United States for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania. It is entitled: Alhajji Talib Ahmad Dawud and Dakota Staton V. Elijah Muhammad and Muhammad's Temple of Islam.

The foregoing plaintiffs assert that they are officers and members of the Muslim Brotherhood which is "dedicated to the propagation of the Islamic Faith and the teaching of the Brotherhood of Man."

In the Complaint, the plaintiffs assert that Elijah Muhammad, "in the name of the Islamic Faith and the Muslim Religion teaches in these various Temples and Mosques 'Racial Inequality,' 'Black Supremacy' and the separation of the Negro people from the American community insofar as it is white; he demands renunciation of loyalty to the United States Government; that Negroes be resettled in States as a separate nation; that they avoid all association with white persons, and that they bear no arms in the service of the United States."

In a word, according to this Complaint, Elijah Muhammad advocates sedition and even treason. This, of course, is a matter for the courts to decide. What the Complaint indicates is that there is a difference of opinion among the Moslems in this country. Why Elijah spells it Muslim, I don't know. Also why he uses the name Muhammad for Mohammed, I also do not know.

What Dawud objects to is that Elijah teaches false doctrines. He says:

". . . these doctrines, if passed off as the Muslim religion, are false, misleading, and a deliberate distortion of the Muslim Faith, directly contrary to the teachings thereof, and designed to mislead the general public into a mistaken belief about Islam, and to cast great discredit upon one of the principal religions of mankind."

The Plaintiffs aver:

"The adherents of the Islamic Faith number in the hundreds of millions, but there is no responsible group of these that advocates 'racial superiority,' 'black supremacy' or similar doctrines: the principal teaching being the Unity of God and the Brotherhood of Man. The followers of Islam are of every race and ethnic origin."

The defendant is an American Negro, Elijah Poole, who claims to be the principal prophet of Islam which puts him on a par with Mohammed who founded the Islamic faith and is reputed to have prepared the Koran. His city, Mecca, is the holy city of his faith, to which Moslems make pilgrimages.

Mohammed was an Arab not a Negro. He lived in the Seventh Century and his religion prevails today among the Arabic nations and in North Africa. There are also important Islamic areas throughout Asia.

Dakota Staton, in her statement, denies that Elijah's ideas are based on the Koran which she spells Quran.

Elijah Poole, although a Negro, is pro-segregationist, on the grounds of black nationalism. In Dawud's statement, he says:

"Islam describes the nature of God the Creator as being unseen: that 'God cannot be seen with the physical eyes . . . He is too subtle to be seen by the eye of man, but He is aware of everything.'

"On the other hand, Elijah describes as God one W. D. Fard, whom he met on a street corner in Detroit in 1934, and who appointed him his 'Messenger' to the black people of North America. If Elijah's pronouncements are true they are on their face antagonistic to the Holy Quran, of which for all Muslims, there is only one in existence."

What undoubtedly is intended here is to say that only one God is in existence. Further, he says:

"Elijah declares all white men to be 'devils,' and claims that all black men who embrace him as the 'Messenger' will be saved at the time of the destruction of the United States, while the 'devils' will be destroyed."

Dawud finally challenges Elijah Poole to debate him. He says:

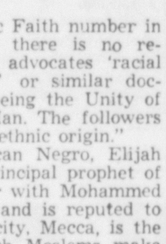

"I challenge Elijah Poole to a debate on Islam as based on the teachings of the Holy Quran and the life of the Holy Prophet, Muhammad, a debate to be moderated by a person of the same eminence in the theology of Islam as the Honorable Muhammad Zafrullah Khan, Pakistani Ambassador to the United Nations, and former vice-president of the International Court of Justice."

This is an interesting quarrel. Elijah Poole runs contrary to Negro leadership in this country. His opponents have generally been Christians; in this instance, Moslem Negroes oppose him.

Khrushchev Worried

Premier Khrushchev is worried about his economic troubles. He blames the armament expense for his failure to carry out promises to the people. He cries out that Western countries are driving him into spending more and more for military purposes. He says unequivocally that, if it weren't for the threat from the West, he would be able to employ more of the national budget of the Soviet Union for better housing, for better transportation, and for more aids to agriculture and industry.

Moscow needs an agreement on reduction of armament even more than does the United States. But the American people, like the Russian people, would like to see armament reduced primarily because they have been taught to believe that the mere existence of powerful instruments of war can lead to war.

The truth is that, since the deadlines of nuclear weapons has been convincingly demonstrated on both sides, the movement to limit or reduce armament has taken on considerable impetus, though not enough to bring an effective international agreement. Before long, a different and perhaps almost as powerful a stimulus may come from a calm consideration of the threat to economic stability which can arise inside the Soviet Union, as well as inside the United States, if armament expense isn't substantially reduced.

No formula has as yet been advanced by either side in the international conferences that gives any promise of an agreement. Each side is afraid of the other. The argument has long turned on "inspection," but no procedure or mechanism has been devised thus far that will satisfy both sides. An agreement on budget limitation, however, involves a different approach. The amounts of money spent are much more readily ascertained and verified than the facts concerning the location of mobile weapons at any given time.

It could be that, once a mutual agreement to limit and reduce expense is attained and proves satisfactory for a period of time, other provisions for armament reduction can then be taken up and possibly approved on a trial basis.

One thing is clear — neither side dares to disarm completely. Public opinion would not approve of such a policy either in the Soviet Union or in the United States. Neither side can afford, moreover, to give up its scientific research for better and less-expensive weapons. But each government can agree, in its own self-interest, to cut down on spending for armament.

Maintenance Problem

The zenith of destructive power has been reached. The problem now is one of maintenance, which certainly should not be as expensive as the sums paid out during the last nine years to attain what now may be called the saturation point in national security.

International agreements are rarely arrived at by powers of persuasion or by emotional appeals. They are made possible, as a rule, only when they become of direct benefit to both sides. The common obligation today is to economize on armament spending so that more funds can be devoted to bettering the lives of the respective peoples on both sides of the Iron Curtain. This would make possible, too, a reduction of tensions in the "cold war" and would give the normal processes of trade a chance to expand. For individuals—a growing number of consumers—would have more to spend for an improving standard of living. It is today the key to a business revival in the United States.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

MARYVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Dwellers in the Great Smoky Mountains will long remember Charlie Garland.

They just don't build hillbillies anymore like Charlie, who was known in his heyday as "The Iron Man of the Mountains."

Legend Among Hill People

Charlie became a legend among the hill people by one feat. He bought a cookstove at a hardware store here, heisted it onto his back and carried it 29 miles across a winding stony trail to his home without once setting it down.

The term "hillbilly" may carry a note of ridicule in the effete cities, but here in the home of the Southern highlander it is used with an affectionate respect based on admiration for the virile qualities of the men who long ago settled in these haze-covered mountains.

The traditions of the sturdy highlanders were celebrated here over the weekend in the 10th National Hillbilly Homecoming, a regional festival that now draws spectators and participants from a 20-state area.

The community here simply turns the clock back a generation or two for three days. Long beards and black mountain hats suddenly bloom everywhere.

Everyone gorges on country ham and red eye gravy, or fried fish and hush puppies, and has a fine old nostalgic gallus-snappin' time. The nights ring with Elizabethan ballads, country music, and even the black bears creep down from the star-crowned hills to listen to the haunting strains of dulcimer, lute and fiddle.

But this annual festival celebrates a way of life that is passing among a people that formerly clung most stubbornly to the folklore of their forebears.

Great Changes in Lifetime

Great changes have come within less than the span of a lifetime.

Their natural beauty has turned the Great Smokies into one of the nation's favorite resort areas. New roads and skeletal steel power lines have destroyed the isolation of the mountaineer and brought him civilization's boons—electric lights, air conditioning, refrigeration, and television.

A chronicler of these changes, Norma Wilson, who with her husband operates one of the best known restaurants in the hill country, is a bit wistful over the swiftness of the transition.

"Mountain talk is gradually dying out," she said, "but mountain people still have the good qualities inherited from their forefathers.

"They're sincere, independent, and proud, and they'll do anything for you. They stick together, and they take care of their own. Some old-timers think public welfare is ruining the mountains.

Perhaps the most striking contrast between the old and the new in mountain life is this fact: The daughter of one of the most celebrated old moonshiners recently graduated as valedictorian of her high school class.

New Supermarket Plans Announced By Big V Corp.

Plans for opening a Shop-Rite Supermarket in the Poughkeepsie area have been announced by William Rosenberg, president of Big V Supermarkets Inc.

The firm president said that the plans call for floor space of 30,000 square feet. The store will feature a complete food market in addition to some soft goods and hardware and a complete pharmacy.

The Big V Corp. is the parent firm of Shop-Rite Supermarkets with markets in Kingston and Newburgh.

Rosenberg confirmed a report in which Edmund Lloyd, of Middletown, president of Lloyd's Shopping Center Inc., said discussions have been entered for a possible merger with Shop-Rite markets.

The new store site probably will be in the Town of Poughkeepsie near the easterly line of the City of Poughkeepsie.

Oneida Girl, 5, Is Fire Victim

ONEIDA, N.Y. (AP) — Emma Ruth Chafee, 5, died Monday in a fire in her home that may have been started by children playing with matches, a fire official said.

Six other children of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Chafee escaped from the one-story frame building with the aid of neighbors. The children ranged in age from 2 to 16.

Fire Chief John Myers said the fire started in a closet in a bedroom where the girl was napping. Thick smoke filled the room in which the fire was confined. Death was attributed to asphyxiation.

The parents were at work at the time.

35 Units, 14 Bands

Divisions Are Listed For Vols' Parade Saturday, July 28

The annual Firemen's Parade held in conjunction with the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's convention, being held this year at Esopus, will take place Saturday, July 28, promptly at 5 p. m. at Port Ewen. The parade, which will bring to a conclusion the annual session, promises to be one of the largest and most colorful in years.

Thirty-five fire companies have signed up to participate in the parade and there will be 14 musical organizations in line.

Open to Others

It was announced today that additional fire companies may participate in the parade, however their names will not appear on the program and they will take up a position at the rear of the third division.

The parade will form on Clay Road south of Port Ewen, off Route 9W and all companies must be in line at 4:30 p. m. Saturday and the signal to start the march will be sounded promptly at 5 p. m.

It has been requested that no sirens be sounded by drivers of apparatus during the progress of the parade.

Meeting July 27

A business meeting will be held at Esopus firehouse on Friday evening at which time officers will be elected and other business transacted. Chief Oscar Lambert promises all visiting firemen a good time.

The convention will open with the annual banquet Thursday evening, July 26, at New Paltz American Legion Home on Route 32. There will be no tickets available at the door since the capacity of the hall, 300 guests, has been reached in advance ticket sales.

Time for serving at the banquet will be 7 p. m. promptly and entertainment will follow the dinner.

At the head of the parade will be the 40 and 8 American Legion Colors. The reviewing stand will be at the Town of Esopus Municipal Building in Port Ewen.

There will be three divisions in the parade with the companies lined up as follows:

First Division

Esopus Fire Department with band.
Connelly Fire Department.
Port Ewen Fire Department with band.
St. Remy Fire Department.
Rifton Fire Department with band.

Pa. Declares 17 Disaster Areas

HARRISBURG (AP)—The state has declared 17 more drought-plagued counties as emergency disaster areas and asked the U.S. Agriculture Department to do the same.

Meanwhile, State Agriculture Secretary William L. Henning reported that more counties are being considered as possible disaster areas.

Three days ago U.S. Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman approved special drought aid for farmers in 22 of the state's 67 counties.

Included in Monday's request by Gov. Lawrence were these counties: Bedford, Berks, Blair, Clinton, Cumberland, Franklin, Huntingdon, Columbia, Indiana, Juniata, Lycoming, Luzerne, Mifflin, Perry Pike, Potter and Schuylkill.

The request followed another special meeting of the state's USDA disaster committee.

The weather bureau could offer no hope of immediate relief as the dry spell parching the Commonwealth moved into its 10th consecutive week.

Light showers are predicted in many areas of the state this week but are not expected to provide effective relief from the dry conditions.

Freeman has granted farmers in 22 counties authority to cut hay and graze cattle on pastures now held in reserve under the soil bank program until Aug. 31.

However, Freeman has deferred action on the possibility of allowing emergency low-cost loans for farm operating expenses and feed purchases.

Contest of Will Is Settled in Court

After two days trial before Surrogate Francis X. Tucker and a jury, the will contest action brought by Edward Kloeber Jr. of Elmhurst, L. I., was settled, objections withdrawn and the will of the late Edward F. Kloeber was admitted to probate. The estate of Edward F. Kloeber, retired eye doctor who resided at West Shokan, was reported to be substantial.

The will was contested by his son, Edward K. Kloeber Jr., on the grounds of testamentary capacity and undue influence at the time of the making of the will. Contestant was a son of deceased by a prior marriage and the proponent of the will was the wife of decedent, Minnie Kloeber of West Shokan.

Howard R St. John was attorney of record for proponent with Charles Gaffney as trial counsel and Napoletano, Kelly and Saccoman for contestants with Guido J. Napoletano as trial counsel.

Wait to Quiz Patient In Fatal Stabbing

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A 25-year-old former mental patient who was subdued by police gunbuts lay under guard in a hospital today as detectives waited to question him in the fatal stabbing of a friend.

The dead man, Juan Reyes, 31, was slain with a butcher knife Monday night in the apartment of Ruben Rodrigues. Detectives said the two were drinking beer and playing records and the stabbing apparently followed an argument over how loud to play the records.

Rodrigues fled the apartment, detectives said, and went to the apartment of a cousin where he held off five patrolmen with a razor blade in a brief desperate struggle before he was knocked unconscious.

Two patrolmen, Joseph Berso, 39, and Louis M. Genovese, 33, were stabbed. Both were treated at Genesee Hospital and released.

Police said Rodrigues tried to slash himself in the chest with the razor blade during the struggle.

He was listed in fair condition at Strong Memorial Hospital.

No charges were filed immediately.

Son of Pulaski Mayor Drowns at Outing

PULASKI, N.Y. (AP) — The eight-year-old son of Pulaski's mayor was drowned Monday while on an outing sponsored by the Pulaski and Richland recreation departments and a school district.

The boy, Ronald Stowell, disappeared while swimming in about five feet of water in Sandy Island Pond, about three miles west of this Oswego County village.

About 150 children were at the pond under the supervision of three lifeguards and four other adults.

One of the supervisors said a boy who had been with Ronald came out of the water and reported that Ronald apparently had gone under. All of the children were summoned from the lake and a search begun. His body was found about 20 minutes later.

Mayor Kenneth Stowell and his wife have two daughters and a nine-year-old son.

Child Health Clinic

A child health conference, conducted by the Ulster County Health Department will be held at the Tumor Clinic Building, 400 Broadway, Tuesday, July 24 from 9 to 10 a. m. These clinics are limited to infant and pre-school children for the purpose of improving child health through early recognition of defects, advice regarding nutrition, instruction of parents in understanding of growth and development, handling of minor behavior difficulties and the administering of immunizations for smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough and polio.

To Decide on Chutists

A Dutchess County justice of the peace will decide Thursday whether two men accused by State Police of illegal parachute jumping at Stormville Airport, will go to trial. Justice of the Peace Ralph Warren, Town of East Fishkill, has been asked by defense counsel to dismiss the charges against James K. Shuttleworth, 21, Bedford Hills and G. Hadden Wood Jr., 29, of Greenwich, Conn.

Hunt Brothers Circus Coming Here Aug. 13th

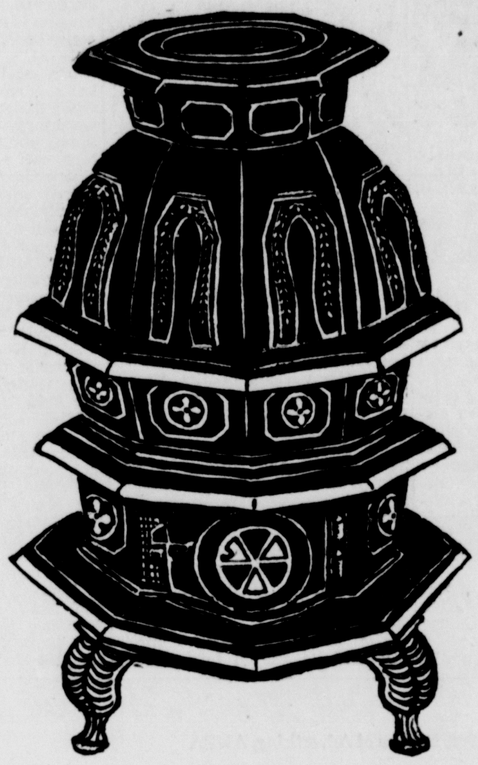

Monday, Aug. 13, will be circus day in Kingston, when Kingston's own circus, Hunt Brothers, will return to this city for an afternoon and evening performance.

It was almost a century ago that the late Charles T. Hunt, son of a well-known stage owner in Kingston, decided to organize a real American circus—and for the ensuing years the Hunt Circus has toured the United States and become one of the largest circuses on the road today.

Now managed by two sons of the original owner, Charles and Harry Hunt, the Hunt Brothers Circus will move into Dietz Stadium on Sunday, August 12. This custom of coming in on a weekend was instituted by the late Charles T. Hunt to give him the opportunity to visit with his old friends in Kingston—and the sons have carried on this tradition. Visitors are welcome on the lot on Sunday.

Performances on Monday, Aug. 13, will be at 2 and 8 p. m., with doors opening at 1 and 7 p. m.

The 1962 version of the circus is billed as the "Royal International Circus" and features an enlarged animal section as well as the famous Hunt Bros. performing elephants.

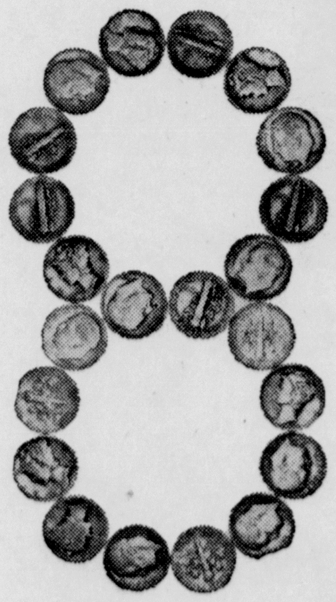

Perhaps your heating installation is not as antiquated as a potbellied stove, but — it may be closer to it than you think. You might consider a new, efficient oil burner installation. Over a period of years, the economy you'll receive will more than offset the initial cost.

White Qualifies As Astronaut in A Winged Craft

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Air Force Maj. Robert M. White flew the X15 to an altitude record estimated as at least 54 miles today, becoming the first to qualify as an astronaut in a winged craft.

Unofficial radio reports during the flight indicated that White soared higher than 285,000 feet. The old altitude mark was 246,700 feet.

Any flight 50 miles or higher qualifies the voyager as an astronaut. White would be the fifth American entitled to wear the space wings. The others are Mercury capsule spaceman Alan R. Shepard Jr., Virgil I. Grissom, John H. Glenn Jr. and Malcolm Scott Carpenter.

At higher altitudes, White was flying almost automatically, using an electronic brain that functions in either space or the atmosphere. It senses deviations from normal flight and makes corrections faster than a pilot can react.

At the peak of his arc White coasted weightless for three minutes, a full minute longer than any X15 pilot has experienced before.

Then he plummeted down from the edge of space to perform tests that were the real purpose of the flight. Re-entering the earth's thicker atmosphere, he pulled the steel-skinned sky dart's nose 23 degrees higher than its tail, falling spread-eagle style to slow descent — a maneuver future space ships may employ.

He then went into a conventional glide for his landing approach. But because he went higher than expected, he had to make an unscheduled hard right turn to slow his speed before landing at a dry lake bed at this desert test center.

He landed at 9:42 a. m. after 10 minutes in the air.

White's voice reflected strain from the force of gravity as he made the sharp bank. He reportedly experienced stress about six times the force of gravity.

White was dropped from beneath the wing of a B52 bomber over Delmar, Nev., 60 miles northwest of Las Vegas and 220 miles from here.

Holding his 57,000-pound-thrust engine wide open for 80 seconds, he went into the steepest climb yet attempted by an X15—41 degrees. Momentum carried him to peak altitude.

$19.7 Railroad Yard Planned In Selkirk Area

NEW YORK (AP)—A $19.7 million electronic classification yard at Selkirk, N.Y., would be part of a $70 million capital expansion program if the Pennsylvania and New York Central Railroads merge.

Officials of the two lines, outlining plans, told of the Selkirk facility near Albany today. It would serve the New York and New England areas.

BIGGEST REACH

99 Million Consumers Read a Daily Newspaper Each Weekday

These readers make up the largest audience available to any advertiser in any medium. A recent study* of this national newspaper audience shows that it includes 80 per cent of all men and women over 21... and 72 per cent of all teen-agers, age 15 and over. This huge and consistent readership can be depended upon by advertisers because the daily newspaper is a habit with most people... an established part of their everyday lives. For the national advertiser, this amounts to almost the total market for any product. For the local advertiser, this massive readership symbolizes the local reach of his own local newspaper—into almost 9 out of 10 homes every day. No matter what the product or service an advertiser wants to sell, more people can read about it in the pages of the daily newspaper.

Political Satire

NEW YORK (AP)—A 22-year war between two mythical nations is the topic of Rick Besoyan's second musical, "The Student Gypsy or the Prince of Liederkranz."

Besoyan, who sired the book, music and lyrics of the highly successful "Little Mary Sunshine," is repeating the triple stint in the new venture that is aiming at Broadway debut early in 1963.

The political satire, says the author, is "75 per cent music and 25 per cent dialogue."

U.S. newspapers use more than seven million tons of newsprint annually.

Political Satire

NEW YORK (AP)—A 22-year war between two mythical nations is the topic of Rick Besoyan's second musical, "The Student Gypsy or the Prince of Liederkranz."

Besoyan, who sired the book, music and lyrics of the highly successful "Little Mary Sunshine," is repeating the triple stint in the new venture that is aiming at Broadway debut early in 1963.

The political satire, says the author, is "75 per cent music and 25 per cent dialogue."

U.S. newspapers use more than seven million tons of newsprint annually.

Shokan

SHOKAN — Patrick Kelly, Inwood, L. I., is here for a vacation. Mrs. Kelly and three daughters are at the family summer home in the west end for the season.

Isaac Jones, Gill Street, Kingston resident who was brought up at Ashokan was a caller in the village Thursday. He reports that his son, H. C. Jones is home on leave from the U. S. Navy. The young man was stationed aboard the US.S. Intrepid when the big carrier picked up Astronaut Carpenter following his three times circling of the globe.

The flowline of both east and west basins of the Ashokan Reservoir was approximately at the 578 foot elevation as of Friday. This is pretty good considering the long drought and the sadly depleted state of the west basin early in the Spring. The normal flowline for east and west basins is 590 and 587 feet, respectively.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rohm and Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson, Brooklyn residents, were numbered among the many out of town people visiting the local free museum Thursday. They have summer quarters in the upper Woodland Valley.

Callers here Thursday included Mr. and Mrs. George Brake, also Rebecca and Georgianna Brake, of the Mohonk Lake area. They have the old Stokes house, built by early settlers of the name over there. Accompanying the Brakes were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fordyce of Shannock, R. I.

The Ashokan Reservoir, a mile south of Shokan, continues to be a stellar attraction for tourists. Back in 1916 it was a novelty for Ulster County people as well. The Freeman's representative here touched on the subject under date of July 22, 1916: "The new aeration basin attracts a great deal of attention. Why go out West to see geysers and so forth when we have such a wonderful sight in our own town?. . . Millions of small fish have invaded the reservoir and they appear to run in schools. The big fellows are biting very well along shore.

Mr. and Mrs. John McKenna, Grahamsville, were local callers Tuesday.

Here Thursday was Mrs. Earl Decker, Raymond Avenue, Poughkeepsie, who was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. James Kennaugh, and the latter's children of Milburn, N. J. Mr. and Mrs. Decker are building a house on pare of the Anderson property at Shady.

Birthdays falling July 14 include that of Mrs. Spencer Jones, former Ashokan resident who with her husband now makes her home near that of the couple's elder daughter, Mrs. Alonzo Davis of Olive Bridge. Mrs. Jones before marriage was Catherine Elliot of the Lomontville area.

Delaware County young people in town Thursday were Mr. and Mrs. Alan Mardel, newlyweds of Fleischmanns.

Donald Brodhead, Kingston, was a caller in the hub of the reservoir country Thursday.

South Olive people over this way Wednesday included Marguerite Singer of Samsonville Hille Road, and her niece, Marguerite Guiditta, Westfield, N. J. Mrs. Singer, a registered nurse, is currently employed at Benedictine Hospital.

Majestic's Suggestion

The passage of the School Bond assures a construction program for additional classroom space. However, the satisfaction felt by the Board must be tempered by the facts that is is only one step toward the program originally outlined for the District.

Analysis of the voters shows that the $610,000 Bond Issue was endorsed by less than 50% of those who went to the polls. A total of 1396 votes were cast, with 1371 registered and 25 void. The Bond Issue passed by nine votes — 690 to 681. The point is that the people appear to be still evenly divided on the question of one school or two.

The Chairman of the Independent Citizens Committee on Education states in the July 3rd issue of the New Paltz Independent—"The majority of our members agreed that two elementary schools would best serve the District's needs. All things considered, we still do agree to this and called for the acquisition of a site south of New Paltz in the near future."

As matters now stand, within a few years the voters will be called upon to pass on another bond issue for construction of an elementary school south of New Paltz, although (as the Board stated) two schools could be built concurrently at a great saving to the taxpayers.

With this in mind, I propose that the Board make a final effort to reinstate their original program by submitting a $700,000 bond issue in the near future, making a clear cut issue of one 16-room school or two 8-room schools. An unfavorable vote would not jeopardize the authorized $610,000 Bond Issue, and in the event that the bigger bond issue passed the Board could then act in the best interests of the District without having to resort to a later bond issue.

I make this proposal in the belief that many who voted against the last bond issue were actually voting against a one-school program.

I believe further that if all the facts were laid before the voters, the bigger bond issue would have a good chance of passing.

I hope that those who have expressed themselves at meetings and in the press—and the many others who agree with them — will help to give weight to this proposal.

Yours truly,
GEORGE MAJESCTIC

Plattekill

PLATTEKILL, July 16—Vacation Bible School opened Monday, July 9, at the Plattekill Methodist Church and will continue through Friday, July 20. Third Death Noted

CAMBRIDGE, N.Y. (AP) — An automobile accident last Friday near Shushan, Washington County, has claimed a third life.

John Hill, 78, of Shushan, died in a hospital here Monday.

His 75-year-old wife and William Ryan, 73, of Albany, were killed when their automobile plunged 30 feet down an embankment.

Hill was a retired employe of the State Tax Department in Albany.

Majestic's Suggestion

The passage of the School Bond assures a construction program for additional classroom space. However, the satisfaction felt by the Board must be tempered by the facts that is is only one step toward the program originally outlined for the District.

Analysis of the voters shows that the $610,000 Bond Issue was endorsed by less than 50% of those who went to the polls. A total of 1396 votes were cast, with 1371 registered and 25 void. The Bond Issue passed by nine votes — 690 to 681. The point is that the people appear to be still evenly divided on the question of one school or two.

The Chairman of the Independent Citizens Committee on Education states in the July 3rd issue of the New Paltz Independent—"The majority of our members agreed that two elementary schools would best serve the District's needs. All things considered, we still do agree to this and called for the acquisition of a site south of New Paltz in the near future."

As matters now stand, within a few years the voters will be called upon to pass on another bond issue for construction of an elementary school south of New Paltz, although (as the Board stated) two schools could be built concurrently at a great saving to the taxpayers.

With this in mind, I propose that the Board make a final effort to reinstate their original program by submitting a $700,000 bond issue in the near future, making a clear cut issue of one 16-room school or two 8-room schools. An unfavorable vote would not jeopardize the authorized $610,000 Bond Issue, and in the event that the bigger bond issue passed the Board could then act in the best interests of the District without having to resort to a later bond issue.

I make this proposal in the belief that many who voted against the last bond issue were actually voting against a one-school program.

I believe further that if all the facts were laid before the voters, the bigger bond issue would have a good chance of passing.

I hope that those who have expressed themselves at meetings and in the press—and the many others who agree with them — will help to give weight to this proposal.

Yours truly,
GEORGE MAJESCTIC

Plattekill

PLATTEKILL, July 16—Vacation Bible School opened Monday, July 9, at the Plattekill Methodist Church and will continue through Friday, July 20. Sessions open at 9:30 a. m. and close at 12 noon during the week days, with instructors from the Plattekill and Rossville area. WestPointProject For $1,973,000 Before Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy had before him today legislation authorizing $1.4 billion in military construction, including several projects in New York State.

The House passed the measure Monday and sent it to the President. It is $68.5 million less than an earlier version approved by the House and $5.1 million more than the Senate approved originally.

The differences had been worked out by Senate-House conferees.

The New York State projects: Army—U. S. Military Academy at West Point, $1,973,000.

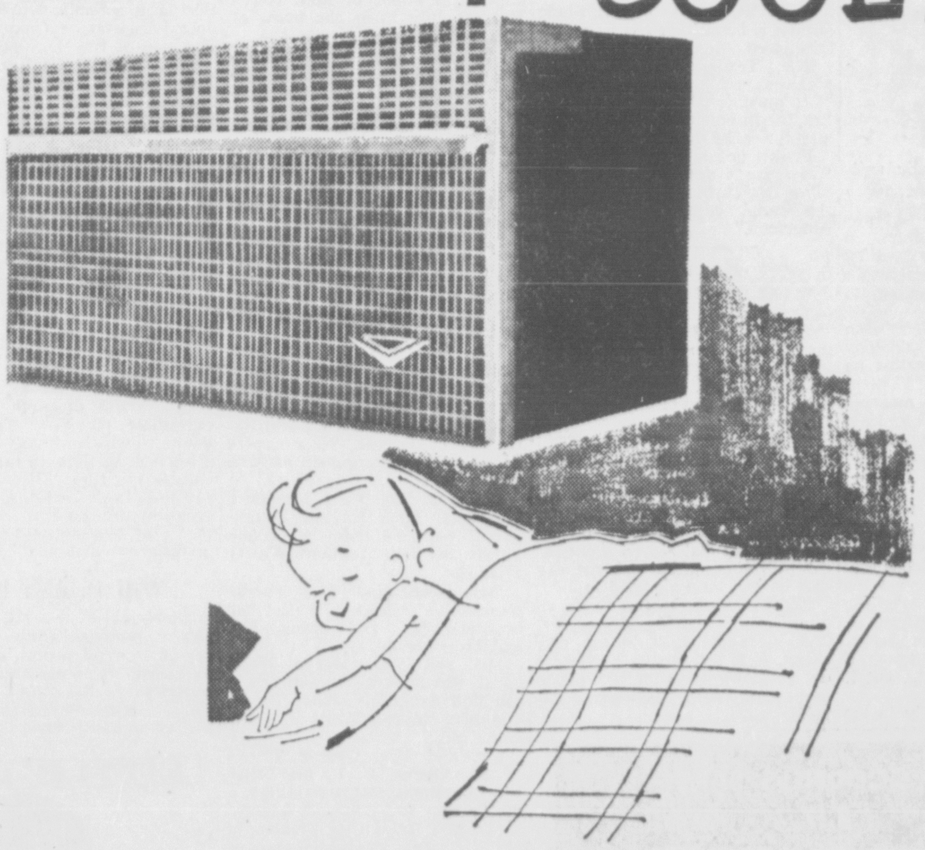

Navy — Naval Training Device Center, Port Washington, $265,000.

Air Force—Griffiss AFB, Rome, $206,000; Plattsburgh AFB $60,000; Suffolk County AFB $867,000.

Rockefeller Is To Deal With Hospital Strike

STONY BROOK, N.Y. (AP)—Gov. Rockefeller will interrupt a three-day campaign-style tour of Long Island tonight to return to New York City to deal with a hospital strike situation there.

He will meet with the Hospital Advisory Council and with the Central Labor Council.

He cancelled a Jones Beach dinner with leaders of the Long Island State Park Commission and the New York State Conservation Department.

He also cancelled a speech he was to have given tonight at the Marine Theatre at Jones Beach.

Rockefeller will resume the tour Wednesday morning at Garden City.

Local 1199 of the Drug and Hospital Employes Union went on strike May 23 against Beth-El Hospital in Brooklyn. The union extended the walkout last month to Manhattan Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital and has threatened to strike 11 other hospitals.

The governor arrived here by car this morning. He had planned to cram 37 public appearances, meetings and private sessions into a 60-hour schedule.

Eighth in Series

The three-day trip is the eighth in a series in which the governor has made prolonged visits to various areas of the state for what are officially described as efforts to obtain first-hand reports on local problems and needs.

But a generous measure of political activity is usually included. The Republican governor is a candidate for re-election this November.

The tour opening today will take Rockefeller through Nassau and Suffolk Counties, the fast-growing areas of the state.

They Are Flexible

While both counties have top-heavy Republican enrollments, they have been politically flexible.

There are nearly one million voters in the two Long Island counties. If traditional patterns are followed this year, Upstate voters will go heavily Republican and New York City heavily Democratic. The Long Island vote could be decisive.

Rockefeller carried Nassau County in 1958 by 299,027 votes to 175,711 for Averell Harriman, the Democratic incumbent. But, in 1961, Nassau elected a Democrat to the office of county executive.

Credit Workers

Rockefeller carried Suffolk County, 134,077 to 68,876. Democrats have made inroads from time to time in that county.

Rockefeller spoke at a GOP fund-raising dinner Monday night in Averill Park, near Albany, where he paid tribute to those who work in political campaigns. He described himself as a candidate who has been "carried" by his party, as opposed to a candidate who carries his party to victory.

The two Long Island counties, expanding rapidly in the suburban sprawl radiating from New York City, have a total population of nearly 2 million.

That rapid expansion has brought with it problems of sharply rising school costs, water and sewage needs and transportation difficulties.

Despite a total $230-million increase in state aid to education mapped out by the Legislature over the next three years, Long Island's school taxpayers still consider rising costs of education a major problem.

While Rockefeller looks on the increase in state aid as a key part of his re-election platform, it reportedly has not generated as much enthusiasm as anticipated on Long Island.

Reapportionment could pose another political problem on Long Island for Republicans.

Republicans also are watching closely for the reception the newly formed Conservative Party receives on Long Island. Some sources believe it might cut into the GOP plurality.

Says U.S. Plane Buzzed by Reds In Berlin Lane

BERLIN (AP)—A usually well-informed source reported today that a radio message had been picked up, apparently from an American plane being buzzed by an unidentified Communist craft in an air corridor leading to isolated West Berlin.

Spokesmen for the U.S. mission and Air Force in Berlin said they could give out no information on the incident.

The source said the message was identified as coming from the northernmost of the three corridors across Communist territory to Berlin. This corridor handles traffic between Berlin and Hamburg.

The source gave this account:

The pilot, flying toward Berlin, said he had just entered the corridor from West Germany when a fighter plane swooped over the nose of his plane. He reported he was about 40 miles from Berlin.

He asked the control tower if it could identify the plane, but it could not.

The only fighters usually in the air over East Germany are Soviet and East German.

The pilot reported that after the initial swoop, the fighter took up a position about 150 yards off his left wing tip and stayed there for several minutes. He did not say that he had been signalled to land.

Pilots making the run to Berlin often report sighting Soviet and East German MIGs in the corridors. The Communist air forces do a lot of flying in the Berlin area. Many such sightings go unpublicized.

Contractors Lay Corner Stone of New Structure

GARDINER — The laying of the corner stone for the new Christian Educational Building was held at the 11 o'clock Worship Service last Sunday at the Reformed Church.

The Rev. George Van Emberg chose for the title of his service, "Christ the Corner Stone." After service the congregation went to the rear of the church in front of the new building where Rev. Van Emberg placed a list of the names of the present Consistory and the officers of clergy organizations of the church in the stone.

Raymond DuBois, vice president of the consistory, Dr. Clifford Hoppenstedt, chairman of the building committee and Peter Petersen, and Harvey Edebohls, contractors in charge, assisted in the service. Petersen and Edebohls placed the stone a gift from Vanderlyn R. Pine, New Paltz.

Student to Hold Service

The worship service next Sunday will be conducted by Fred W. Diekman, a student at the New Brunswick Theological Seminary, New Brunswick, N. J. He will enter his senior year in September.

Denial Is Made Of Griffis AFB Shift to Boston

BOSTON (AP)—The Air Force is considering moving its multi-million-dollar Air Development Center from Griffiss Air Force Base at Rome, N.Y. to the greater Boston area, the Boston Herald said today.

In Washington, Rep. Alexander Pirnie, R-N.Y., said he had been advised by Air Force headquarters "that the report from Boston is totally false."

Pirnie said he checked with Maj. Gen. Clyde H. Mitchell, vice commander of the Air Force Systems Command, which has jurisdiction over the development center.

"The Air Force Systems Command has no plans to move facilities, activities or personnel from the Rome Air Development Center to the greater Boston area."

The command at Griffiss employs 1,600 persons, 1,200 of them civilians. Its mission is the research and development of aerospace electronics.

An Air Force plan last year to terminate its procurement activities at Griffiss was postponed indefinitely after Rome officials and New York members of Congress protested.

The Rome Air Materiel Area (ROAMA), responsible for Air Force procurement activities, employs 6,200 civilians. Officials said the facility was vital to the economic well-being of a labor-surplus area.

The Air Force at one time had considered moving the facility to bases in Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Upstate Banks Oppose Big Ones Spreading Out

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Representatives of Upstate New York banks opposed almost unanimously today proposed legislation that would allow large banks to operate statewide.

One independent banker said any such change would "sound the death knell of independent, local banks."

The sponsor of the controversial legislation, Sen. Samuel I. Greenburg, D-Brooklyn, held that statewide banking would be "a highway giving the whole state access to the capital strength and efficient services of all its banks."

The opposing views were submitted at a public hearing of the Joint Legislative Committee on Revision of the Banking Law.

Sen. Ernest I. Hatfield, R-Poughkeepsie, presided at the hearing, his first since his appointment as chairman earlier this year.

Another controversial proposal before the committee calls for creation of a New York State Deposit Insurance Corporation to guarantee individual depositors against losses in the event the banks failed.

The bankers objected on the ground that any such plan would duplicate work of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

At present, the state is divided into nine banking districts. Banks are limited to operation within these districts with the exception of New York City banks, which may establish branches in Nassau and Westchester counties.

State law provides for the creation of holding companies that may own and operate banks in different districts.

Financial and Commercial

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Some blue chips took losses as the stock market continued to back away from its recovery peak in slack trading early this afternoon.

Showing a slight decline, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down .40 at 218.90 with industrials off .60, rails up .20, and utilities off .50.

Key stocks were down from fractions to about a point. Assorted issues rose moderately against the trend.

Selected issues were strong in a brief and partial rally which did nothing to change the over-all lower trend.

Brokers saw the performance as a continuation of a consolidation movement which followed naturally after a very sharp, three-week rebound. The background of economic news was mixed, showing a flattening of the recovery movement in some sectors.

Steels, utilities, chemicals, tobaccos, aerospace issues and electrical equipments were among the losers.

Du Pont fell more than a point, while U.S. Steel, International Nickel, American Telephone, and American Tobacco were down about a point apiece.

Most major steelmakers took losses. Their decline was accompanied by reports that U.S. imports of steel in May rose to the highest level in more than two years.

International Business Machines cut an early 3-point loss to about a point.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 3.27 at 584.83.

Corporate bonds were firm. U.S. government bonds dipped fractionally.

Mansfield Sees Cliff Hanger in Medicare Ballot

WASHINGTON (AP) — Battle forces were closely drawn for a Senate vote today on whether to kill the administration's compromise health care plan for the elderly. Both sides cautiously predicted victory.

The outcome could be crucial to the future of President Kennedy's legislative program.

Rout Could Result

If Kennedy wins this test, his lieutenants will benefit by the psychology of that victory in their efforts to rally support for other major segments of his program.

A Senate defeat, stacked on top of House rebuffs on other issues, could put the administration to rout.

'Very Close' Vote

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said today the outcome was a cliff-hanger.

After a breakfast meeting with President Kennedy and Democratic congressional leaders at the White House, he declared the vote could run either way and would be "very close, very close."

Mansfield told newsmen Kennedy's interest in passing the compromise measure is intense and both Kennedy and the Democratic leadership hoped senators would vote in the correct manner when the opposition's motion to kill the bill comes up this afternoon.

Rearguard action probably could save the President's House-passed trade program and salvage some other measures of lesser importance.

But rejection of the health program would be certain to whet the opposition knives for any aid to education legislation, for any farm bill satisfactory to the administration and for its tax revision measure.

A scheduled midafternoon vote on a motion to kill the health plan amendment to a House-passed bill to revise the public assistance program appeared likely to turn on the point of which side has the fewer absentees.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said he believes there is a majority for the motion to kill. Senator Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the assistant Democratic leader, predicted the administration would win by two votes "if we can get all of our members here."

Future Is Doubtful

Whatever the result of today's voting, the administration's compromise plan—which would finance hospital and nursing home care for the elderly through Social Security taxes — faces a doubtful future in Congress.

A Senate defeat would bury it for this session. A Senate victory would keep alive the administration's hopes of getting some kind of vote on the proposal in a House that has not shown itself disposed to act on the issue.

The compromise would provide hospitalization for persons over 65 but would not pay any doctors' fees. A private insurance option feature is provided under which the beneficiary could elect to take his benefits through a private policy.

The plan would be financed by an increase of one-fourth of 1 per cent each in the Social Security payroll tax on employer and employe, and an increase in the salary base on which the levy is paid from $4,800 to $5,200.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING...

ROGER E. SPEAR

Here Are Three Traits Successful Traders Have

Q) "I'm 62 years old, retired and sick of sitting around the house. The stock market has always been my hobby, and I think that I am going to start trading actively so as to give me something to think about each day. Even if I do lose a little, the action might do me a lot of good. Money is no problem, and I'm not afraid to take a few losses along the way. Do you have any suggestions to make?"

A) Yes, I advise you to be extremely careful because you've picked a field where mistakes can be very costly.

Normally, I would be strongly against the idea of non-professionals trading actively, but if this is the kind of therapy which will do you the most good, take a small amount of capital and go ahead.

Three traits characterize every successful trader: a capacity to buy when the news is bad and vice versa, willingness to take losses quickly and the ability to understand the story the market's daily actions imply.

If you master these three items, you may have a stimulating pastime ahead. If not, you'd better quit early and try another field.

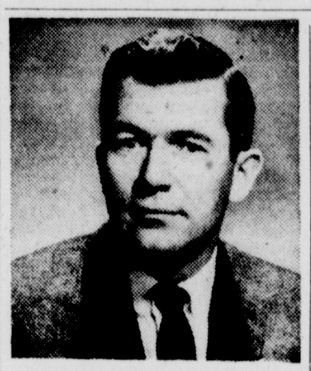

Q) "My husband passed away a few months ago and left me 50 shares of Corning Glass. I know this is a fine stock for far-seeing investors to own, but in my circumstances, where more money is needed, the return seems inadequate. Should I sell?" C. M.

A) Yes, I think you should.

Corning Glass has had a fairly good earnings record, and I look for further gains to be registered in the years ahead. Nevertheless my studies indicate that the shares may have entered a plateau period — and that it's going to take some time before earnings catch up with the rather generous valuation which the market has given the issue.

This factor, combined with the stock's present low (1.6 per cent) dividend yield, leads me to conclude that you should switch your capital into a higher yielding, potentially less vulnerable situation. As a replacement, I suggest Rochester Gas and Electric (NYSE), a sound utility to hold for both yield (4 per cent) and gradual appreciation.

Loan Ceilings Go Up Another $250 For College Aid

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Loan ceilings for college students have been raised $250 a year by the New York Higher Education Assistance Corp.

The state agency, created by the 1957 Legislature to assist college students financially, reported higher costs of attending college spurred the rate revision.

Qualified students may now borrow up to $750 for their freshman year, $1,000 for the sophomore year, $1,250 for the junior year and $1,500 for the senior and each subsequent year. The total amount that may be borrowed by any one student will remain at $7,500.

Williams Fined $75

Charles H. Williams Jr. 45, of Ulster Park, charged with driving while intoxicated last April 28, was due for city court trial today, but pleaded guilty and was fined $75 by Judge Joseph D. Saccoman plus revocation of his driver's license. Police said a car driven by Williams struck a parked car on Hasbrouck Avenue near Murray Street. Attorney George A. Beck appeared for Williams and Ward W. Ingalsbe Jr. for the district attorney's office.

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP)—The Schuyler County Democratic Committee today announced its endorsement of Howard J. Samuels for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Samuels, a Canandaigua industrialist, has the endorsement of five other county committees: Wayne, Yates, Seneca, Livingston and his home county of Ontario.

West Hurley Vols Plan Bake on Fete

The West Hurley Fire Department will observe its 10th anniversary by holding a clambake Saturday, Aug. 4, at West Hurley Firehouse.

The bake will take place at 2 p. m. and all residents of the fire district and their friends are welcome. It will be held rain or shine and tickets for the bake may be procured from Paul DeGraff of Glenford, chairman of the committee.

Coup Is Feared

Haya de la Torre was high man in the presidential balloting on a leftist but avowedly anti-Communist ticket. He failed, however, to get the one-third of the total vote required for election.

Under the constitution, the new Congress, scheduled to convene July 28, is to choose a president from among the three leading men in the presidential race. The military has charged Haya de la Torre got his big vote through fraud.

Stems From '56 Help

Prado's resistance to the military stems in part from the support APRA gave him in the 1956 presidential race. In return, Prado legalized the party and allowed Haya de la Torre to return from exile.

The second and third finishers in the presidential race were Fernando Belaunde Terry of the Popular Action party, a leftist who received but did not solicit Communist support, and Gen. Manuel Odria, former dictator who struck a moderate pose during the campaign.

The military has raised no objection to either Belaunde or Odria, but there has been speculation that the armed forces are prepared to nullify the elections, dissolve the new parliament and rule by decree until they decide to call new elections.

Sentencing Due On August 8th in Resnick Slaying

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Judge George M. Sterling is to pronounce sentence Aug. 8 on four of five men convicted of murdering retired Albany, N.Y., jeweler Samuel Resnick.

A jury of eight women and four men Sunday found all of the accused except Clemmie Lee Jackson, 19, guilty in the killing of the 61-year-old Resnick. Clemmie was acquitted.

Facing life imprisonment are Clemmie's brother, R. E., 21; Ernest Spurlock, 20; Jessie Tillis, 19; and John Henry Lewis Jones, 20. All are Phoenix area Negroes.

Clemmie, who set up the affair after Resnick contacted him through a work wanted ad in a Phoenix newspaper, did not take part in the killing.

Attorneys for the convicted men said they will file motions for new trials and may appeal the case if the motions are turned down.

Rockefeller Is To Deal With Hospital Strike

STONY BROOK, N.Y. (AP)—Gov. Rockefeller will interrupt a three-day campaign-style tour of Long Island tonight to return to New York City to deal with a hospital strike situation there.

He will meet with the Hospital Advisory Council and with the Central Labor Council.

He cancelled a Jones Beach dinner with leaders of the Long Island State Park Commission and the New York State Conservation Department.

He also cancelled a speech he was to have given tonight at the Marine Theatre at Jones Beach.

Rockefeller will resume the tour Wednesday morning at Garden City.

Local 1199 of the Drug and Hospital Employes Union went on strike May 23 against Beth-El Hospital in Brooklyn. The union extended the walkout last month to Manhattan Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital and has threatened to strike 11 other hospitals.

The governor arrived here by car this morning. He had planned to cram 37 public appearances, meetings and private sessions into a 60-hour schedule.

Eighth in Series

The three-day trip is the eighth in a series in which the governor has made prolonged visits to various areas of the state for what are officially described as efforts to obtain first-hand reports on local problems and needs.

But a generous measure of political activity is usually included. The Republican governor is a candidate for re-election this November.

The tour opening today will take Rockefeller through Nassau and Suffolk Counties, the fast-growing areas of the state.

They Are Flexible

While both counties have top-heavy Republican enrollments, they have been politically flexible.

There are nearly one million voters in the two Long Island counties. If traditional patterns are followed this year, Upstate voters will go heavily Republican and New York City heavily Democratic. The Long Island vote could be decisive.

Rockefeller carried Nassau County in 1958 by 299,027 votes to 175,711 for Averell Harriman, the Democratic incumbent. But, in 1961, Nassau elected a Democrat to the office of county executive.

Credit Workers

Rockefeller carried Suffolk County, 134,077 to 68,876. Democrats have made inroads from time to time in that county.

Rockefeller spoke at a GOP fund-raising dinner Monday night in Averill Park, near Albany, where he paid tribute to those who work in political campaigns. He described himself as a candidate who has been "carried" by his party, as opposed to a candidate who carries his party to victory.

The two Long Island counties, expanding rapidly in the suburban sprawl radiating from New York City, have a total population of nearly 2 million.

That rapid expansion has brought with it problems of sharply rising school costs, water and sewage needs and transportation difficulties.

Despite a total $230-million increase in state aid to education mapped out by the Legislature over the next three years, Long Island's school taxpayers still consider rising costs of education a major problem.

While Rockefeller looks on the increase in state aid as a key part of his re-election platform, it reportedly has not generated as much enthusiasm as anticipated on Long Island.

Reapportionment could pose another political problem on Long Island for Republicans.

Republicans also are watching closely for the reception the newly formed Conservative Party receives on Long Island. Some sources believe it might cut into the GOP plurality.

Says U.S. Plane Buzzed by Reds In Berlin Lane

BERLIN (AP)—A usually well-informed source reported today that a radio message had been picked up, apparently from an American plane being buzzed by an unidentified Communist craft in an air corridor leading to isolated West Berlin.

Spokesmen for the U.S. mission and Air Force in Berlin said they could give out no information on the incident.

The source said the message was identified as coming from the northernmost of the three corridors across Communist territory to Berlin. This corridor handles traffic between Berlin and Hamburg.

The source gave this account:

The pilot, flying toward Berlin, said he had just entered the corridor from West Germany when a fighter plane swooped over the nose of his plane. He reported he was about 40 miles from Berlin.

He asked the control tower if it could identify the plane, but it could not.

The only fighters usually in the air over East Germany are Soviet and East German.

The pilot reported that after the initial swoop, the fighter took up a position about 150 yards off his left wing tip and stayed there for several minutes. He did not say that he had been signalled to land.

Pilots making the run to Berlin often report sighting Soviet and East German MIGs in the corridors. The Communist air forces do a lot of flying in the Berlin area. Many such sightings go unpublicized.

Denial Is Made Of Griffis AFB Shift to Boston

BOSTON (AP)—The Air Force is considering moving its multi-million-dollar Air Development Center from Griffiss Air Force Base at Rome, N.Y. to the greater Boston area, the Boston Herald said today.

In Washington, Rep. Alexander Pirnie, R-N.Y., said he had been advised by Air Force headquarters "that the report from Boston is totally false."

Pirnie said he checked with Maj. Gen. Clyde H. Mitchell, vice commander of the Air Force Systems Command, which has jurisdiction over the development center.

"The Air Force Systems Command has no plans to move facilities, activities or personnel from the Rome Air Development Center to the greater Boston area."

The command at Griffiss employs 1,600 persons, 1,200 of them civilians. Its mission is the research and development of aerospace electronics.

An Air Force plan last year to terminate its procurement activities at Griffiss was postponed indefinitely after Rome officials and New York members of Congress protested.

The Rome Air Materiel Area (ROAMA), responsible for Air Force procurement activities, employs 6,200 civilians. Officials said the facility was vital to the economic well-being of a labor-surplus area.

The Air Force at one time had considered moving the facility to bases in Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Upstate Banks Oppose Big Ones Spreading Out

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Representatives of Upstate New York banks opposed almost unanimously today proposed legislation that would allow large banks to operate statewide.

One independent banker said any such change would "sound the death knell of independent, local banks."

The sponsor of the controversial legislation, Sen. Samuel L. Greenburg, D-Brooklyn, held that statewide banking would be "a highway giving the whole state access to the capital strength and efficient services of all its banks."

The opposing views were submitted at a public hearing of the Joint Legislative Committee on Revision of the Banking Law.

Sen. Ernest I. Hatfield, R-Poughkeepsie, presided at the hearing, his first since his appointment as chairman earlier this year.

Another controversial proposal before the committee calls for creation of a New York State Deposit Insurance Corporation to guarantee individual depositors against losses in the event that banks failed.

The bankers objected on the ground that any such plan would duplicate work of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

At present, the state is divided into nine banking districts. Banks are limited to operation within these districts with the exception of New York City banks, which may establish branches in Nassau and Westchester counties.

State law provides for the creation of holding companies that may own and operate banks in different districts.

Financial and Commercial

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Some blue chips took losses as the stock market continued to back away from its recovery peak in slack trading early this afternoon.

Showing a slight decline, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down .40 at 218.90 with industrials off .60, rails up .20, and utilities off .50.

Key stocks were down from fractions to about a point. Assorted issues rose moderately against the trend.

Selected issues were strong in a brief and partial rally which did nothing to change the over-all lower trend.

Brokers saw the performance as a continuation of a consolidation movement which followed naturally after a very sharp, three-week rebound. The background of economic news was mixed, showing a flattening of the recovery movement in some sectors.

Steels, utilities, chemicals, tobaccos, aerospace issues and electrical equipments were among the losers.

Du Pont fell more than a point, while U.S. Steel, International Nickel, American Telephone, and American Tobacco were down about a point apiece.

Most major steelmakers took losses. Their decline was accompanied by reports that U.S. imports of steel in May rose to the highest level in more than two years.

International Business Machines cut an early 3-point loss to about a point.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 3.27 at 584.83.

Corporate bonds were firm. U.S. government bonds dipped fractionally.

Mansfield Sees Cliff Hanger in Medicare Ballot

WASHINGTON (AP) — Battle forces were closely drawn for a Senate vote today on whether to kill the administration's compromise health care plan for the elderly. Both sides cautiously predicted victory.

The outcome could be crucial to the future of President Kennedy's legislative program.

Rout Could Result

If Kennedy wins this test, his lieutenants will benefit by the psychology of that victory in their efforts to rally support for other major segments of his program.

A Senate defeat, stacked on top of House rebuffs on other issues, could put the administration to rout.

'Very Close' Vote

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said today the outcome was a cliff-hanger.

After a breakfast meeting with President Kennedy and Democratic congressional leaders at the White House, he declared the vote could run either way and would be "very close, very close."

Mansfield told newsmen Kennedy's interest in passing the compromise measure is intense and both Kennedy and the Democratic leadership hoped senators would vote in the correct manner when the opposition's motion to kill the bill comes up this afternoon.

Rearguard action probably could save the President's House-passed trade program and salvage some other measures of lesser importance.

But rejection of the health program would be certain to whet the opposition knives for any aid to education legislation, for any farm bill satisfactory to the administration and for its tax revision measure.

A scheduled midafternoon vote on a motion to kill the health plan amendment to a House-passed bill to revise the public assistance program appeared likely to turn on the point of which side has the fewer absentees.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said he believes there is a majority for the motion to kill. Senator Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the assistant Democratic leader, predicted the administration would win by two votes "if we can get all of our members here."

Future Is Doubtful

Whatever the result of today's voting, the administration's compromise plan—which would finance hospital and nursing home care for the elderly through Social Security taxes—faces a doubtful future in Congress.

A Senate defeat would bury it for this session. A Senate victory would keep alive the administration's hopes of getting some kind of vote on the proposal in a House that has not shown itself disposed to act on the issue.

The compromise would provide hospitalization for persons over 65 but would not pay any doctors' fees. A private insurance option feature is provided under which the beneficiary could elect to take his benefits through a private policy.

The plan would be financed by an increase of one-fourth of 1 per cent each in the Social Security payroll tax on employer and employe, and an increase in the salary base on which the levy is paid from $4,800 to $5,200.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING...

ROGER E. SPEAR

Here Are Three Traits Successful Traders Have

Q) "I'm 62 years old, retired and sick of sitting around the house. The stock market has always been my hobby, and I think that I am going to start trading actively so as to give me something to think about each day. Even if I do lose a little, the action might do me a lot of good. Money is no problem, and I'm not afraid to take a few losses along the way. Do you have any suggestions to make?"

A) Yes, I advise you to be extremely careful because you've picked a field where mistakes can be very costly.

Normally, I would be strongly against the idea of non-professionals trading actively, but if this is the kind of therapy which will do you the most good, take a small amount of capital and go ahead.

Three traits characterize every successful trader: a capacity to buy when the news is bad and vice versa, willingness to take losses quickly and the ability to understand the story the market's daily actions imply.

If you master these three items, you may have a stimulating pastime ahead. If not, you'd better quit early and try another field.

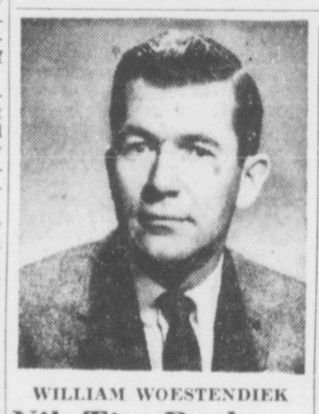

Q) "My husband passed away a few months ago and left me 50 shares of Corning Glass. I know this is a fine stock for far-seeing investors to own, but in my circumstances, where more money is needed, the return seems inadequate. Should I sell?" C. M.

A) Yes, I think you should.

Corning Glass has had a fairly good earnings record, and I look for further gains to be registered in the years ahead. Nevertheless my studies indicate that the shares may have entered a plateau period — and that it's going to take some time before earnings catch up with the rather generous valuation which the market has given the issue.

This factor, combined with the stock's present low (1.6 per cent) dividend yield, leads me to conclude that you should switch your capital into a higher yielding, potentially less vulnerable situation. As a replacement, I suggest Rochester Gas and Electric (NYSE), a sound utility to hold for both yield (4 per cent) and gradual appreciation.

Loan Ceilings Go Up Another $250 For College Aid

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Loan ceilings for college students have been raised $250 a year by the New York Higher Education Assistance Corp.

The state agency, created by the 1957 Legislature to assist college students financially, reported higher costs of attending college spurred the rate revision.

Qualified students may now borrow up to $750 for their freshman year, $1,000 for the sophomore year, $1,250 for the junior year and $1,500 for the senior and each subsequent year. The total amount that may be borrowed by any one student will remain at $7,500.

Williams Fined $75

Charles H. Williams Jr. 45, of Ulster Park, charged with driving while intoxicated last April 28, was due for city court trial today, but pleaded guilty and was fined $75 by Judge Joseph D. Slaccoman plus revocation of his driver's license. Police said a car driven by Williams struck a parked car on Hasbrouck Avenue near Murray Street. Attorney George A. Beck appeared for Williams and Ward W. Ingalsbe Jr. for the district attorney's office.

Schuyler Backs Samuels

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP)—The Schuyler County Democratic Committee today announced its endorsement of Howard J. Samuels for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Samuels, a Canandaigua industrialist, has the endorsement of five other county committees: Wayne, Yates, Seneca, Livingston and his home county of Ontario.

West Hurley Vols Plan Bake on Fete

The West Hurley Fire Department will observe its 10th anniversary by holding a clambake Saturday, Aug. 4, at West Hurley Firehouse.

The bake will take place at 2 p. m. and all residents of the fire district and their friends are welcome. It will be held rain or shine and tickets for the bake may be procured from Paul DeGraff of Glenford, chairman of the committee.

Coup Is Feared

Haya de la Torre was high man in the presidential balloting on a leftist but avowedly anti-Communist ticket. He failed, however, to get the one-third of the total vote required for election.

Under the constitution, the new Congress, scheduled to convene July 28, is to choose a president from among the three leading men in the presidential race. The military has charged Haya de la Torre got his big vote through fraud.

Stems From '56 Help

Prado's resistance to the military stems in part from the support APRA gave him in the 1956 presidential race. In return, Prado legalized the party and allowed Haya de la Torre to return from exile.

The second and third finishers in the presidential race were Fernando Belaunde Terry of the Popular Action party, a leftist who received but did not solicit Communist support, and Gen. Manuel Odria, former dictator who struck a moderate pose during the campaign.

The military has raised no objection to either Belaunde or Odria, but there has been speculation that the armed forces are prepared to nullify the elections, dissolve the new parliament and rule by decree until they decide to call new elections.

Sentencing Due On August 8th in Resnick Slaying

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Judge George M. Sterling is to pronounce sentence Aug. 8 on four of five men convicted of murdering retired Albany, N.Y., jeweler Samuel Resnick.

A jury of eight women and four men Sunday found all of the accused except Clemmie Lee Jackson, 19, guilty in the killing of the 61-year-old Resnick. Clemmie was acquitted.

Facing life imprisonment are Clemmie's brother, R. E., 21; Ernest Spurlock, 20; Jessie Tillis, 19; and John Henry Lewis Jones, 20. All are Phoenix area Negroes.

Clemmie, who set up the affair after Resnick contacted him through a work wanted ad in a Phoenix newspaper, did not take part in the killing.

Attorneys for the convicted men said they will file motions for new trials and may appeal the case if the motions are turned down.

McKeon Okays Javits' Debate

NEW YORK (AP)—Democratic state chairman William H. McKeon says he accepts "with enthusiasm Mr. Javits' offer to debate the Democratic candidate on television."

McKeon says he assumes Gov. Rockefeller "likewise will make himself available for free and open debate."

McKeon made this comment on Sen. Jacob K. Javits' formal announcement Monday of his candidacy for reelection as a running mate of Rockefeller.

Rockefeller and Javits are expected to win renomination easily at the Republican state convention. The Democratic field for the senatorial and gubernatorial nominations is wide open.

J. Daniel Mahoney, vice chairman of the Conservative Party, replied to Javits' attack on the new party in announcing his campaign plans.

Mahoney said it was "ridiculous for the senator to assert our party's philosophy was 'outside the context of our nation's life' when our board includes such well known members as former Gov. Charles Edison of New Jersey and former Senator Joseph H. Ball of Minnesota."

Mahoney suggested that Javits was trying to avoid a debate with the Conservative Party senate candidate, Robert T. Pell of Ticonderoga, "by launching a smear campaign against our party."

The Conservative Party, composed largely of Republicans, is centering its attack on Rockefeller and Javits, both of whom the members consider too liberal to be real Republicans.

The Conservatives have picked David H. Jaquith of Syracuse to run against Rockefeller.

Javits in his campaign announcement attacked the Conservative Party as "an attempt to rule or ruin the Republican Party in New York and an attempt to promote a philosophy alien to our party and outside the context of our nation's life."

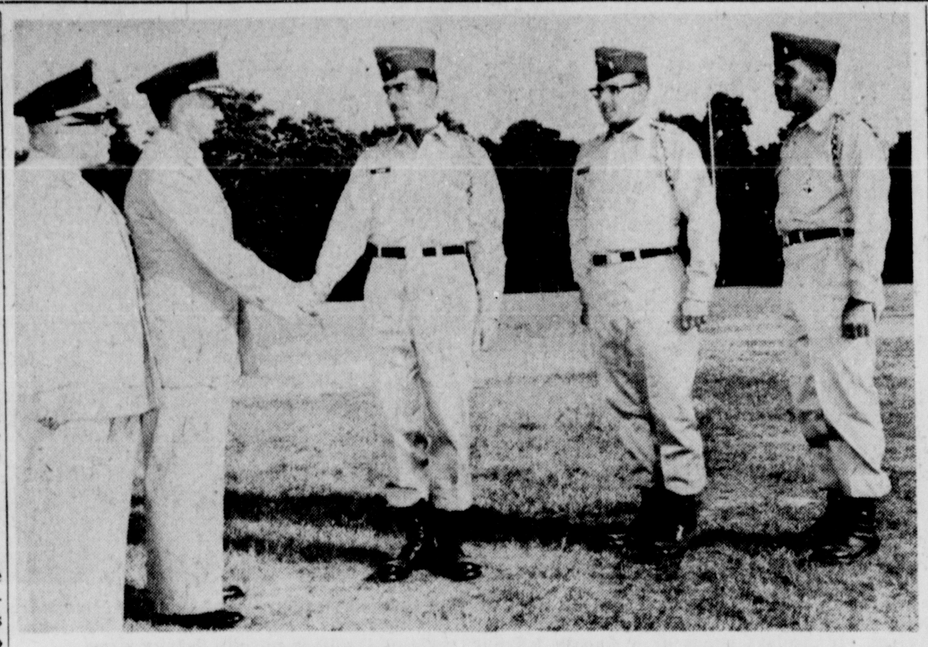

TompkinsCountyJoins Push for Botein Run

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — The Democratic chairman of Tompkins County is joining the efforts of the Manhattan chairman to draft Justice Bernard Botein of State Supreme Court as the party's candidate for governor.

James J. Clynes Jr., who formerly practiced law in New York City, offered Monday to "serve as a rallying point in this area for a draft-Botein movement."

Edward M. Costikyan, the Manhattan chairman, launched the movement over the weekend. Botein, of New York City, has declined to comment.

Clynes said Botein had an "enviable record of accomplishments and the highest possible character with the fighting will to win the Democratic Party needs."

GRADUATE SECOND LIEUTENANTS — Three of the 93 candidates graduated in the 11th class of the Empire State Military Academy at the exercises held Friday afternoon (July 13th) at Camp Smith, Peekskill, were enlisted members of the First Howitzer Battalion, 156th Artillery, New York National Guard. They will be assigned new duties as second lieutenants, artillery, with the local units.

Among the many families, friends and Guardsmen on hand to witness the graduation exercises were (left to right): Major Arthur W. Foehser, Army Advisor, 156th Artillery, and Major Frank Fabbie, battalion executive officer, shown congratulating Second Lieutenant James H. Fiore, 16 Lindsley Avenue, Kingston, as new Second Lieutenants Robert W. Benjamin, Wappingers Falls, and Joseph R. Parker, of Amenia, await their turn for a handshake.

Major General A. C. O'Hara,, commanding general, New York National Guard, administered the oath of office and presented each graduate with his diploma signifying two years of hard work and application to duty on the part of the candidates.

Second Lieutenant James H. Fiore, Kingston, was selected as one of the three Army color bearers in recognition of his high scholastic achievement.

Public Health Nurse Exams to Be Held Oct. 6

An examination for Public Health Nurse has been called by the New York State Civil Service Department to be held on October 6, 1962. Applications will be accepted up to September 4. New York State residence is not required, or is United States citizenship for examination or appointment unless a jurisdiction requires its permanent appointee to be a United States citizen.

Applications may be obtained from the New York State Department of Civil Service or locally from the Ulster County Civil Service Commission, 32 Main Street.

There are many full-time permanent positions open in various jurisdictions of New York State, among them Ulster County where local residents will be first to be appointed. Starting salary in Ulster County is $4040.

Information as to qualifications and other details may be obtained locally from Thomas Bohan, executive secretary of the CS Commission here.

July Fines Build Up

Fines aggregating $215 were collected in less than two weeks early this month by Town of Rhinebeck Justice of the Peace Clarence Traver. Fines were imposed for motor vehicle violations. Judge Traver also made known he sent $480 to the Department of Audit and Control, Albany, representing fines he collected from motorists in June.

Dutchess Board May Apply for Aid Soon

Application probably will be made soon by the Dutchess County Planning Board for state and federal aid on the preparation for a master plan for development of a network of county and town roads.

Eugene Conte, chairman of the board, stated the framework of the existing county highway system map will be used in the survey and plan. Cost of the plan, based on the experience of Rockland County, might be about $80,000, Conte said.

An important feature of the master plan, the board chairman said, is that it would be turned over to the Board of Supervisors and recommended for adoption. Conte noted that a plan of the network of roads in the county obviously would be beneficial to industrial development in Dutchess County.

Murder-Suicide Ruled in Deaths Of Father, Sons

WATERFORD, N.Y. (AP)—The telephone calls began Sunday evening and continued throughout the night. The father told his wife and other members of his family he would kill himself and his two sons.

The calls had ceased by Monday morning when skindivers found the automobile containing the bodies of Gerald Donohue and his two sons, Michael, 5, and Allen, 3.

Donohue, a 32-year-old finisher at a paper mill in Cohoes, was despondent because of the separation from his wife since last January, police said. The boys lived with the mother and Donohue could visit them on weekends. He took them out Sunday.

The calls began about 6 p.m. Notified by Mrs. Donohue, Albany and State Police tried to trace them but Donohue never stayed at one telephone long enough.

Two of Donohue's brothers set out in search of him. Mrs. Donohue stayed up. Neighbors said they saw her sitting on her front porch at 4 a.m. weeping.

In the morning, Mrs. Donohue sought a warrant charging her husband with kidnaping. But by that time the bodies had been found in the State Barge Canal. Donohue was in the front seat of the car, the boys in the back. On the bank was a blanket and notes addressed to the family.

Murder-suicide, a coroner called it.

Firemen had saved the children from death last May when the two were carried from a fire in their Albany home.

AWOL Marine Held For 2 Rape Charges

WILKES-BARRE. Pa. (AP)—A 20-year-old AWOL Marine is being held without bail on murder and rape charges in the death of one teen-age girl and the rape of another.

Pvt. William Lewis of West Nanticoke Heights pleaded innocent Monday.

Police said he has admitted his part in the death of Jean Volukonis, 14, of Plymouth, who fell from a cliff Friday night while resisting his advances.

An attractive 18-year-old girl testified that Lewis raped her in a vacant house before he started chasing the Volukonis girl. Several teen-agers were present at the time of the alleged attack.

Reach Tentative Pact In Dunlap Strike

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—Union and management negotiators have reached a tentative agreement aimed at settling a 27-day-old strike at the Dunlop Tire and Rubber Corp. plant here.

The terms of the proposed settlement, agreed to Monday night, must be approved by the union membership and the company. The terms were recommended by state mediators and the city. They were not disclosed.

Members of Local 150 of the Textile Workers Union of America will meet Wednesday to vote on the proposal.

The plant, which makes cord for tires, was struck June 20 by 130 textile workers in demand for an across-the-board wage increase of eight cents an hour and other benefits. The workers now average $1.95 an hour.

Florida Couple Killed in Fiery Tunnel Accident

SOMERSET, Pa. (AP) — An elderly Florida couple was injured fatally Monday in a fiery crash inside the Laurel Hill tunnel on the Pennsylvania Turnpike, about 10 miles west of Somerset.

Thirty-eight other persons occupying cars in the tunnel at the time were sent to Somerset Community Hospital, most of them with smoke inhalation. A hospital spokesman said none of the 26 detained was in serious condition.

State police quoted witnesses that an auto driven by Mrs. Maude Brunsvold, 75, of Tampa hit the right wall of the tunnel, and veered into the oncoming truck's path. The wreckage caught fire and filled the tunnel with smoke.

Mrs. Brunsvold's husband, Elmer J., 78, was dead on arrival at Frick Memorial Hospital in Mount Pleasant. Mrs. Brunsvold died there a half hour later.

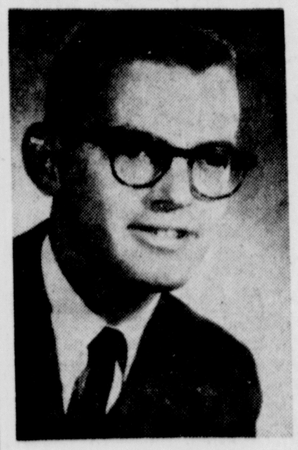

The truck driver, Merle Eutsey, 42, of Stahlstown, Pa., r.d. 1, escaped injury.

Firemen wearing gas masks extinguished the blaze in the tunnel.

Somerset Fire Chief Newton Picking said 25 cars were towed from the tunnel's east portal and state police said an undetermined number were pulled from the west portal.

The tunnel was closed for about 3½ hours.

The calls had ceased by Monday morning when skindivers found the automobile containing the bodies of Gerald Donohue and his two sons, Michael, 5, and Allen, 3.

Donohue, a 32-year-old finisher at a paper mill in Cohoes, was despondent because of the separation from his wife since last January, police said. The boys lived with the mother and Donohue could visit them on weekends. He took them out Sunday.

The calls began about 6 p.m. Notified by Mrs. Donohue, Albany and State Police tried to trace them but Donohue never stayed at one telephone long enough.

Two of Donohue's brothers set out in search of him. Mrs. Donohue stayed up. Neighbors said they saw her sitting on her front porch at 4 a.m. weeping.

In the morning, Mrs. Donohue sought a warrant charging her husband with kidnaping. But by that time the bodies had been found in the State Barge Canal. Donohue was in the front seat of the car, the boys in the back. On the bank was a blanket and notes addressed to the family.

Murder-suicide, a coroner called it.

Firemen had saved the children from death last May when the two were carried from a fire in their Albany home.

AWOL Marine Held For 2 Rape Charges

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP)—A 20-year-old AWOL Marine is being held without bail on murder and rape charges in the death of one teen-age girl and the rape of another.

Pvt. William Lewis of West Nanticoke Heights pleaded innocent Monday.

Police said he has admitted his part in the death of Jean Volukonis, 14, of Plymouth, who fell from a cliff Friday night while resisting his advances.

An attractive 18-year-old girl testified that Lewis raped her in a vacant house before he started chasing the Volukonis girl. Several teen-agers were present at the time of the alleged attack.

Reach Tentative Pact In Dunlap Strike

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—Union and management negotiators have reached a tentative agreement aimed at settling a 27-day-old strike at the Dunlop Tire and Rubber Corp. plant here.

The terms of the proposed settlement, agreed to Monday night, must be approved by the union membership and the company. The terms were recommended by state mediators and the city. They were not disclosed.

Members of Local 150 of the Textile Workers Union of America will meet Wednesday to vote on the proposal.

The plant, which makes cord for tires, was struck June 20 by 130 textile workers in demand for an across-the-board wage increase of eight cents an hour and other benefits. The workers now average $1.95 an hour.

Florida Couple Killed in Fiery Tunnel Accident

SOMERSET, Pa. (AP) — An elderly Florida couple was injured fatally Monday in a fiery crash inside the Laurel Hill tunnel on the Pennsylvania Turnpike, about 10 miles west of Somerset.

Thirty-eight other persons occupying cars in the tunnel at the time were sent to Somerset Community Hospital, most of them with smoke inhalation. A hospital spokesman said none of the 26 detained was in serious condition.

State police quoted witnesses that an auto driven by Mrs. Maude Brunsvold, 75, of Tampa hit the right wall of the tunnel, and veered into the oncoming truck's path. The wreckage caught fire and filled the tunnel with smoke.

Mrs. Brunsvold's husband, Elmer J., 78, was dead on arrival at Frick Memorial Hospital in Mount Pleasant. Mrs. Brunsvold died there a half hour later.

The truck driver, Merle Eutsey, 42, of Stahlstown, Pa., r.d. 1, escaped injury.

Firemen wearing gas masks extinguished the blaze in the tunnel.

Somerset Fire Chief Newton Picking said 25 cars were towed from the tunnel's east portal and state police said an undetermined number were pulled from the west portal.

The tunnel was closed for about 3½ hours.

Rosendale Man Becomes Attorney

RICHARD E. CONSTANT

Richard E. Constant, son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy A. Constant of Rosendale, was sworn in as an attorney before the Maryland State Bar on June 14. Constant was recently graduated from the George Washington University Law School in Washington, D. C. with an LL.B. degree. He is presently working with the Atomic Energy Commission in Gaithersburg, Maryland as a patent attorney.

A 1953 graduate of Kingston High School and a 1959 graduate of the University of Colorado with a degree in Electrical Engineering, he began law school in September, 1959. As a law student, Constant was a member of the Legal Aid Society, for which he assisted in three criminal cases before the Federal District Court; the Van Vleck Case Club, before which he argued six mock appellate cases and finished as a semi-finalist in the club's 1961 competition; and the Phi Alpha Delta Legal Fraternity, for whom he served as president and marshal and was elected the outstanding member for the school year of 1961; the Student Bar Association, for which he served as chairmman of the Headquarters Committee for the 1960 convention of the American Law Students Association held in Washington, D. C.

Italian Designer Includes Wider Shoulders in Show

By LOUISE HICKMAN

FLORENCE, Italy (AP)—Striking designs in heavy soft wools and wide military shoulders were the latest word today from Italy's fall and winter high fashion showings.

The messages came from Schuberth and Lancetti, who unveiled their new collections at the Pitti Palace Monday night.

Schuberth tended to blanket his new lines under a cloud of accessories — bandana-wrapped calots, neck scarves, hankies in the hand, ribbon cockades, yard-wide nats with hem-length widows' veils and two-foot hair bows.

Underneath were some striking coats, suits and dresses.

Done in heavy soft wools, they featured front and back apron panels. There were lots of square patch pockets, thick cord belts and neckline edgings and soft shirred backs.

Straight skirts were lightly shirred.

Color pairings of orange and garnet, mustard and black, navy and gold, and brown and soft turquoise were stunning.

Soft coats and capes that were cut to jacket length in front were very special, worn over matching patch-pocketed dresses. A short sleeveless black wool sheath had a fringed floor-length apron panel that reached the ankles in front.

A full-length gown of white satin had a front apron panel of black ostrich plumes.

Lancetti did very wide military shoulders, often with epaulette pads, on a narrow silhouette. He opened with zebra and leopard coats.

Many gowns were flat, buttoned spirals of fabric. This scroll motif was continued in exaggerated, bow-like arrangements. There were a number of jutting sleeves that looked like vacuum cleaner bags clasped tight to the wrist.

Roosa-Ciarvella Marriage Announced

Miss Carol Ann Roosa, formerly of Lake Katrine, now of Clearwater, Fla., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Roosa of Lake Katrine, wed Anthony T. Ciaravella of Tampa, Fla., son of Mrs. O. Rodriguiz, on July 5, 1962.

After a wedding trip along the Eastern coast to Lake Katrine, a wedding reception was given at the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. Ciaravella is a 1960 Kingston High School graduate and is employed by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in Tampa, Fla. Her husband is an alumnus of Jefferson High School in Tampa and is now attending the University of South Florida. He is also employed by the Color Corporation of America in Tampa.

Buying Snap Beans

Many kinds and types of beans grew around the world prior to the discovery of America. But the snap beans, shoppers now find in profusion in markets, are American origin.

They are, however, popular in many countries. Only recently, have the stringless varieties of beans been developed to further their appeal.

Top quality snap beans will be bright, clean and fresh in appearance. Firm, crisp beans that break with a snap are desirable.

Before storing snap beans, sort them and discard those that are bruised, damaged, or decayed too much to use. Plan to store snap beans only a day or two as they are best if eaten as fresh as possible.

The general cooking principles for vegetables apply to snap beans—use a minimum of water and a minimum cooking time.

Some vitamins and minerals are soluble in water. Texture and color may be impaired by overcooking.

In preparing beans for cooking, snap off only the stem end. It is not necessary to remove the opposite or bud end, unless you so desire.

At the Markets

Turkeys—Turkeys have been an economical meat choice for over a year. Unusually large supplies will be available this August. Prices are exceptionally low.

Peaches—The nation's peach crop, down some from last year, is still 9 per cent larger than average. Local harvest will be in full swing during August, and prices will be at their annual lows.

Cantaloupes—A profusion of melons are always available to choose from in August. Shoppers will want to select cantaloupe more often this August because the high yields indicate large supplies.

Fresh and Processed Lemons and Limes—Production of both lemons and limes is up about 15 per cent this year. Fresh or processed, either will provide the base for refreshing summer drinks.

Frozen Orange Juice—A record Florida orange crop has resulted in a record pack of frozen orange juice concentrate. An important source of vitatmin C (ascorbic acid) in our diet, frozen orange concentrate is often featured at special low prices in our supermarkets.

TO END A PARTY TACTFULLY

Q: I like to give parties but I also like them to end at a reasonable time. The last few parties we had at our house went on until the wee hours of the morning. My husband and I were completely exhausted when our guests left and almost vowed never to give another party. Is there a tactful way for a hostess to tell her guests "the party is over; please go home"?

A: As hostess, you cannot possibly ask your guests to "go home." The only thing you can do is to ask a most intimate friend to make the move for you. When the hour grows late, she could say: "I think we had better go; it is getting very late and I am sure John and Mary would like to get some sleep."

The Bridesmaids' Dresses

Q: A friend of mine tells me that it is up to the bridesmaids to pay for their own wedding clothes. Is this true? Isn't this unfair when the bride has all to say about what they should wear and very often chooses something that is more than the bridesmaids can really afford?

A: It is true that the attendants pay for their own wedding clothes and, in order to avoid endless discussion as to what the bridesmaids will wear, the bride chooses their dresses and her decision goes unchallenged. She should, of course, try to choose dresses that the bridesmaids will be able to wear again and are not too expensive for any of the girls.

Refusing Wine at Table

Q: Will you please tell me the correct way to refuse wine at the dinner table? I have been told that the glass should be turned upside down indicating that I do not drink, and in this way no wine will be poured into the glass. I would like to know if this is considered correct table manners.

A: Turning the glass upside down is not correct. You merely say quietly, "No thank you," to whoever starts to pour wine into your glass.

Ladies Auxiliary Win Parade Trophy; Plan Social Night

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Ulster Hose Company No. 5, was held Thursday evening at the firehouse, Albany Avenue Extension. Mrs. Gordon Corey, president, presided.

Highlight of the evening was the presentation of a surprise congratulatory cake, given to the auxiliary by the men of the company. The women won their first parade trophy at the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association parade in Tarrytown on June 23. The Auxiliary members wore their new uniforms and won the trophy for having the most women in line.

Members of the company and the Auxiliary will also parade in the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Asssociation parade, which will be held in Port Ewen on July 28. Members will meet at the firehouse at 3:30 p. m. and proceed to Port Ewen under the direction of Parade Marshal Margaret Burger.

Mrs. Corey thanked and dismissed the fair committees which served at the annual fair held on the firehouse grounds July 5, 6 and 7. Committees were as follows: kitchen, Mrs. Joseph Dyer and Mrs. John Halwick; hamburg grill, Mrs. Stanley VanKleek and Mrs. Gordon Corey; kiddie booths, Miss Margaret Burger and Miss Joan Dyer; Christmas in July booth, Miss Sandra Waldvogel and Mrs. Edward Marz; cake booth, Mrs. James Rockwell; social basket, Mrs. Ira Burgher; miscellaneous booth, Mrs. James Sisco and Mrs. Edward Fischang.

Hostesses for the evening were Miss Joan Dyer and Mrs. James Rockwell. There will be a social meeting on Thursday evening at 6:30 p. m. Members to meet at the Rainbow Inn, Albany Avenue Extension. The next regular meeting of the Auxiliary will be on Thursday evening, Aug. 9, at 8 in the firehouse.

TO END A PARTY TACTFULLY

Q: I like to give parties but I also like them to end at a reasonable time. The last few parties we had at our house went on until the wee hours of the morning. My husband and I were completely exhausted when our guests left and almost vowed never to give another party. Is there a tactful way for a hostess to tell her guests "the party is over; please go home"?

A: As hostess, you cannot possibly ask your guests to "go home." The only thing you can do is to ask a most intimate friend to make the move for you. When the hour grows late, she could say, "I think we had better go; it is getting very late and I am sure John and Mary would like to get some sleep."

The Bridesmaids' Dresses

Q: A friend of mine tells me that it is up to the bridesmaids to pay for their own wedding clothes. Is this true? Isn't this unfair when the bride has all to say about what they should wear and very often chooses something that is more than the bridesmaids can really afford?

A: It is true that the attendants pay for their own wedding clothes and, in order to avoid endless discussion as to what the bridesmaids will wear, the bride chooses their dresses and her decision goes unchallenged. She should, of course, try to choose dresses that the bridesmaids will be able to wear again and are not too expensive for any of the girls.

Refusing Wine at Table

Q: Will you please tell me the correct way to refuse wine at the dinner table? I have been told that the glass should be turned upside down indicating that I do not drink, and in this way no wine will be poured into the glass. I would like to know if this is considered correct table manners.

A: Turning the glass upside down is not correct. You merely say quietly, "No thank you," to whoever starts to pour wine into your glass.

Ladies Auxiliary Win Parade Trophy; Plan Social Night

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Ulster Hose Company No. 5, was held Thursday evening at the firehouse, Albany Avenue Extension. Mrs. Gordon Corey, president, presided.

Highlight of the evening was the presentation of a surprise congratulatory cake, given to the auxiliary by the men of the company. The women won their first parade trophy at the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association parade in Tarrytown on June 23. The Auxiliary members wore their new uniforms and won the trophy for having the most women in line.

Members of the company and the Auxiliary will also parade in the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Asssociation parade, which will be held in Port Ewen on July 28. Members will meet at the firehouse at 3:30 p. m. and proceed to Port Ewen under the direction of Parade Marshal Margaret Burger.

Mrs. Corey thanked and dismissed the fair committees which served at the annual fair held on the firehouse grounds July 5, 6 and 7. Committees were as follows: kitchen, Mrs. Joseph Dyer and Mrs. John Halwick; hamburg grill, Mrs. Stanley VanKleek and Mrs. Gordon Corey; kiddie booths, Miss Margaret Burger and Miss Joan Dyer; Christmas in July booth, Miss Sandra Waldvogel and Mrs. Edward Marz; cake booth, Mrs. James Rockwell; social basket, Mrs. Ira Burgher; miscellaneous booth, Mrs. James Sisco and Mrs. Edward Fischang.

Hostesses for the evening were Miss Joan Dyer and Mrs. James Rockwell. There will be a social meeting on Thursday evening at 6:30 p. m. Members to meet at the Rainbow Inn, Albany Avenue Extension. The next regular meeting of the Auxiliary will be on Thursday evening, Aug. 9, at 8 in the firehouse.

Area Rotarians Honor President Of International

Some 600 Rotarians from seven counties in this area honored Rotary International President Nitish C. Laharry of Calcutta, India at the Middletown State Armory Monday evening. Kingston Rotary Club was represented by 26 members.

Delegations from other Ulster County Rotary Clubs comprised the group, which heard the message of the president of the world-wide service club stress "that if mankind is to survive, we must keep striving after our ideal of one world. One world or universal society does not mean universal meddling; nor does it impose one's way of life on others. Nature herself has decreed that unity comes from diversity. It is through differences and dissimilarities that men can penetrate into the minds of others and thereby make a bold bid to arrive at the truth."

President Laharry is an advocate of the High Court of Calcutta. Until his retirement, he was managing director of Columbia films of India.

He has served Rotary as international vice president, director and district governor. Rotary is comprised of 11,300 clubs with a membership of 525,000 in 128 countries and geographical regions.

Be $-Diplomatic

by kathy peterson

Dear Kathy: There is a boy I like very much. The trouble is that he can't afford to date very often. I'd like to pay my share so we could go out more often and do things that are more fun. I really don't see why not. Don't you think it would be all right? —Cele.

Dear Cele: Dating is basic training in boy-girl relationships. Why should the pattern be different from the one that will be followed permanently later in life? When a man and woman marry, it becomes his job to provide the things she needs forever.

Settling for what he can afford and trying to keep down the cost of dates would be a better solution. Let's preserve the feeling that it's nice to take care of a girl. A coke rather than a soda won't be too great a sacrifice if it means you can see him more often.

There are things you can do to help financially without actually paying half the cost. End-of-the-evening refreshments are often the biggest expense. Invite him and perhaps another couple to your house for a snack. Talk your friends into more girl-invites-boy parties. Depending on where you live, there are many cost-free things to do that are fun, from swimming to picnics.

See how ingenious you can be at planning dates that preserve his finances — without taking over the masculine job of paying the bills.

Board Hails WP One of Finest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The board of visitors of the United States Military Academy has hailed the West Point institution as one of the finest undergraduate colleges in the country.

The 10-member board also said Monday West Point was adequately preparing the cadets for future service and for post-graduate education in a great variety of disciplines which are important to the modern army.

The board commented that the academy may point with justified pride to the fact that it currently ranks fourth in the number of Rhodes scholarships won by students, following only Harvard, Yale and Princeton.

The board, which includes four members of the Senate, five members of the House, and six presidential appointees meets annually pursuant to a congressional act to "inquire into the morale and discipline, curriculum, instruction, physical equipment, fiscal affairs, academic methods, and other matters relating to the academy that the board decides to consider."

In its recommendations made public by the White House Monday the board urged pay increases for veteran colonels who serve as professors at West Point.

Other recommendations included the construction of a cadet activities building, rehabilitation of the U.S. Hotel Thayer, the rehabilitation of Bartlett Hall, and an addition to the gymnasium.

Beverly Pine New Miss Rosendale

ROSENDALE — Miss Beverly Pine of Binnewater, Town of Rosendale, was selected 1962 Miss Rosendale at the second annual beauty pageant Saturday, July 14, at Sportsmans Park. The contest was sponsored by the Rosendale Chamber of Commerce.

Over 270 attended the contest and of the eight entries Miss Pine was judged the winner on the basis of beauty, poise and personality. Miss Pine is 20 years of age, resides in Binnewater and is employed by P. Ballantine & Sons, at the Tillson distribution center.

The two runner-ups were Miss Maureen S. Judson, 20, of Lower James Street, Rosendale, who is employed by the Reuben Donnolley Corporation at New Paltz and Miss Eileen M. Taylor, 16, of Bloomington, who is a student at Kingston High School.

The competition was held before a full house, within the air-conditioned Sportsmans Park Restaurant, and lasted for approximately an hour.

Miss Pine was crowned "Miss Rosendale, 1962," by her predecessor, and first Miss Rosendale, Miss Barbara Ann Williams, also of Binnewater. She was presented with the winning trophy by Robert E. Hicks, master of ceremonies, and a bouquet of roses prepared by the Rosendale Florist was presented to her by William P. Curran, president of the Rosendale Chamber of Commerce. The winner was announced by David L. Fletcher, who served as chairman of the panel of judges.

The winning selection was unanimous by the panel of judges, who in addition to Fletcher, consisted of Dr. Leander G. Rymph; Dr. Daniel Butera, Brooklyn, who has a summer home in Town of Rosendale and Attorney Hubert A. Richter of Kingston. Selection of Miss Rosendale proved to be well received unanimously by the entire capacity audience. Music was supplied by the Thunderbirds from New York, presently being featured at Sportsmans Park, and dance music was featured while the judges were making their determination.

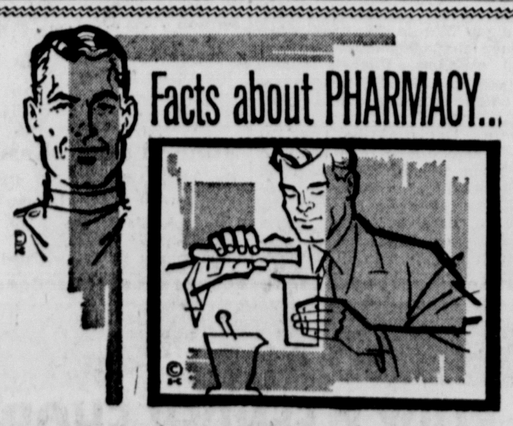

Contestants participating were the Misses Barbara Sutherland, Carol Reed, Mary Hafele, Carolyn Lea Gould and Linda Jean Crookston.

The proceedings were initiated by an opening word of welcome by Mayor Gerard DeFelicis of Rosendale and recognition was given Justice of the Peace Edward Brodsky as well as Police Justice Wilfred Doolittle of the village of Rosendale, and Vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce, as well as Michael Tiano, president of Sportsmens Park, Inc., host to the beauty pagent.

It is anticipated that in view of the enormous success of the affair, and its increased attendance and participation over the prior year, that the pageant will become even more important in July 1963.

Ayer and Rand Policies Draw Ire of Chamber

Woodstock, internationally renowned as an art center, has been overlooked and demeaned by a couple of agencies that should know better. And the Woodstock Township Chamber of Commerce propcses to do something about it.

A letter is being dispatched to the State Traffic Commission pointing up a glaring oversight among the directional signs at the Thruway circle in Kingston. The direction to several Catskill communities is given but nary a sign pointing to Woodstock.

Another example of what dated information can sound like has also been brought to the attention of the Chamber and, although bemused by it all, they plan to do something about this, too.

The culprits, it seems, are two organizations of national repute that should know better — the map making firm of Rand McNally and the directory publishers of Philadelphia — Ayer Directory.

The McNally firm notes the existence of hamlets like Willow, Lake Hill, etc. but only a blank spot appears where the hamlet of Woodstock should be — on the map.

To compound the farce, the Ayer folks still report that Woodstock is still maintaining the West Hurley railroad station. And, says Ayer, the manufacturing consists of fans and blowers and Woodstock is a poultry, dairy and farm area.

But not a single reference to the one product that has made Woodstock world famous — art. Not to mention music, opera, and culture by the carloads.

The Chamber promises to do something about these oversights fast.

Board Appoints Two Committees

Two committees were appointed by President Philip Gordon at the July organizational meeting of the Onteora Central Schools District Board of Education.

Named to the auditing committee were: Arthur P. Knight, chairman; Harry Allen and G. Alfred Nussbaum. Raymond C. Cruthers will head the new construction special committee, which also includes Trustees John W. Ebbs, Janet Greene, Anne Larys and the Rev. H. Chase Page.

The board president also noted that the Special Insurance Committee, consisting of Trustee Page, chairman, and Trustees Greene and Cruthers will be terminated after the presentation of their report in September.

District Principal Dr. George R. Sullivan announced that State Commission of Education Allen will hold a workshop for new board members in Albany at the State Education Department on Aug. 11. Trustees Ebbs, Page, Nussbaum and Larys indicated they plan to attend. Trustee Cruthers and Dr. Sullivan also plan to attend.

The annual meeting of the New York State School Boards Association will be conducted in Syracuse on Oct. 21-24. Mrs. Marie Kleine, former board member, will be chairman of a workshop on the Merit System and requested board members to act as moderators for this program. Further information will be forthcoming and Trustees Page, Larys and Knight volunteered to assist Mrs. Kleine. Other members of the board not attending the meeting were to be contacted.

Art Exhibition Slated at LIU

An art exhibition entitled, "How to Look at a Painting" will be on display at Long Island University in Brooklyn through Aug. 19. The exhibition consists of twenty panels of reproductions of paintings with supplementary text.

It may be viewed weekdays in the 11th floor gallery of LIU's Metcalf Hall, 33 Flatbush Avenue Extension, downtown Brooklyn.

Among the aspects of art discussed are technique, symbolism in painting, and the difference between the subject and its representation. The panels include reproductions of works by Monet, Cezanne, Picasso, Modigliani, Botticelli, Giotto, Rembrandt and El Greco.

The exhibition is being circulated by the American Federation of Arts under the sponsorship of the New York State Council on the Arts.

Critic Praises Baker, Wolman

The Saturday evening concerts at the Maverick were inaugurated with a joint recital for flute and piano. Julius Baker, one of the outstanding flutists of the country, and Joseph Wolman, noted pianist, were the performing artists, who opened the program with the well known poem by the American composer, Charles T. Griffes, a last minute change from the announced La Follia variations by Corelli.

The second work was the first performance of Alexander Semmler"s Rhapsody for Flute and Piano, op. 34. This is a mildly modern composition which made a most favorable impression on first hearing. It is compactly written, contains well-conceived parts both for the flute and the piano and should be a valuable contribution to the repertoire for this combination. Semmler's able craftsmanship sustains the listener's interest throughout and distrubutes between the two parts an attractive texture of varied mood and color.

Two other works for flute and piano were Bach's Sonata in E flat major with the famous Siciliano and the Suite Modale by Bloch, a rather conventional piece by this admired and high rated master.

Baker's admirable command of the flute met the varying types of interpretative demands of the music. To satisfy the persisting applause of the enthusiastic audience Mr. Baker played two encores: an arrangement of Chopin's C sharp minor Nocturne for piano and an Andante Pastoral by Paul Taffanel, who according to Baker's own announcement, was his teacher; and also the teacher of the famous George Barrere.

Joseph Wolman's able and sympathetic musicianship contributed to the fine ensemble attained by the two artists. His polished execution of three solo numbers by Chopin, Nocture in E Major; Waltz Brilliante and the Ballade in A Flat Major was an added attraction to the evening's program — SALVADOR LEY.

School for Fun Is Setting Up Fine Program

A chance to sample the work of star performers in local kitchens, and the knowledge that you are helping your community with every delicious bite — these are offered by the Woodstock P-TA and its friends on behalf of the newly formed Woodstock School for Fun.

Not one, but two Saturday bake sales are scheduled, July 28 and Aug. 18, on the Guild porch on the Village Green. Every penny of the proceeds will go toward founding the school.

The School for Fun — still a tentive title — is designed for those children who, due to overcrowding, will be on half-sessions when the school opens in the fall. There will be 110 of them in the morning, 99 in the afternoon. Something must be done for these third through sixth grade children to fill out their days — and their education, says a P-TA official. It is hoped that the school will accomplish this, not only for fun, but to give the youngsters some of the fruits of one of the richest cultural concentrations in the East.

So far, a most interesting program has been planned. Famed dance duo, Pat and Harrison Muller, and Eda Toldo Crist, director, producer and specialist in children's theater, have agreed to help as much as their full schedules permit. Theadore Sturgeon award-winning author, is convinced that the children can produce salable stories, articles and poetry, and is preparing to teach them how and send their work to the market: proceeds to the author. Charles Kullman, renowned master mechanic of Mill Hill Road, will teach the mysteries of the automobile. The Ulster County Folklore Society is planning a fascinating program of folk songs, dances, games and toy-making, American and international. Noted artist, Caroline Wilson, has offered her services in arts and crafts.

St. Gregory's and St. Joan of Arc Churches have generously offered the free use of their heated parish halls. Many parents and friends have offered to help with preparation, cleanup, transportation, supervising and baby-sitting for the instructors. Classes will begin in October, on Tuesdays and Thursdays, 9-11 a. m. and 2-4 p. m., for 10 weeks. After Christmas there will be a 10-week spring term.

Many kinds of help are urgently needed. Contributions to the bake sales, suggestions for subjects to be taught and offers to teach (a fee will be paid to those who require it); ideas for a permanent name for the project—all are welcome. Goods for the sale will be picked up.

The bake sale will be held on the Woodstock Guild porch.

Taxpayer Group Sets Meeting

The monthly meeting of the Woodstock Township Taxpayers Association will be held Wednesday, July 18, at 8 p. m. at the Woodstock school auditorium.

Principal item on the agenda is the report of the nominating committee. The annual meeting is scheduled in August.

Drive Launched To Cut Overseas Drain on Dollar

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new Defense Department drive to cut the overseas dollar drain another $900 million without sacrificing fighting power could increase the nation's defense budget, now running close to $50 billion yearly.

But Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, in launching the three-year drive Monday, said he didn't know how much the new approach would cost the taxpayers.

"The savings in gold we believe will justify such a penalty," he told a news conference.

Most of the savings will come through reductions in overseas buying, much of it in Europe. Pentagon experts will also study whether fewer foreign workers can be employed at overseas military installations and will look into the possibility of sending prefabricated housing overseas.

This would mean the purchase of more supplies in this country at higher U.S. prices plus the added cost of transporting them to other countries.

The plan does not envision a ban on the flow of military dependents overseas. Servicemen's families only recently began traveling to Europe after an eight-month ban imposed to save money.

McNamara also expressed hope of expanding an experimental program of rotating 1,500-man Army battle groups to Europe for short periods without dependents. He estimated the savings here at between $1,000 and $3,000 annually per soldier.

Editors Complain Of Red Changes

MOSCOW (AP)—The 13 American editors who interviewed Soviet Premier Khrushchev last Friday complained that the Russians made numerous changes in editing the official transcript of the proceedings. "Yes" even came out "no."

At one point during the interview, Khrushchev asked the Americans, all members of the American Society of Newspapr Editors: "Were you restricted in any way during your tour of the Soviet Union?"

"Yes," they replied with one voice.

"No," was the way the answer came in the transcript they received Monday.

The questions were written, then read aloud at the Kremlin session. The Americans said they believed the questions were rephrased to fit into the Communist party line when they appear in the party newspaper Pravda Wednesday.

The Americans said they found the average Russian citizen woefully lacking in information of the West. They said they found virtually no one who had ever heard of the Telstar communications satellite, only a few who had heard of the Soviet nuclear test series last fall and almost no one who knew that the United States dropped the first two atomic bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki while at war with Japan. Instead, the editors said, many Russians believe the United States was just testing them on two peaceful cities.

Rosendale-Tillson Bake Is July 22

The annual clambake of Rosendale-Tillson Post No. 1219, American Legion, will be held Sunday, July 22, from 11 a. m. when breakfast will be served with the clambake at 3 p. m.

Henry Meigel, chairman of the clambake committee, reports final preparations are being completed for the all day affair which will be held at Post Headquarters, Old Route 32, Tillson. The committee reports there will be plenty for everyone. Tickets are available from the members or may be procured at the bake.

Rondout Group Views Progress Of UR Program

Progress of the Urban Renewal program in the downtown area was discussed during a meeting of the action committee for UR of the Rondout Area Businessmen's Association Monday night at Ray's Riverside Rest.

It was the general feeling of the group that more downtown businessmen, who are familiar with the neighborhood needs of the area, should be represented on the city UR committee.

The committee, a spokesman said today, expects to meet with city officials in the near future to discuss these problems.

Committee members include Manuel Lipton, president; Morton Levine, Solly Present, Benjamin Magaldino, James Roberts, Henry Singer, Marvin Millens and James E. Norton.

Area Rotarians Honor President Of International

Some 600 Rotarians from seven counties in this area honored Rotary International President Nitish C. Laharry of Calcutta, India at the Middletown State Armory Monday evening. Kingston Rotary Club was represented by 26 members.

Delegations from other Ulster County Rotary Clubs comprised the group, which heard the message of the president of the world-wide service club stress "that if mankind is to survive, we must keep striving after our ideal of one world. One world or universal society does not mean universal meddling; nor does it impose one's way of life on others. Nature herself has decreed that unity comes from diversity. It is through differences and dissimilarities that men can penetrate into the minds of others and thereby make a bold bid to arrive at the truth."

President Laharry is an advocate of the High Court of Calcutta. Until his retirement, he was managing director of Columbia films of India.

He has served Rotary as international vice president, director and district governor. Rotary is comprised of 11,300 clubs with a membership of 525,000 in 128 countries and geographical regions.

Dear Kathy: There is a boy I like very much. The trouble is that he can't afford to date very often. I'd like to pay my share so we could go out more often and do things that are more fun. I really don't see why not. Don't you think it would be all right? —Cele.

Dear Cele: Dating is basic training in boy-girl relationships. Why should the pattern be different from the one that will be followed permanently later in life? When a man and woman marry, it becomes his job to provide the things she needs forever.

Settling for what he can afford and trying to keep down the cost of dates would be a better solution. Let's preserve the feeling that it's nice to take care of a girl. A coke rather than a soda won't be too great a sacrifice if it means you can see him more o ten.

There are things you can do to help financially without actually paying half the cost. End-of-the-evening refreshments are often the biggest expense. Invite him and perhaps another couple to your house for a snack. Talk your friends into more girl-invites-boy parties. Depending on where you live, there are many cost-free things to do that are fun, from swimming to picnics.

See how ingenious you can be at planning dates that preserve his finances — without taking over the masculine job of paying the bills.

Board Hails WP One of Finest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The board of visitors of the United States Military Academy has hailed the West Point institution as one of the finest undergraduate colleges in the country.

The 10-member board also said Monday West Point was adequately preparing the cadets for future service and for post-graduate education in a great variety of disciplines which are important to the modern army.

The board commented that the academy may point with justified pride to the fact that it currently ranks fourth in the number of Rhodes scholarships won by students, following only Harvard, Yale and Princeton.

The board, which includes four members of the Senate, five members of the House, and six presidential appointees meets annually pursuant to a congressional act to "inquire into the morale and discipline, curriculum, instruction, physical equipment, fiscal affairs, academic methods, and other matters relating to the academy that the board decides to consider."

In its recommendations made public by the White House Monday the board urged pay increases for veteran colonels who serve as professors at West Point.

Other recommendations included the construction of a cadet activities building, rehabilitation of the U.S. Hotel Thayer, the rehabilitation of Bartlett Hall, and an addition to the gymnasium.

Beverly Pine New Miss Rosendale

ROSENDALE — Miss Beverly Pine of Binnewater, Town of Rosendale, was selected 1962 Miss Rosendale at the second annual beauty pageant Saturday, July 14, at Sportsmans Park. The contest was sponsored by the Rosendale Chamber of Commerce.

Over 270 attended the contest and of the eight entries Miss Pine was judged the winner on the basis of beauty, poise and personality. Miss Pine is 20 years of age, resides in Binnewater and is employed by P. Ballantine & Sons, at the Tillson distribution center.

The two runner-ups were Miss Maureen S. Judson, 20, of Lower James Street, Rosendale, who is employed by the Reuben Donnolley Corporation at New Paltz and Miss Eileen M. Taylor, 16, of Bloomington, who is a student at Kingston High School.

The competition was held before a full house, within the air-conditioned Sportsmans Park Restaurant, and lasted for approximately an hour.

Miss Pine was crowned "Miss Rosendale, 1962," by her predecessor, and first Miss Rosendale, Miss Barbara Ann Williams, also of Binnewater. She was presented with the winning trophy by Robert E. Hicks, master of ceremonies, and a bouquet of roses prepared by the Rosendale Florist was presented to her by William P. Curran, president of the Rosendale Chamber of Commerce. The winner was announced by David L. Fletcher, who served as chairman of the panel of judges.

The winning selection was unanimous by the panel of judges, who in addition to Fletcher, consisted of Dr. Leander G. Rymph; Dr. Daniel Butera, Brooklyn, who has a summer home in Town of Rosendale and Attorney Hubert A. Richter of Kingston. Selection of Miss Rosendale proved to be well received unanimously by the entire capacity audience. Music was supplied by the Thunderbirds from New York, presently being featured at Sportsmans Park, and dance music was featured while the judges were making their determination.

Contestants participating were the Misses Barbara Sutherland, Carol Reed, Mary Hafele, Carolyn Lea Gould and Linda Jean Crookston.

The proceedings were initiated by an opening word of welcome by Mayor Gerard DeFelicis of Rosendale and recognition was given Justice of the Peace Edward Brodsky as well as Police Justice Wilfred Doolittle of the village of Rosendale, and Vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce, as well as Michael Tiano, president of Sportsmens Park, Inc., host to the beauty pagent.

It is anticipated that in view of the enormous success of the affair, and its increased attendance and participation over the prior year, that the pageant will become even more important in July 1963.

Ayer and Rand Policies Draw Ire of Chamber

Woodstock, internationally renowned as an art center, has been overlooked and demeaned by a couple of agencies that should know better. And the Woodstock Township Chamber of Commerce proposes to do something about it.

A letter is being dispatched to the State Traffic Commission pointing up a glaring oversight among the directional signs at the Thruway circle in Kingston. The direction to several Catskill communities is given but nary a sign pointing to Woodstock.

Another example of what dated information can sound like has also been brought to the attention of the Chamber and, although bemused by it all, they plan to do something about this, too.

The culprits, it seems, are two organizations of national repute that should know better — the map making firm of Rand McNally and the directory publishers of Philadelphia — Ayer Directory.

The McNally firm notes the existence of hamlets like Willow, Lake Hill, etc. but only a blank spot appears where the hamlet of Woodstock should be — on the map.

To compound the farce, the Ayer folks still report that Woodstock is still maintaining the West Hurley railroad station. And, says Ayer, the manufacturing consists of fans and blowers and Woodstock is a poultry, dairy and farm area.

But not a single reference to the one product that has made Woodstock world famous — art. Not to mention music, opera, and culture by the carloads.

The Chamber promises to do something about these oversights fast.

Board Appoints Two Committees

Two committees were appointed by President Philip Gordon at the July organizational meeting of the Onteora Central Schools District Board of Education.

Named to the auditing committee were: Arthur P. Knight, chairman; Harry Allen and G. Alfred Nussbaum. Raymond C. Cruthers will head the new construction special committee, which also includes Trustees John W. Ebbs, Janet Greene, Anne Larys and the Rev. H. Chase Page.

The board president also noted that the Special Insurance Committee, consisting of Trustee Page, chairman, and Trustees Greene and Cruthers will be terminated after the presentation of their report in September.

District Principal Dr. George R. Sullivan announced that State Commission of Education Allen will hold a workshop for new board members in Albany at the State Education Department on Aug. 11. Trustees Ebbs, Page, Nussbaum and Larys indicated they plan to attend. Trustee Cruthers and Dr. Sullivan also plan to attend.

The annual meeting of the New York State School Boards Association will be conducted in Syracuse on Oct. 21-24. Mrs. Marie Kleine, former board member, will be chairman of a workshop on the Merit System and requested board members to act as moderators for this program. Further information will be forthcoming and Trustees Page, Larys and Knight volunteered to assist Mrs. Kleine. Other members of the board not attending the meeting were to be contacted.

Art Exhibition Slated at LIU

An art exhibition entitled, "How to Look at a Painting" will be on display at Long Island University in Brooklyn through Aug. 19. The exhibition consists of twenty panels of reproductions of paintings with supplementary text.

It may be viewed weekdays in the 11th floor gallery of LIU's Metcalf Hall, 33 Flatbush Avenue Extension, downtown Brooklyn.

Among the aspects of art discussed are technique, symbolism in painting, and the difference between the subject and its representation. The panels include reproductions of works by Monet, Cezanne, Picasso, Modigliani, Botticelli, Giotto, Rembrandt and El Greco.

The exhibition is being circulated by the American Federation of Arts under the sponsorship of the New York State Council on the Arts.

Critic Praises Baker, Wolman

The Saturday evening concerts at the Maverick were inaugurated with a joint recital for flute and piano. Julius Baker, one of the outstanding flutists of the country, and Joseph Wolman, noted pianist, were the performing artists, who opened the program with the well known poem by the American composer, Charles T. Griffes, a last minute change from the announced La Follia variations by Corelli.

The second work was the first performance of Alexander Semmler"s Rhapsody for Flute and Piano, op. 34. This is a mildly modern composition which made a most favorable impression on first hearing. It is compactly written, contains well-conceived parts both for the flute and the piano and should be a valuable contribution to the repertoire for this combination. Semmler's able craftsmanship sustains the listener's interest throughout and distrubutes between the two parts an attractive texture of varied mood and color.

Two other works for flute and piano were Bach's Sonata in E flat major with the famous Siciliano and the Suite Modale by Bloch, a rather conventional piece by this admired and high rated master.

Baker's admirable command of the flute met the varying types of interpretative demands of the music. To satisfy the persisting applause of the enthusiastic audience Mr. Baker played two encores: an arrangement of Chopin's C sharp minor Nocturne for piano and an Andante Pastoral by Paul Taffanel, who according to Baker's own announcement, was his teacher; and also the teacher of the famous George Barrere.

Joseph Wolman's able and sympathetic musicianship contributed to the fine ensemble attained by the two artists. His polished execution of three solo numbers by Chopin, Nocture in E Major; Waltz Brilliante and the Ballade in A Flat Major was an added attraction to the evening's program — SALVADOR LEY.

School for Fun Is Setting Up Fine Program

A chance to sample the work of star performers in local kitchens, and the knowledge that you are helping your community with every delicious bite — these are offered by the Woodstock P-TA and its friends on behalf of the newly formed Woodstock School for Fun.

Not one, but two Saturday bake sales are scheduled, July 28 and Aug. 18, on the Guild porch on the Village Green. Every penny of the proceeds will go toward founding the school.

The School for Fun — still a tentive title — is designed for those children who, due to overcrowding, will be on half-sessions when the school opens in the fall. There will be 110 of them in the morning, 99 in the afternoon. Something must be done for these third through sixth grade children to fill out their days — and their education, says a P-TA official. It is hoped that the school will accomplish this, not only for fun, but to give the youngsters some of the fruits of one of the richest cultural concentrations in the East.

So far, a most interesting program has been planned. Famed dance duo, Pat and Harrison Muller, and Eda Toldo Crist, director, producer and specialist in children's theater, have agreed to help as much as their full schedules permit. Theadore Sturgeon award-winning author, is convinced that the children can produce salable stories, articles and poetry, and is preparing to teach them how and send their work to the market: proceeds to the author. Charles Kullman, renowned master mechanic of Mill Hill Road, will teach the mysteries of the automobile. The Ulster County Folklore Society is planning a fascinating program of folk songs, dances, games and toy-making, American and international. Noted artist, Caroline Wilson, has offered her services in arts and crafts.

St. Gregory's and St. Joan of Arc Churches have generously offered the free use of their heated parish halls. Many parents and friends have offered to help with preparation, cleanup, transportation, supervising and baby-sitting for the instructors. Classes will begin in October, on Tuesdays and Thursdays, 9-11 a. m. and 2-4 p. m., for 10 weeks. After Christmas there will be a 10-week spring term.

Many kinds of help are urgently needed. Contributions to the bake sales, suggestions for subjects to be taught and offers to teach (a fee will be paid to those who require it); ideas for a permanent name for the project—all are welcome. Goods for the sale will be picked up.

The bake sale will be held on the Woodstock Guild porch.

Taxpayer Group Sets Meeting

The monthly meeting of the Woodstock Township Taxpayers Association will be held Wednesday, July 18, at 8 p. m. at the Woodstock school auditorium.

Principal item on the agenda is the report of the nominating committee. The annual meeting is scheduled in August.

Drive Launched To Cut Overseas Drain on Dollar

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new Defense Department drive to cut the overseas dollar drain another $300 million without sacrificing fighting power could increase the nation's defense budget, now runing close to $50 billion yearly.

But Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, in launching the three-year drive Monday, said he didn't know how much the new approach would cost the taxpayers.

"The savings in gold we believe will justify such a penalty," he told a news conference.

Most of the savings will come through reductions in overseas buying, much of it in Europe. Pentagon experts will also study whether fewer foreign workers can be employed at overseas military installations and will look into the possibility of sending prefabricated housing overseas.

This would mean the purchase of more supplies in this country at higher U.S. prices plus the added cost of transporting them to other countries.

The plan does not envision a ban on the flow of military dependents overseas. Servicemen's families only recently began traveling to Europe after an eight-month ban imposed to save money.

McNamara also expressed hope of expanding an experimental program of rotating 1,500-man Army battle groups to Europe for short periods without dependents. He estimated the savings here at between $1,000 and $3,000 annually per soldier.

Editors Complain Of Red Changes

MOSCOW (AP)—The 13 American editors who interviewed Soviet Premier Khrushchev last Friday complained that the Russians made numerous changes in editing the official transcript of the proceedings. "Yes" even came out "no."

At one point during the interview, Khrushchev asked the Americans, all members of the American Society of Newspapr Editors: "Were you restricted in any way during your tour of the Soviet Union?"

"Yes," they replied with one voice.

"No," was the way the answer came in the transcript they received Monday.

The questions were written, then read aloud at the Kremlin session. The Americans said they believed the questions were rephrased to fit into the Communist party line when they appear in the party newspaper Pravda Wednesday.

The Americans said they found the average Russian citizen woefully lacking in information of the West. They said they found virtually no one who had ever heard of the Telstar communications satellite, only a few who had heard of the Soviet nuclear test series last fall and almost no one who knew that the United States dropped the first two atomic bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki while at war with Japan. Instead, the editors said, many Russians believe the United States was just testing them on two peaceful cities.

Sheppard's 101 Nips Lux by Stroke in Woodstock Open

CHAMPIONSHIP FORM: Charlie Sheppard, former Maine Open champion, shows the putting form that helped him win the Woodstock Open with aa 4-under-par 101 score on Monday. (Freeman Photo).

Dutchess Pro Has 30 on Last Nine

Herbie Waterous' 103 Tops Amateur Field

A 60-year-old veteran of the PGA trails fired a 4-under-par 101 to win the annual Woodstock Country Club Open Monday.

Charlie Sheppard, a former professional at the Pitttsfield Country Club, carved out nines of 32, 35, 34 to edge fast finishing Fred Lux of Dutchess Golf and Country Club by one shot.

Lux (37-35) trailed the winner by five strokes at the end of 18 holes. He then proceeded to blister the already scorched fairways with a string of five bordies on the last nine holes for a 5-under-par 30.

Herb Waterous, home grown amateur, shared third place at 103 with Joe Ford, Northern Pines pro who is a brother of the famed PGA circuit star, Doug Ford. Waterous was low amateur in the field.

Ford, tied with Sheppard for the 18 hole lead at 67, slipped one over par with 36 on the third nine. Waterous rallied briliantly after an opening 38 for 32-33-65 over the last 18 holes.

Tied at 104 were Ian (Scotty) Robertson of Wiltwyck, who made one of his best showings in years; Ray Billows, legendary amateur from Poughkeepsie and Joe Creavy, veteran Colonie pro. Robertson blended nines of 34-37-33. Creavy had a pair of 35's and 34, while Billows, 7-time New York State champion, closed with 34 after 35-35-70 in the morning round.

William (Buzzy) Costello of Wiltwyck tied for the 9th spot at even-par 105 with a grizzled Schenectady simon pure, Sig Makofski, who once toured the village links in 99. Costello's nines were 36-35-34 to Makofski's 36-34-36.

An Irons Master

Sheppard, a graying veteran who created quite a stir at the National PGA Seniors in Florida last winter, had the course under control at all times. His accurate pitch shots left him shooting for birdies on hole after hole.

The winner birdied the par-5 fifth hole three times and bagged other birdies on the 3rd, 4th, 7th and 8th holes. His only bogies came on the par-3 water hole 4th where he slipped one over twice and the 6th where he missed from 4 feet. He ran down 20 foot birdie putts on the 3rd and 22nd holes and had a 15-footer on the 5th hole the second time around.

So spectacular were Lux's approach shots that he did not have to putt more than 5 feet for any of his five birdies on the third nine. He birdied the 3rd, 4th and 5th holes, and closed out with birdies 3-2 on the 8th and 9th to finish a shot behind the former Maine Open champion whose winning 101 score had been posted an hour earlier.

Area amateurs made an excellent showing in the annual classic which gives them a chance to contest the Northeastern PGA circuit on even terms. Three Woodstock stars — Jerry Bjorkman, Bill Van Aken, a former winner, and Bill Waterous—fired 109's. Leon Randall and George Cosenza of Wiltwyck had 110. A disastrous 9 on one hole ruined Randall's card. Ronnie Marks of Wiltwyck and Andy Jasienowski of Palenville fired 111's. Amateurs had 14 of the low 25 scores in the field of 26 pros and 38 amateurs.

Clemente Leads Bucs To 5-2 Win Over Cards

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Roberto Clemente thought he should have been voted the National League's most valuable player two years ago when he helped Pittsburgh win the pennant by batting .314. But Pirate shortstop Dick Groat, who won the batting title with .325, got the award.

Clemente thought he should have received the award last year when he led the league with a .351 batting average. But the Pirates finished sixth and Frank Robinson of the pennant-winning Cincinnati Reds gained the honor.

So this year Clemete figures the only chance he has to win that coveted title is for him to cop the batting title again and Pittsburgh to win he pennant. Both Roberto and the Pirates are making a determined bid to do just that.

With Clemente hitting safely in his 14th consecutive game, and utility infielder Johnny Logan coming through with a grand slam homer, the Pirates defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 5-2 Monday night to inch within four games of the league leading Los Angeles Dodgers. It was Pittsburh's 17th victory in their last 21 games.

Mets Bow 3-2

The second place San Francisco Giants edged out the New York Mets 3-2 to narrow the Dodgers' margin to two games while the Milwaukee Braves, behind the six-hit pitching of southpaw Bob Hendley, blanked the Cincinnati Reds 3-0.

Rain forced the postponement of a Chicago Cub-Colt game scheduled at Houston. The Dodgers and the Philadelphia Phils were not scheduled.

Clemente's hit Monday figured prominently in the Pirates' winning rally. Ray Sadecki of the Cards held a 2-1 lead when Groat opened the sixth with a walk and Clemente singled. After Dick Stuart flied out, Bob Skinner walked and Logan cleaned the bases with a homer, his first extra base hit of the season. The blast enabled Al McBean to register his fourth straight and tenth victory of the season.

Stan Musial of the Cards had three for three, giving him six of the last seven.

Bob Garibaldi, San Francisco's $135,000 bonus pitcher, snuffed out a ninth inning rally by the Mets with one pitch to help the Giants win the rubber match of the three-game series.

Don Larsen, the second Giant pitcher, had walked the first two Mets in the ninth. Stu Miller came in, retired the next two batters, but gave up a run-scoring single to Richie Ashburn, cutting the Giants' lead to 3-2.

Garibaldi, the 20-year-old right-hander from Santa Clara who donned a Giant uniform for the first time Sunday, replaced Miller and induced Rod Kanehl to hit his first pitch to Willie Mays in center field to end the game.

Jack Sanford gained his 11th victory for the Giants, made possible in the top of the ninth when pinch-runner Manny Mota scored on Bob Miller's second wild pitch of the inning. Roger Craig, the starter, was charged with his 13th defeat.

Home runs by Joe Adcock and Roy McMillan supported Henley's masterful pitching, which resulted in his sixth triumph for the Braves. Both homers—McMillan's came with one on—were at the expense of Joey Jay, who had beaten the Braves five straight times since traded to the Reds last year for McMillan. It was Jay's ninth defeat. He has won 12.

Nadler's Win 12th Straight

Nadler's Motors won their 12th straight game in the City Softball League, dumping International Electric, 14-3, last evening.

W. C. Lindsey went the distance for the winners, allowing six hits. A seven-run first frame was all the offensive support Lindsey needed.

Arnie's Army Loves That Man

NEWTOWN SQUARE, Pa. (AP) —Even for a practice round, under threatening skies, when it doesn't count, Arnold Palmer has the golf fans swarming around him.

Hundreds waited for him Monday when the Masters and British Open champion arrived at the Aronomink Golf Course to look over the lay-out. It was the first time he lifted a club since romping to the British title last Friday.

Palmer is one of 176 pros who will tee off Thursday in the National PGA Tournament. It's the one major title that has eluded him.

He said he was happy to get back to the larger American ball and planned to get as much practice with it as possible before the tournament.

Palmer's fans, sometimes called "Arnie's Army," followed the Pennsylvanian as he played his way through the course. He tried several approaches and several putts at each hole, stopping momentarily to dictate notes to his caddie.

Harold Stewart Raps 570 Triple

Lucas Decides to Play With Cleveland in NBA

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Jerry Lucas has ended the suspense. He says he's going to play full time for the Cleveland Pipers of the National Basketball Association.

Even before the three-time All-America wound up his fabulous career at Ohio State in March, a tremendous guessing game had been in progress. Lucas said he didn't want to play professionally.

Few believed him. The Pipers, then in the American Basketball League, and the NBA's Cincinnati Royals, drafted the 6-foot-8 ace.

Lucas chose the Pipers over the Royals and signed a two-year contract on May 17 for $10,000 annually, plus an investment portfolio worth another $40,000.

The Pipers were awarded a franchise in the NBA a week ago. That caused complications involving Lucas, who had signed with the Pipers because of the shorter ABL schedule. He said it permitted him to continue his education. Lucas said his contract was for playing in the ABL, not the NBA.

Lucas met over the weekend with George Steinbrenner, president of the Pipers, who said Monday night Lucas had agreed on a new two-year contract.

In Columbus, Lucas said he signed Sunday night, adding that the new agreement "is a larger contract, one which is agreeable to both parties."

Steinbrenner said the new contract is "basically the same as the old one." He said money was not a consideration in getting Lucas' signature.

"He's a funny kid," said Steinbrenner. "Money is not that important to him. What he's interested in are his education and job considerations—what he can do when he's finished playing."

Lucas was given the option of playing with the Pipers only on weekends at the start while completing his studies at Ohio State.

American Golfer 11 Strokes Behind

PARIS (AP)—W. P. Castleman, the leading American, was 11 strokes off the pace today going into the second round of the French Open Golf Championship.

Castleman, White Sulpher Springs, W.Va., made it around the 6,400-yard St. Germain course in 76, 4-over-par, in Monday's opening round.

Other leading Americans were Wee Frankel of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and Don Essig, an Indianapolis pro now on duty with the Air Force in France, each with 77. John Swanson, Mishawaka, Ind., also on Air Force duty, had a 79.

Alan Murray, a 22-year-old Australian, held the lead with a 7-under-par 65, three strokes up on Robert Touhy, another Australian.

Ted Bream Hurls 3-Hitter, Smedes Is Batting Star

Ted Bream hurled a neat three-hitter and Vince Smedes supplied the offensive fireworks as Old Capitol Motors Legion Junior team whitewashed the 50 Club, 6-0, in a City Baseball League game last night at Dietz Stadium.

While Bream was checking the losers and recording 12 strikeouts along the way, Smedes belted a double and two singles to lead an eight-hit attack. He and Ronnie Thomas also combined to make a pair of sparkling doubleplays, stopping a couple of 50 Club scoring threats.

The winners opened with a run in the first inning, added two in the third and closed out with three in the seventh.

Ted Bowsfield Beating Polio

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lefthander Ted Bowsfield of the Los Angeles Angels was warming up for a game against Boston here the night of May 30 when he made a frightening discovery.

He couldn't throw the ball hard enough to get it to his catcher.

Bowsfield didn't start the game but there was no apparent cause for real alarm. It looked like just another sore arm.

Monday Bowsfield explained the trouble:

He had polio.

The club naturally didn't say so, but there was a chance Bowsfield might never have pitched again, even though he had only a mild form of the disease.

Bowsfield's left arm was so weak he couldn't lift a three-pound weight. The disease, doctors said, had caused a collapse of the muscles high in the back of his arm.

Dr. Robert Woods, the club physician, said it mignt have been much worse if Bowsfield hadn't had Salk anti-polio shots.

He underwent a series of electrical shock treatments, but for a while it didn't look as though they were doing much good. Bowsfield tried to play catch one night, and couldn't throw the ball 20 feet.

"But my arm got a little stronger every day," he said, "and before long I was able to throw the ball from the outfield to the infield."

Ted didn't pitch again until June 20, when he started a game at Kansas City.

Bowsfield's recovery looked even more complete after his next few starts. He ran his winning streak to four games—beating the New York Yankees twice in the process—before taking a loss Monday as the Angels were beaten 4-1 by Washington.

"I think I've got this thing whipped," he said.

Lindsay Northam Will Be Honored

Lindsay Northam, athletic coach at Red Hook Central School since 1949, will be honored at a testimonial dinner at the Red Hook-Rhinebeck Elks Lodge, Saturday night, August 11.

Northam will leave September 1 to take over coaching duties at Brewster Central School. Northam has served as football coach at the Red Hook school and coached an undefeated basketball team. He had two sectional baseball winners in the last three years.

Reservations may be made by calling Donald Moul, chairman of the dinner committee.

Runnels Pacing Hitters in AL

NEW YORK (AP)—Pete Runnels, a veteran of 12 big league seasons, and rookie Manny Jimenez are waging an interesting duel for the American League batting lead.

Runnels of the Boston Red Sox increased his lead to seven points in last week's games by collecting eight hits in 23 tries while Jimenez managed only five hits in 19 attempts. Runnels gained one point to .341 and the Kansas City outfielder slumped five points to .334.

Tommy Davis of the Los Angeles Dodgers held onto his slim margin in the National League. Davis remained at .353 with a 6-for-17 showing while Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh, last year's titleholder, zoomed eight points to .350 with nine hits in 19 at bats.

Three walks, an error and a bases loaded single by Joe Amendola gave the 35 Club three runs in the fifth inning and a 3-0 Babe Ruth League verdict over Kiwanis Club last night at the Athletic Field.

At Dietz Stadium, Hurley scored seven runs in the first two innings and coasted to a 7-1 win over the KPA as Gary Van Etten spun a three-hittr.

Until the 35 outburst, Ken Heppner and Gene Rios of the winners and Vince Fisher of Kiwanis had pitched scoreless ball. Fisher walked Heppner and Richie Remus with one out in the fifth and Dennis Ahearn reached first on a misplay. After Fisher walked Rios to force in one run, Amendola supplied the clincher with his hit, the only one allowed by Fisher.

Van Etten was in complete control of the KPA. His mates backed him with a six-hit show, including three singles by Neil Bechtold. Don Potter went the distance to get the loss.

The losers had the bases loaded in the first and sixth innings but doubleplays pulled Van Etten out of tight situations on both occasions.

Tonight's game matches the Masons and Elks Club at 6 p. m. at Dietz Stadium.

Dutchess Pro Has 30 on Last Nine

Herbie Waterous' 103 Tops Amateur Field

A 60-year-old veteran of the PGA trails fired a 4-under-par 101 to win the annual Woodstock Country Club Open Monday.

Charlie Sheppard, a former professional at the Pitttsfield Country Club, carved out nines of 32, 35, 34 to edge fast finishing Fred Lux of Dutchess Golf and Country Club by one shot.

Lux (37-35) trailed the winner by five strokes at the end of 18 holes. He then proceeded to blister the already scorched fairways with a string of five bordies on the last nine holes for a 5-under-par 30.

Herb Waterous, home grown amateur, shared third place at 103 with Joe Ford, Northern Pines pro who is a brother of the famed PGA circuit star, Doug Ford. Waterous was low amateur in the field.

Ford, tied with Sheppard for the 18 hole lead at 67, slipped one over par with 36 on the third nine. Waterous rallied briliantly after an opening 38 for 32-33-65 over the last 18 holes.

Tied at 104 were Ian (Scotty) Robertson of Wiltwyck, who made one of his best showings in years; Ray Billows, legendary amateur from Poughkeepsie and Joe Creavy, veteran Colonie pro. Robertson blended nines of 34-37-33. Creavy had a pair of 35's and 34, while Billows, 7-time New York State champion, closed with 34 after 35-35-70 in the morning round.

William (Buzzy) Costello of Wiltwyck tied for the 9th spot at even-par 105 with a grizzled Schenectady simon pure, Sig Makofski, who once toured the village links in 99. Costello's nines were 36-35-34 to Makofski's 36-34-36.

An Irons Master

Sheppard, a graying veteran who created quite a stir at the National PGA Seniors in Florida last winter, had the course under control at all times. His accurate pitch shots left him shooting for birdies on hole after hole.

The winner birdied the par-5 fifth hole three times and bagged other birdies on the 3rd, 4th, 7th and 8th holes. His only bogies came on the par-3 water hole 4th where he slipped one over twice and the 6th where he missed from 4 feet. He ran down 20 foot birdie putts on the 3rd and 22nd holes and had a 15-footer on the 5th hole the second time around.

So spectacular were Lux's approach shots that he did not have to putt more than 5 feet for any of his five birdies on the third nine. He birdied the 3rd, 4th and 5th holes, and closed out with birdies 3-2 on the 8th and 9th to finish a shot behind the former Maine Open champion whose winning 101 score had been posted an hour earlier.

Area amateurs made an excellent showing in the annual classic which gives them a chance to contest the Northeastern PGA circuit on even terms. Three Woodstock stars — Jerry Bjorkman, Bill Van Aken, a former winner, and Bill Waterous—fired 109's. Leon Randall and George Cosenza of Wiltwyck had 110. A disastrous 9 on one hole ruined Randall's card. Ronnie Marks of Wiltwyck and Andy Jasienowski of Palenville fired 111's. Amateurs had 14 of the low 25 scores in the field of 26 pros and 38 amateurs.

Old Capitol Motors Defeat 50 Club, 6-0

Ted Bream Hurls 3-Hitter, Smedes Is Batting Star

Ted Bream hurled a neat three-hitter and Vince Smedes supplied the offensive fireworks as Old Capitol Motors Legion Junior team whitewashed the 50 Club, 6-0, in a City Baseball League game last night at Dietz Stadium.

While Bream was checking the losers and recording 12 strikeouts along the way, Smedes belted a double and two singles to lead an eight-hit attack. He and Ronnie Thomas also combined to make a pair of sparkling doubleplays, stopping a couple of 50 Club scoring threats.

The winners opened with a run in the first inning, added two in the third and closed out with three in the seventh.

35 Club, Hurley Win Babe Ruth Loop Tilts

Three walks, an error and a bases loaded single by Joe Amendola gave the 35 Club three runs in the fifth inning and a 3-0 Babe Ruth League verdict over Kiwanis Club last night at the Athletic Field.

At Dietz Stadium, Hurley scored seven runs in the first two innings and coasted to a 7-1 win over the KPA as Gary Van Etten spun a three-hittr.

Until the 35 outburst, Ken Heppner and Gene Rios of the winners and Vince Fisher of Kiwanis had pitched scoreless ball. Fisher walked Heppner and Richie Remus with one out in the fifth and Dennis Ahearn reached first on a misplay. After Fisher walked Rios to force in one run, Amendola supplied the clincher with his hit, the only one allowed by Fisher.

Van Etten was in complete control of the KPA. His mates backed him with a six-hit show, including three singles by Neil Bechtold. Don Potter went the distance to get the loss.

The losers had the bases loaded in the first and sixth innings but doubleplays pulled Van Etten out of tight situations on both occasions.

Tonight's game matches the Masons and Elks Club at 6 p. m. at Dietz Stadium.

Lindsay Northam Will Be Honored

Lindsay Northam, athletic coach at Red Hook Central School since 1949, will be honored at a testimonial dinner at the Red Hook-Rhinebeck Elks Lodge, Saturday night, August 11.

Northam will leave September 1 to take over coaching duties at Brewster Central School. Northam has served as football coach at the Red Hook school and coached an undefeated basketball team. He had two sectional baseball winners in the last three years.

Reservations may be made by calling Donald Moul, chairman of the dinner committee.

Runnels Pacing Hitters in AL

NEW YORK (AP)—Pete Runnels, a veteran of 12 big league seasons, and rookie Manny Jimenez are waging an interesting duel for the American League batting lead.

Runnels of the Boston Red Sox increased his lead to seven points in last week's games by collecting eight hits in 23 tries while Jimenez managed only five hits in 19 attempts. Runnels gained one point to .341 and the Kansas City outfielder slumped five points to .334.

Tommy Davis of the Los Angeles Dodgers held onto his slim margin in the National League. Davis remained at .353 with a 6-for-17 showing while Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh, last year's titleholder, zoomed eight points to .350 with nine hits in 19 at bats.

Clemente Leads Bucs To 5-2 Win Over Cards

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Roberto Clemente thought he should have been voted the National League's most valuable player two years ago when he helped Pittsburgh win the pennant by batting .314. But Pirate shortstop Dick Groat, who won the batting title with .325, got the award.

Clemente thought he should have received the award last year when he led the league with a .351 batting average. But the Pirates finished sixth and Frank Robinson of the pennant-winning Cincinnati Reds gained the honor.

So this year Clemete figures the only chance he has to win that coveted title is for him to cop the batting title again and Pittsburgh to win he pennant. Both Roberto and the Pirates are making a determined bid to do just that.

With Clemente hitting safely in his 14th consecutive game, and utility infielder Johnny Logan coming through with a grand slam homer, the Pirates defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 5-2 Monday night to inch within four games of the league leading Los Angeles Dodgers. It was Pittsburh's 17th victory in their last 21 games.

Mets Bow 3-2

The second place San Francisco Giants edged out the New York Mets 3-2 to narrow the Dodgers' margin to two games while the Milwaukee Braves, behind the six-hit pitching of southpaw Bob Hendley, blanked the Cincinnati Reds 3-0.

Rain forced the postponement of a Chicago Cub-Colt game scheduled at Houston. The Dodgers and the Philadelphia Phils were not scheduled.

Clemente's hit Monday figured prominently in the Pirates' winning rally. Ray Sadecki of the Cards held a 2-1 lead when Groat opened the sixth with a walk and Clemente singled. After Dick Stuart flied out, Bob Skinner walked and Logan cleaned the bases with a homer, his first extra base hit of the season. The blast enabled Al McBean to register his fourth straight and tenth victory of the season.

Stan Musial of the Cards had three for three, giving him six of the last seven.

Bob Garibaldi, San Francisco's $135,000 bonus pitcher, snuffed out a ninth inning rally by the Mets with one pitch to help the Giants win the rubber match of the three-game series.

Don Larsen, the second Giant pitcher, had walked the first two Mets in the ninth. Stu Miller came in, retired the next two batters, but gave up a run-scoring single to Richie Ashburn, cutting the Giants' lead to 3-2.

Garibaldi, the 20-year-old right-hander from Santa Clara who donned a Giant uniform for the first time Sunday, replaced Miller and induced Rod Kanehl to hit his first pitch to Willie Mays in center field to end the game.

Jack Sanford gained his 11th victory for the Giants, made possible in the top of the ninth when pinch-runner Manny Mota scored on Bob Miller's second wild pitch of the inning. Roger Craig, the starter, was charged with his 13th defeat.

Home runs by Joe Adcock and Roy McMillan supported Henley's masterful pitching, which resulted in his sixth triumph for the Braves. Both homers—McMillan's came with one on—were at the expense of Joey Jay, who had beaten the Braves five straight times since traded to the Reds last year for McMillan. It was Jay's ninth defeat. He has won 12.

Nadler's Win 12th Straight

Nadler's Motors won their 12th straight game in the City Softball League, dumping International Electric, 14-3, last evening.

W. C. Lindsey went the distance for the winners, allowing six hits. A seven-run first frame was all the offensive support Lindsey needed.

Arnie's Army Loves That Man

NEWTOWN SQUARE, Pa. (AP) —Even for a practice round, under threatening skies, when it doesn't count, Arnold Palmer has the golf fans swarming around him.

Hundreds waited for him Monday when the Masters and British Open champion arrived at the Aronomink Golf Course to look over the lay-out. It was the first time he lifted a club since romping to the British title last Friday.

Palmer is one of 176 pros who will tee off Thursday in the National PGA Tournament. It's the one major title that has eluded him.

He said he was happy to get back to the larger American ball and planned to get as much practice with it as possible before the tournament.

Palmer's fans, sometimes called "Arnie's Army," followed the Pennsylvanian as he played his way through the course. He tried several approaches and several putts at each hole, stopping momentarily to dictate notes to his caddie.

Lucas Decides to Play With Cleveland in NBA

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Jerry Lucas has ended the suspense. He says he's going to play full time for the Cleveland Pipers of the National Basketball Association.

Even before the three-time All-America wound up his fabulous career at Ohio State in March, a tremendous guessing game had been in progress. Lucas said he didn't want to play professionally.

Few believed him. The Pipers, then in the American Basketball League, and the NBA's Cincinnati Royals, drafted the 6-foot-8 ace.

Lucas chose the Pipers over the Royals and signed a two-year contract on May 17 for $10,000 annually, plus an investment portfolio worth another $40,000.

The Pipers were awarded a franchise in the NBA a week ago. That caused complications involving Lucas, who had signed with the Pipers because of the shorter ABL schedule. He said it permitted him to continue his education. Lucas said his contract was for playing in the ABL, not the NBA.

Lucas met over the weekend with George Steinbrenner, president of the Pipers, who said Monday night Lucas had agreed on a new two-year contract.

In Columbus, Lucas said he signed Sunday night, adding that the new agreement "is a larger contract, one which is agreeable to both parties."

Steinbrenner said the new contract is "basically the same as the old one." He said money was not a consideration in getting Lucas' signature.

"He's a funny kid," said Steinbrenner. "Money is not that important to him. What he's interested in are his education and job considerations—what he can do when he's finished playing."

Lucas was given the option of playing with the Pipers only on weekends at the start while completing his studies at Ohio State.

American Golfer 11 Strokes Behind

PARIS (AP)—W. P. Castleman, the leading American, was 11 strokes off the pace today going into the second round of the French Open Golf Championship.

Castleman, White Sulpher Springs, W.Va., made it around the 6,400-yard St. Germain course in 76, 4-over-par, in Monday's opening round.

Other leading Americans were Wee Frankel of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and Don Essig, an Indianapolis pro now on duty with the Air Force in France, each with 77. John Swanson, Mishawaka, Ind., also on Air Force duty, had a 79.

Alan Murray, a 22-year-old Australian, held the lead with a 7-under-par 65, three strokes up on Robert Touhy, another Australian.

Ted Bowsfield Beating Polio

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Left-hander Ted Bowsfield of the Los Angeles Angels was warming up for a game against Boston here the night of May 30 when he made a frightening discovery.

He couldn't throw the ball hard enough to get it to his catcher.

Bowsfield didn't start the game but there was no apparent cause for real alarm. It looked like just another sore arm.

Monday Bowsfield explained the trouble:

He had polio.

The club naturally didn't say so, but there was a chance Bowsfield might never have pitched again, even though he had only a mild form of the disease.

Bowsfield's left arm was so weak he couldn't lift a three-pound weight. The disease, doctors said, had caused a collapse of the muscles high in the back of his arm.

Dr. Robert Woods, the club physician, said it might have been much worse if Bowsfield hadn't had Salk anti-polio shots.

He underwent a series of electrical shock treatments, but for a while it didn't look as though they were doing much good. Bowsfield tried to play catch one night, and couldn't throw the ball 20 feet.

"But my arm got a little stronger every day," he said, "and before long I was able to throw the ball from the outfield to the infield."

Ted didn't pitch again until June 20, when he started a game at Kansas City.

Bowsfield's recovery looked even more complete after his next few starts. He ran his winning streak to four games—beating the New York Yankees twice in the process—before taking a loss Monday as the Angels were beaten 4-1 by Washington.

"I think I've got this thing whipped," he said.

Two Famous Harness Horses Are Elected to Hall of Fame

GOSHEN, N.Y. (AP) — Two names famous in harness horse history, Dr. Ogden Edwards, Jr., and John Hervey, and two horses who established world records, have been elected as immortals to the hall of fame of the trotter at Goshen.

The selections were announced today by E. Roland Harriman, president of the Trotting Horse Museum, Inc., at Goshen.

Edwards and Hervey, along with Dean Hanover and Protector, were elected by a two-thirds vote of the museum's trustees. The names of 62 men and 59 horses have been enshrined in the museum as immortals.

Hervey was for years an authority on the history of both the harness horse and running horse, and wrote many books and articles on racing. Edwards was a noted breeder of trotting horses at his Walnut Hall Farm in Kentucky during the 19th and 20th centuries.

Protector, in 1931, set a world record of 1:59¼ for a 3-year-old trotter in a race, and it stood until 1960. He sired almost 200 record performers, including the great mare, Proximity.

Dean Hanover's 1937 world record of 2:00¼, 2:00¾, and 2:00¾ for a three-heat trotting race still stands. In 1937 he was driven to a world record of 1:58¼ against the clock at Lexington, Ky., by 11-year-old Alma Sheppard.

In another harness racing development, trainer Stanley Dancer reported Monday that Majestic Hanover suffered a chipped bone in his right front knee and would be out of racing for a year.

Majestic Hanover had been the early favorite for the $85,000 Estimated Roosevelt Futurity at Roosevelt Raceway Aug. 1. Dancer said the injury was discovered over the weekend, but he did not know how it occurred.

Monday night saw the opening of the 92-night summer-fall meeting at Batavia Downs. A crowd of 5,750 was on hand as Flicka's Ensign captured the featured $2,000 Class B-1 pace in 2:04 2-5.

The winner driven by Leo Pelletier, returned $6.80.

Winners of other feature events at New York State harness tracks Monday night:

Yonkers—Perfect Rhythm ($3.-90) in the $3,000 Glen Island Pace in 2:03.

Saratoga—Miss Todd Riddell V in the $2,580 Schenectady trot for Northern-trained 2-year-olds in 2:15 4-5, and Velvet Demon ($26.-70) in the $2,000 Hoosick Falls trot in 2:05 4-5.

Vermon—Speedy Soot ($2.50) in the $1,500 trot for 2-year-olds in 2:07 2-5.

Angels Surpass '61 Attendance

NEW YORK (AP)—A profitable three-game series against the New York Yankees last week enabled the Los Angeles Angels to surpass their entire 1961 home attendance.

The three-game set, starting Thursday, drew 137,078 to the new 56,000-seat Dodger Stadium. When the Angels played before 12,565 in Sunday's doubleheader against Washington it lifted their 1962 home attendance to 623,618.

Last season, in the 20,000-seat Wrigley Field, the Angels' final attendance was 603,510.

The Angels show the largest increase in the American League, 263,754. Other junior circuit teams ahead of last season are Cleveland (88,482), Washington (68,087) and Minnesota (12,801).

The Clubs trailing their 1961 gaits are Detroit (161,639), Boston (129,643), Chicago White Sox (124,661), Kansas City (85,163), Baltimore (67,908) and New York (49,301).

The Los Angeles Dodgers have stepped up their attendance pace the most in the National League. They are 325,765 ahead of 1961. St. Louis is up 95,003, Philadelphia 80,949 and San Francisco 63,695.

The Pittsburgh Pirates are 201,-247 behind 1961. Other NL clubs with deficits are Milwaukee (161,-002), Chicago Cubs (154,868) and Cincinnati (47,904).

"HALL OF FAMERS" TO REUNITE AT YANKEE STADIUM OLD TIMERS' DAY—This remarkable photograph was taken prior to the 1937 All Star game at Griffith Stadium, Washington. Pictured were seven top--ranking American League stars . . . and every one of them eventually was voted into Baseball's "Hall of Fame" at Cooperstown, N. Y.

All six living members of this group have been invited back to the Old Timers' Day at Yankee Stadium on Saturday afternoon, July 28th when the Yanks salute the American and National League All Stars of 1937 on this, the quarter century anniversary of those great teams. The four new members of the "Hall of Fame" also will be honored in the Yankee Stadium ceremonies preceding the regularly scheduled Yankee-Chicago White Sox game. Old Timers' festivities will get under way at 1:15 p. m.

Yanks Now Pace AL by 3½ Games

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Just as if they didn't have enough going their way to start with, the American League leading New York Yankees also have the schedule working for them.

The Yankees, slowly moving away from the pack, owe their expanding lead to a dominance over the weaker clubs in the league. What's more, the leaders have more games remaining with the lower three teams than their principal rivals for the No. 1 spot, Los Angeles and Cleveland, now tied for second.

Against Boston, Kansas City and Washington, the last three teams in the standings, New York has a 17-4, .810 record. Los Angeles is 25-11, .694 and Cleveland is 18-12 .600.

Which means the Yanks not only beat those three more often, they also have more remaining with them. New York has 33 games left, Los Angeles 18 and Cleveland 24 with the also-rans. This could be indicative of a number of things, one of them being that the Yanks may be a little hard to catch.

New York used that beat-the-weak-teams formula Monday to push its lead to 3½ games, beating Kansas City 3-1. Los Angeles slipped back to a tie for second with idle Cleveland when Washington's Don Rudolph threw a four-hitter and beat the Angels 4-1 in the only other American League game scheduled.

4th Straight Win

The Yankee triumph over Kansas City was their eighth in 10 games with the A's this season and their fourth straight. Kansas City now has lost six in a row.

A couple of errors by Billy Consolo and Whitey Ford's pitching were the key factors as the Yanks expanded their lead to its widest margin of the season.

A Consolo miscue in the second inning paved the way for two unearned New York runs, while Ford—8-5—had a five-hit shutout going into the ninth before he tired and had to have help from Jim Bouton.

Bob Johnson drove in three runs with a homer and a single in support of Rudolph's quick triumph over Los Angeles. The contest took only an hour and 32 minutes to complete, the fastest of the season and one of the fastest in recent years.

Johnson broke the scoreless duel with his solo homer in the fourth and put it out of reach with a bases-loaded single in the seventh.

Eastern Stars Defeat Leaders

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — The pick of the Class A Eastern League teed off against the league leading Williamsport Grays Monday night in the 9th annual All-Star game and wrapped it up in the second inning for a 5-2 victory.

In the big second inning, the All-Stars pounded out five base hits, four for extra bases, and scored four runs.

Binghamton's Ken Harrelson led off with a homer. The Triplets' Bill Shephard doubled and scored on Keith Williams' home run. Williams, Charleston outfielder drove in three runs with his homer, a triple and a single.

Williamsport hurler Jim Ponceroff, the loser, got the next two men, but a single by Ossie Chaverria, Binghamton infielder, and a triple by York's Jim Williams sent him to the showers.

Williamsport scored once in the seventh and once in the eighth. One run was unearned; the other came on a single by pinchhitter Dick Edwards.

The victory went to starter Sonny Siebert. The Charleston right-hander worked the first two innings. All-Star Manager Mel Parnell also sent York's Wilbur Wood, Elmira's Dave Vineyard and Dave McNally, and Binghamton's Granny Hamner to the mound.

The All-Stars reached four Williamsport hurlers for 14 hits.

Rookie Hendley Scorns the Book

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Most pitchers credit good stuff for a shutout, but Milwaukee's young Bob Hendley doesn't stick with the so-called book.

"They hit some "at 'em" balls, but they were right at someone," the 23-year-old southpaw said Monday night after blanking the Cincinnati Reds 3-0 with the help of homers by Joe Adcock and Roy McMillan.

"I just threw the ball up there and the infielders did the rest," Hendley said modestly in review of his six-hit, five-strikeout effort. "The Reds didn't give me a chance to walk anyone. They hit at least six balls good, but I had a good defense and they went for outs."

Hendley, whose 6-6 record belies his tremendous potential, laughed as he compared his triumph over the Reds with his failure to last one inning against St. Louis Thursday.

"I felt real good the other day and fired the ball hard warming up," he said. "Then everything went wrong—bloop hits to the wrong field, an infield hit, an attempted force which was unsuccessful and I was out of there, trailing 3-0.

"Against the Reds, I was hit pretty hard at times. In the first inning alone, three balls went out to left field pretty good, but they were caught. It was much the same way the rest of the game. I had a good defense."

When pressed, Hendley admitted he had "real good control."

Logan Swung and Homer Followed

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Johnny Logan of the Pittsburgh Pirates is a utility infielder—a breed of player not usually in the limelight. Today, Johnny Logan was a Pirate hero.

Filling in at third base for the injured Don Hoak, Logan hit a bases loaded home run Monday night in the Pirates' 5-2 victory over St. Louis.

Recounting his first extra base hit of the season and his first home run since he was a Milwaukee Brave in 1960, Logan said:

"I hit a high fast ball away from me. I was just trying for a single because there were two men out. I think I surprised the fans. I was surprised myself."

He added, "I think my wife gave me some good cooking and I got a little more power."

Then turning serious, Logan said, "I still got my power. In this ball park (Forbes Field) I don't go for home runs."

The 35-year-old Logan has not always been a utility player. He was the No. 1 shortstop for the old Boston Braves in 1952 and played the position regularly for Milwaukee from 1953 through 1960. He appeared in the 1955 and 1958 All-Star games.

Last year Logan began his utility role. He was traded to the Pirates on June 15. He played in only 45 games during the season.

Erie Sailors Hold First in NY-Penn

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Erie Sailors held onto first place in the New York-Penn Baseball League today, but the margin was down to one percentage point.

Erie lost to Batavia, 9-5, Monday night as Murray Cook drove in four runs and Jerry May rapped his 19th homer. Second-place Jamestown, two percentage points out Sunday night, lost a chance to go in front by losing to Auburn, 6-3.

Hank McNulty led the Mets with three hits and two RBIs.

Geneva's cellar-dwellers took Olean, 7-3. Brant Alyea singled two runs home with the bases loaded in a four-run eighth inning for Geneva.

Carry Back Never Better in Winning Monmouth Race

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Just a year ago, Carry Back was recovering at Monmouth Park from an injury suffered in the Belmont Stakes six weeks earlier, and there were those who said he'd never race again.

Jack Price, who trains Carry Back for his wife, Katherine, of Miami, shrugged off the detractors and vowed the rugged brown son of Saggy-Joppy, by Star Blen, would show 'em.

Carry Back never was better last Saturday down in New Jersey, where just 365 days later he came back to confound his critics and win the $109,150 Monmouth Park Handicap with a blazing track record performance.

The colt had proven the critics wrong as early as last Oct. 28 at Garden State Park when he whipped seven rivals in the $75,000 Trenton Handicap. His first major victory this year was in the $100,000 Metropolitan Mile at Aqueduct May 30, when he whipped Kelso, 1960 and 1961 Horse of the Year. At Monmouth Saturday, Kelso was second in the big handicap.

They called C. B. "the peepul's chercе" after he won the 1961 Kentucky Derby, and followed up with the Preakness in two of racing's greatest thrillers.

Price makes no bones about his aim—Horse of the Year for 1962. Such a tag wouldn't hurt Carry Back's breeding fee when he's retired to stud after this season.

The former Cleveland manufacturer who once sold candy, soft drinks, smokes and magazines on railroad trains was asked about Prove It, the California horse who knocked off the $162,100 Hollywood Gold Cup last Saturday. It was Prove It's third big one in a row.

"We had never ducked anyone," said Price. "We've hooked Kelso, and I don't see why we have to worry about Prove It. He knows where we are."

Carry Back was assigned 127 pounds for the $100,000 Brooklyn Handicap, his next start, Saturday at Aqueduct. Kelso was pegged at 130 pounds, but there is a question whether he'll go in the Brooklyn, which, like the Monmouth, is at 1¼ miles.

Two Famous Harness Horses Are Elected to Hall of Fame

GOSHEN, N.Y. (AP) — Two names famous in harness horse history, Dr. Ogden Edwards, Jr., and John Hervey, and two horses who established world records, have been elected as immortals to the hall of fame of the trotter at Goshen.

The selections were announced today by E. Roland Harriman, president of the Trotting Horse Museum, Inc., at Goshen.

Edwards and Hervey, along with Dean Hanover and Protector, were elected by a two-thirds vote of the museum's trustees. The names of 62 men and 59 horses have been enshrined in the museum as immortals.

Hervey was for years an authority on the history of both the harness horse and running horse, and wrote many books and articles on racing. Edwards was a noted breeder of trotting horses at his Walnut Hall Farm in Kentucky during the 19th and 20th centuries.

Protector, in 1931, set a world record of 1:59¼ for a 3-year-old trotter in a race, and it stood until 1960. He sired almost 200 record performers, including the great mare, Proximity.

Dean Hanover's 1937 world record of 2:00¼, 2:00¾, and 2:00¾ for a three-heat trotting race still stands. In 1937 he was driven to a world record of 1:58¼ against the clock at Lexington, Ky., by 11-year-old Alma Sheppard.

In another harness racing development, trainer Stanley Dancer reported Monday that Majestic Hanover suffered a chipped bone in his right front knee and would be out of racing for a year.

Majestic Hanover had been the early favorite for the $85,000 Estimated Roosevelt Futurity at Roosevelt Raceway Aug. 1. Dancer said the injury was discovered over the weekend, but he did not know how it occurred.

Monday night saw the opening of the 92-night summer-fall meeting at Batavia Downs. A crowd of 5,750 was on hand as Flicka's Ensign captured the featured $2,000 Class B-1 pace in 2:04 2-5.

The winner driven by Leo Pelletier, returned $6.80.

Winners of other feature events at New York State harness tracks Monday night:

Yonkers—Perfect Rhythm ($3.90) in the $3,000 Glen Island Pace in 2:03.

Saratoga—Miss Todd Riddell V in the $2,580 Schenectady trot for Northern-trained 2-year-olds in 2:15 4-5, and Velvet Demon ($26.70) in the $2,000 Hoosick Falls trot in 2:05 4-5.

Vermon—Speedy Soot ($2.50) in the $1,500 trot for 2-year-olds in 2:07 2-5.

Angels Surpass '61 Attendance

NEW YORK (AP)—A profitable three-game series against the New York Yankees last week enabled the Los Angeles Angels to surpass their entire 1961 home attendance.

The three-game set, starting Thursday, drew 137,078 to the new 56,000-seat Dodger Stadium. When the Angels played before 12,565 in Sunday's doubleheader against Washington it lifted their 1962 home attendance to 623,618.

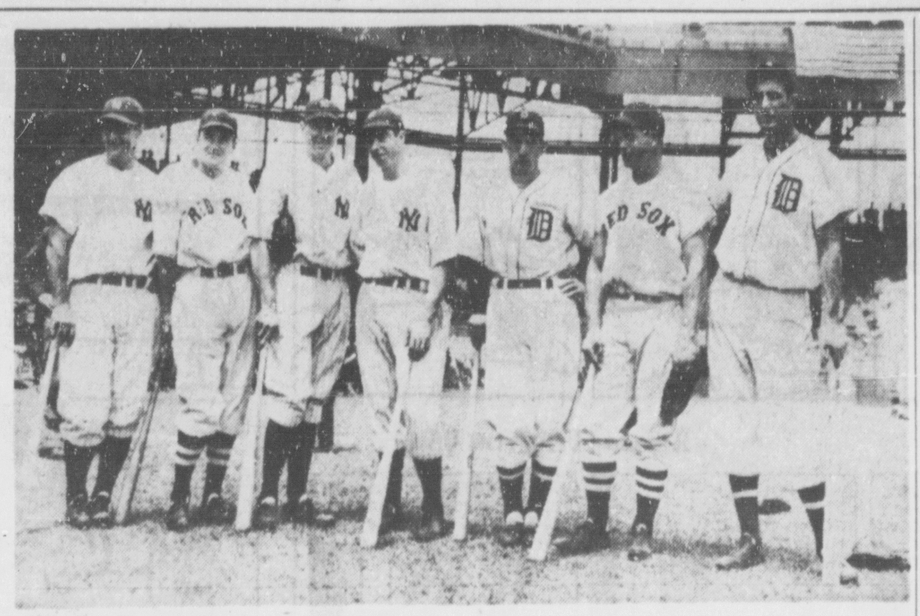

Last season, in the 20,000-seat Wrigley Field, the Angels' final attendance was 603,510.

The Angels show the largest increase in the American League, 263,754. Other junior circuit teams ahead of last season are Cleveland (88,482), Washington (68,087) and Minnesota (12,801).

The Clubs trailing their 1961 gaits are Detroit (161,639), Boston (129,643), Chicago White Sox (124,661), Kansas City (85,163), Baltimore (67,908) and New York (49,301).

The Los Angeles Dodgers have stepped up their attendance pace the most in the National League. They are 325,765 ahead of 1961. St. Louis is up 95,003, Philadelphia 80,949 and San Francisco 63,695.

The Pittsburgh Pirates are 201,247 behind 1961. Other NL clubs with deficits are Milwaukee (161,002), Chicago Cubs (154,868) and Cincinnati (47,904).

"HALL OF FAMERS" TO REUNITE AT YANKEE STADIUM OLD TIMERS' DAY—This remarkable photograph was taken prior to the 1937 All Star game at Griffith Stadium, Washington. Pictured were seven top--ranking American League stars . . . and every one of them eventually was voted into Baseball's "Hall of Fame" at Cooperstown, N. Y.

All six living members of this group have been invited back to the Old Timers' Day at Yankee Stadium on Saturday afternoon, July 28th when the Yanks salute the American and National League All Stars of 1937 on this, the quarter century anniversary of those great teams. The four new members of the "Hall of Fame" also will be honored in the Yankee Stadium ceremonies preceding the regularly scheduled Yankee-Chicago White Sox game. Old Timers' festivities will get under way at 1:15 p. m.

Yanks Now Pace AL by 3½ Games

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Just as if they didn't have enough going their way to start with, the American League leading New York Yankees also have the schedule working for them.

The Yankees, slowly moving away from the pack, owe their expanding lead to a dominance over the weaker clubs in the league. What's more, the leaders have more games remaining with the lower three teams than their principal rivals for the No. 1 spot, Los Angeles and Cleveland, now tied for second.

Against Boston, Kansas City and Washington, the last three teams in the standings, New York has a 17-4, .810 record. Los Angeles is 25-11, .694 and Cleveland is 18-12 .600.

Which means the Yanks not only beat those three more often, they also have more remaining with them. New York has 33 games left, Los Angeles 18 and Cleveland 24 with the also-rans. This could be indicative of a number of things, one of them being that the Yanks may be a little hard to catch.

New York used that beat-the-weak-teams formula Monday to push its lead to 3½ games, beating Kansas City 3-1. Los Angeles slipped back to a tie for second with idle Cleveland when Washington's Don Rudolph threw a four-hitter and beat the Angels 4-1 in the only other American League game scheduled.

4th Straight Win

The Yankee triumph over Kansas City was their eighth in 10 games with the A's this season and their fourth straight. Kansas City now has lost six in a row.

A couple of errors by Billy Consolo and Whitey Ford's pitching were the key factors as the Yanks expanded their lead to its widest margin of the season.

A Consolo miscue in the second inning paved the way for two unearned New York runs, while Ford—8-5—had a five-hit shutout going into the ninth before he tired and had to have help from Jim Bouton.

Bob Johnson drove in three runs with a homer and a single in support of Rudolph's quick triumph over Los Angeles. The contest took only an hour and 32 minutes to complete, the fastest of the season and one of the fastest in recent years.

Johnson broke the scoreless duel with his solo homer in the fourth and put it out of reach with a bases-loaded single in the seventh.

Eastern Stars Defeat Leaders

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — The pick of the Class A Eastern League teed off against the league leading Williamsport Grays Monday night in the 9th annual All-Star game and wrapped it up in the second inning for a 5-2 victory.

In the big second inning, the All-Stars pounded out five base hits, four for extra bases, and scored four runs.

Binghamton's Ken Harrelson led off with a homer. The Triplets' Bill Shephard doubled and scored on Keith Williams' home run. Williams, Charleston outfielder drove in three runs with his homer, a triple and a single.

Williamsport hurler Jim Ponceroff, the loser, got the next two men, but a single by Ossie Chaverria, Binghamton infielder, and a triple by York's Jim Williams sent him to the showers.

Williamsport scored once in the seventh and once in the eighth. One run was unearned; the other came on a single by pinchhitter Dick Edwards.

The victory went to starter Sonny Siebert. The Charleston righthander worked the first two innings. All-Star Manager Mel Parnell also sent York's Wilbur Wood, Elmira's Dave Vineyard and Dave McNally, and Binghamton's Granny Hamner to the mound.

The All-Stars reached four Williamsport hurlers for 14 hits.

Rookie Hendley Scorns the Book

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Most pitchers credit good stuff for a shutout, but Milwaukee's young Bob Hendley doesn't stick with the so-called book.

"They hit some "at 'em" balls, but they were right at someone," the 23-year-old southpaw said Monday night after blanking the Cincinnati Reds 3-0 with the help of homers by Joe Adcock and Roy McMillan.

"I just threw the ball up there and the infielders did the rest," Hendley said modestly in review of his six-hit, five-strikeout effort. "The Reds didn't give me a chance to walk anyone. They hit at least six balls good, but I had a good defense and they went for outs."

Hendley, whose 6-6 record belies his tremendous potential, laughed as he compared his triumph over the Reds with his failure to last one inning against St. Louis Thursday.

"I felt real good the other day and fired the ball hard warming up," he said. "Then everything went wrong—bloop hits to the wrong field, an infield hit, an attempted force which was unsuccessful and I was out of there, trailing 3-0.

"Against the Reds, I was hit pretty hard at times. In the first inning alone, three balls went out to left field pretty good, but they were caught. It was much the same way the rest of the game. I had a good defense."

When pressed, Hendley admitted he had "real good control."

Logan Swung and Homer Followed

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Johnny Logan of the Pittsburgh Pirates is a utility infielder—a breed of player not usually in the limelight. Today, Johnny Logan was a Pirate hero.

Filling in at third base for the injured Don Hoak, Logan hit a bases loaded home run Monday night in the Pirates' 5-2 victory over St. Louis.

Recounting his first extra base hit of the season and his first home run since he was a Milwaukee Brave in 1960, Logan said:

"I hit a high fast ball away from me. I was just trying for a single because there were two men out. I think I surprised the fans. I was surprised myself."

He added, "I think my wife gave me some good cooking and I got a little more power."

Then turning serious, Logan said, "I still got my power. In this ball park (Forbes Field) I don't go for home runs."

The 35-year-old Logan has not always been a utility player. He was the No. 1 shortstop for the old Boston Braves in 1952 and played the position regularly for Milwaukee from 1953 through 1960. He appeared in the 1955 and 1958 All-Star games.

Last year Logan began his utility role. He was traded to the Pirates on June 15. He played in only 45 games during the season.

Erie Sailors Hold First in NY-Penn

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Erie Sailors held onto first place in the New York-Penn Baseball League today, but the margin was down to one percentage point.

Erie lost to Batavia, 9-5, Monday night as Murray Cook drove in four runs and Jerry May rapped his 19th homer. Second-place Jamestown, two percentage points out Sunday night, lost a chance to go in front by losing to Auburn, 6-3.

Hank McNulty led the Mets with three hits and two RBIs.

Geneva's cellar-dwellers took Olean, 7-3. Brant Alyea singled two runs home with the bases loaded in a four-run eighth inning for Geneva.

Carry Back Never Better in Winning Monmouth Race

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Just a year ago, Carry Back was recovering at Monmouth Park from an injury suffered in the Belmont Stakes six weeks earlier, and there were those who said he'd never race again.

Jack Price, who trains Carry Back for his wife, Katherine, of Miami, shrugged off the detractors and vowed the rugged brown son of Saggy-Joppy, by Star Blen, would show 'em.

Carry Back never was better last Saturday down in New Jersey, where just 365 days later he came back to confound his critics and win the $109,150 Monmouth Park Handicap with a blazing track record performance.

The colt had proven the critics wrong as early as last Oct. 28 at Garden State Park when he whipped seven rivals in the $75,000 Trenton Handicap. His first major victory this year was in the $100,000 Metropolitan Mile at Aqueduct May 30, when he whipped Kelso, 1960 and 1961 Horse of the Year. At Monmouth Saturday, Kelso was second in the big handicap.

They called C. B. "the peepul's cherce" after he won the 1961 Kentucky Derby, and followed up with the Preakness in two of racing's greatest thrillers.

Price makes no bones about his aim—Horse of the Year for 1962. Such a tag wouldn't hurt Carry Back's breeding fee when he's retired to stud after this season.

The former Cleveland manufacturer who once sold candy, soft drinks, smokes and magazines on railroad trains was asked about Prove It, the California horse who knocked off the $162,100 Hollywood Gold Cup last Saturday. It was Prove It's third big one in a row.

"We had never ducked anyone," said Price. "We've hooked Kelso, and I don't see why we have to worry about Prove It. He knows where we are."

Village Trustees Hold Discussion On Traffic Laws

A lengthy discussion of a village ordinance which prohibits commercial vehicles from using village streets in lieu of the state highways in passing through the Village of Saugerties was the main topic of business at the Monday night meeting of the Saugerties Village Board of Trustees.

Herman Smith who resides on Washington Avenue at the corner of Russell Street appeared before the board and requested the ordinance be enforced to prohibit these streets from being used by large trailer trucks and other heavy vehicles passing through which use the route to avoid the right angle turn and traffic light on the corner of Partition Street and Main Street. The ordinance states that all through commercial vehicles must use the state roads, Route 9W and Route 32, through the village. Smith pointed out the danger to residents and school children in the vicinity of the Main Street School and St. Mary of the Snow Parochial School by oversize trucks traveling along the streets from the heavy loads on these trucks which, caused cracked walls and ceilings.

He cited several incidents also where vehicles, both trucks and private cars, do not obey the stop sign on Russell Street but enter into coming traffic on Washington Avenue making it unsafe for pedestrians to cross safely.

Mayor George Holmes directed that the ordinance be fully enforced and that in accordance with the ordinance a fine of not exceeding $10 be levied on all drivers misusing the village streets. He also directed that Full Stop signs be painted on the pavement at each end of Russell Street at the corner of Partition Street and Washington Avenue. Signs designation "No Thru Traffic" have been at the corners of Russell Street entrance and Main Street entrance for the past few years. These streets will now be patrolled continuously to assure the enforcement of the law.

In other business, Robert Moser, commissioner of parks and playgrounds, reported that the new cyclone fence had been erected at the Little League Field at Cantine's Field, that extra help had been hired to assist the swimming instructors at the Saugerties Village bathing beach, and that the Town Board of Saugerties had again donated $250 towards the upkeep of the beach.

Charles Hudson was approved as a new member of the Washington Hook and Ladder Company.

Saugerties High Class of 1932 Holds Reunion

A reunion dinner for the Class of 1932 of the Saugerties High School was held at the Flamingo Restaurant on Saturday night with approximately 65 members and guests present. Also attending the 30th anniversary celebration were Dr. and Mrs. Grant D. Morse, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Cahill, Mrs. Denis Wynne and Mrs. Marion Heermance, all of whom were teachers during the years the members attended high school.

Erling Hanson, class president, welcomed the guests after which Jack Rivenberg, as master of ceremonies, introduced the program highlights. It was noted that of the 55 members of the graduating class there are still 49 living and all but two had been located and notified of the affair.

The 30-year old class prophecy was re-read to the group and many admitted to the fact that the prognostications became true.

Following the dinner Harry Maisenhelder's orchestra played for dancing.

Karen Rose Baptised

Karen Rose, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Wachtel of Barclay Lane, received the Sacrament of Holy Baptism at St. Joseph's Church in Glasco on Sunday. The Rev. Archibald Damm officiated. Sponsors were Salvatore and Rita Misasi of Barclay Lane.

Following the services a dinner was served by her parents to the immediate family and the sponsors at their home. Present were the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Cafaldo, the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Max Wachtel, the baby's great-aunt, Miss Mary Scarselli, and the sponsors, Mr. and Mrs. Misasi.

New Mayor Named For Johnson City

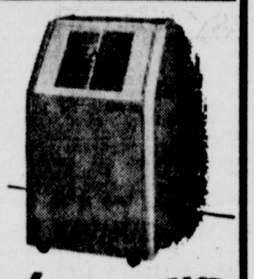

JOHNSON CITY, N.Y. (AP)—L. Leo Sanford has taken over as mayor of this village whose purchasing and contracting procedures are under grand jury investigation.

The village trustees, all Republicans, appointed Sanford, also a Republican, to the post Monday night. GOP Mayor William F. Ott resigned July 2. He said his reason was illness.

Sanford served as a trustee from 1955 through 1961 and says he will run for election as mayor in November.

The grand jury investigation is the result of a probe by the State Investigation Commission.

Play Might Be Woman Intuition

BY OSWALD JACOBY

Fred Karpin reports that he has been unable to identify the heroine of today's hand. One of Fred's associates saw her play the hand at a bridge club in Brooklyn some time during Fred's Army service.

North bid a trifle too much, or maybe much too much but no one twisted South's arm to make her go to seven.

The queen of hearts lead was won by South's king. The clubs ran off nicely with West hanging on to his king until the third lead.

Then South went into such a long huddle that Fred's buddy was afraid that his leave would be up before she made her next play.

When she made it, the play was a dilly. She led dummy's seven of diamonds and let it ride after East played low. Another diamond was won by her ten. She cashed the queen and returned to dummy to get two spade discards on the ace and king of diamonds.

South had to make this phenominal play in order to bring home the bacon and the play illustrates a combination of card reading and woman's intuition. Vulnerable West had gone all the way to three spades without an ace and not much in high cards. He needed plenty of distributional values to justify such action. Therefore, South decided West would be void of diamonds.

Auto Festival Set at Saratoga

SARATOGA SPRINGS—Entries are nearly completed for the Saratoga Automotive Festival to be held in the State Armory at Saratoga Springs, N. Y. on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 3, 4, 5.

The armory, large enough to attractively display forty cars, will be filled to capacity, as only a few classics, customs and rods are needed to completely fill the space available.

One of the older cars in the show is a 1906 custom-made vehicle, unrestored. Even the name of the original owner, painted on the side of the pick-up body, is clearly visible.

Of special interest to area hot rodders are an XK-120 Jaguar fully chromed and also a 1932 Plymouth street roadster, fully chromed and with a very hot power plant, valued in excess of $5000.

There will be exhibits in five classes: Antique, Classic, Rod and Custom Sport, and Special Interest. Every exhibitor will receive a trophy and compete for other awards, with a large trophy going to the most popular entry.

This automobile show is being sponsored and entirely handled by the "Y" Men's Club of the Saratoga Springs YMCA in cooperation with the Saratoga Springs Chamber of Commerce, assisted by area Auto Club members.

The entire proceeds of the three day event are allocated for the purchase and development of recreational camp-site property for the youth work of the Saratoga Springs YMCA.

FOOD FOR AMERICANS

Vegetable Medley a Summer Treat

MEDLEY of fresh vegetables simmered in bouillon, served with hamburgers, makes a delicious summer dinner.

GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A medley of fresh vegetables simmered in bouillon makes a welcome accompaniment to cold cuts or hamburgers for a summer dinner. It can be prepared in advance, refrigerated and reheated just before serving.

This vegetable medley is a good outdoor picnic supper. Chill thoroughly, pack well and heat over barbecue grill.

Fresh Vegetable Medley
(Yield: 6 servings)

1 cup fresh snap beans, cut 2-inch pieces
1 cup fresh corn, cut-off-cob
1 cup diced celery
½ cup sliced fresh carrots
½ cup onion rings
½ cup diced red pepper
Beef or chicken bouillon
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
1 tablespoon butter or margarine

Place first six ingredients in a saucepan with ½-inch bouillon cubes and salt. Cover and cook until vegetables are tender, about 20 minutes. Remove from heat and add black pepper and butter or margarine. Can be refrigerated until ready to reheat for serving.

Senator's Wife Feels U. S. Bars Girl's From Space

WASHINGTON (AP)—The PTA and bridge club can look pretty tame to a girl when outer space beckons, a senator's wife who is a mother of eight observed today.

So why, Mrs. Philip A. Hart asked a House subcommittee, doesn't the United States take a closer look at the possibility of rocketing a female into orbit?

Space agency officials have shown no enthusiasm over proposals that women be included in the space travl program.

"It is inconceivable to me," said the wife of Michigan's junior Democratic senator, "that the world of outer space should be restricted to men only, like some sort of stag club."

Mrs. Hart hastened to add that she wasn't trying to be a space ace Susan B. Anthony.

"I am not arguing that women be admitted to space merely so that they won't feel discriminated against," she said. "I am arguing that they be admitted because they have a very real contribution to make."

Her testimony was prepared for a House Space subcommittee studying the qualifications for astronauts—male and female.

Mrs. Hart is convinced the Soviet Union will send a cosmomiss into orbit this fall—and will be first unless the United States acts soon.

Rusk Is Looking To Gromyko for Clue on Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk hopes to gain a clue from Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko this weekend on whether the Russians intend to stir up further trouble over Berlin.

Rusk plans to leave at midnight Thursday for Geneva, where he has allotted approximately four working days for talks with Gromyko and other foreign ministers and for the signing of the 14-nation agreement on Laos.

This will mark a new chapter in the lengthy and so far inconclusive talks on stands that have remained unchanged: Soviet Premier Khrushchev's demands that Western forces get out of West Berlin, and the Western determination to keep them there.

Since he last met Gromyko in Geneva in March, Rusk has held a half dozen talks on Berlin here with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin, with neither side budging.

Seminole Sees Bad Season for Fla. Hurricanes

DANIA, Fla. (AP)—Billy Bowlegs, a Seminole weather prophet, saw a rat build its nest atop an oak log. He foresees a bad hurrican season ahead.

The Indian, who says he is 100, explains rats usually nest inside logs. But "when they build them on top, watch out."

He could be right. In 1947, on the same basis, he forecast a bad season. A hurricane smacked Florida.

Approval Is Expected For Lloyd Water Line

Approval of specifications for a new eight-inch water main to be installed on Vineyard Avenue, Town of Lloyd, is expected Thursday, at a meeting of the Town Board, according to Vincent Gaffney, clerk.

A group of residents at a recent public hearing voiced support of the 5,000-foot extension of the water district's main.

Bids will be received after specifications for the project are accepted. Estimated cost of the project will be made known after the engineering work has been completed, Gaffney said.

A four-inch main now serves the water district in the township.

Victor Is New Chairman

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Arthur Victor Jr., a Republican, is the new chairman of the Niagara Frontier Port Authority.

He was elected Monday to succeed William M. Connelly, a Democrat, at the authority's annual meeting. Connelly's term expired June 30.

Robert M. Hitchcock, one of three Democrats on the nine-member authority, was elected vice chairman.

'Rock' Guards Suspended

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two guards have been suspended as a result of last month's escape from Alcatraz by three still unaccounted for bank robbers.

Warden Olin Blackwell said the guards, whom he did not name, were suspended for 20 days each "for failing to keep an accurate inmate count."

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Turn on the wind machines," said the director as the actors stood shivering in the rain.

"But who was to turn them on?

There was a brief meeting as the jurisdiction was decided. If the fans were electric and under 18 inches in width, they would be operated by members of one electricians' local — if over 18 inches, by members of a local of a different electricans' union.

Fine Line of Jurisdiction

If the fan is gasoline-driven, it is handled by the members of the prop men's local.

This shows you how fine the lines of jurisdiction have been drawn among unions of the movie industry. Virtually everyone but the bosses are unionized in the studio, and even the bosses have a Screen Producers Guild.

This can lead to curious situations.

Grips (roughly, stagehands) move walls and cameras; prop men move davenports. One union brings sets material to the entrance of a stage; another takes it on the stage. Sets are delivered to the scene dock by one union, to stages by another.

Regarded as Waste

"In many instances we have two unions doing identical work differentiated by the nature of the material they deal with and its destination," said a studio labor executive. "There is nothing illegal about it; these matters are all established by contract. But the studios have been stupid not to have the guts to stand up against this waste.

"Stage crews could be cut 25 per cent if duties were not so rigidly enforced. As it is, we have sets full of workers, some of whom actually work only a small percentage of the day.

"It's ridiculous to hire a plumber for all day just to turn on a faucet once."

Labor men argue that their members are craftsmen who have worked long and hard to establish their position and that specialization provides efficiency. Even critics of Hollywood film crews concede that they are the best in the world.

Film maker Fred Zinnemann, who rose from the ranks, comments: "You can't undo the unions, and nobody wants to. I can remember the years before we had unions. We used to work every Saturday until midnight—without extra pay.

"Hollywood crews are superior in every respect. They are damn good people who are worth the difference in pay. But there is definitely featherbedding in the labor ranks."

Wednesday: Are Hollywood unions closed to newcomers?

Act Too Real

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Barbara Stanwyck cut her hand doing a drunk scene for a television film Monday.

The script called for her to brush a glass off a bar. Instead, the studio reported, the actress slammed her fist down on the glass, shattering it.

A doctor removed glass from three cuts in Miss Stanwyck's hand, covered it with a flesh-colored dressing and she went back to work.

A spokesman for Four Star productions said the injury scene will remain in the show, "Special Assignment."

The queen of hearts lead was won by South's king. The clubs ran off nicely with West hanging on to his king until the third lead.

Then South went into such a long huddle that Fred's buddy was afraid that his leave would be up before she made her next play.

When she made it, the play was a dilly. She led dummy's seven of diamonds and let it ride after East played low. Another diamond was won by her ten. She cashed the queen and returned to dummy to get two spade discards on the ace and king of diamonds.

South had to make this phenominal play in order to bring home the bacon and the play illustrates a combination of card reading and woman's intuition. Vulnerable West had gone all the way to three spades without an ace and not much in high cards. He needed plenty of distributional values to justify such action. Therefore, South decided West would be void of diamonds.

Auto Festival Set at Saratoga

SARATOGA SPRINGS—Entries are nearly completed for the Saratoga Automotive Festival to be held in the State Armory at Saratoga Springs, N. Y. on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 3, 4, 5.

The armory, large enough to attractively display forty cars, will be filled to capacity, as only a few classics, customs and rods are needed to completely fill the space available.

One of the older cars in the show is a 1906 custom-made vehicle, unrestored. Even the name of the original owner, painted on the side of the pick-up body, is clearly visible.

Of special interest to area hot rodders are an XK-120 Jaguar fully chromed and also a 1932 Plymouth street roadster, fully chromed and with a very hot power plant, valued in excess of $5000.

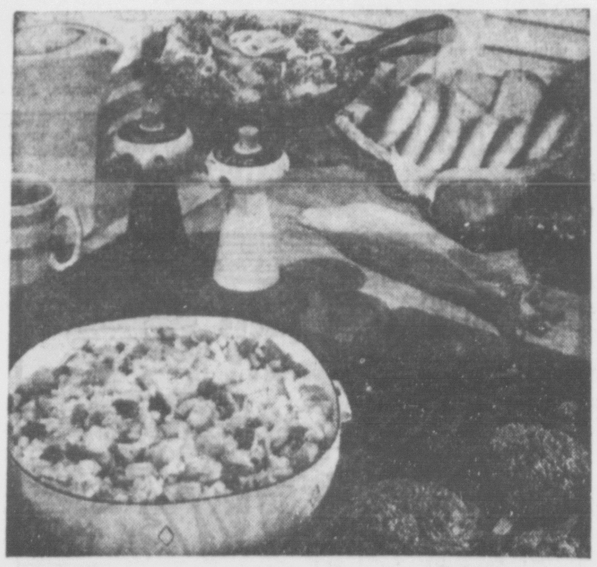

There will be exhibits in five classes: Antique, Classic, Rod and Custom Sport, and Special Interest. Every exhibitor will receive a trophy and compete for other awards, with a large trophy going to the most popular entry.

This automobile show is being sponsored and entirely handled by the "Y" Men's Club of the Saratoga Springs YMCA in cooperation with the Saratoga Springs Chamber of Commerce, assisted by area Auto Club members.

The entire proceeds of the three day event are allocated for the purchase and development of recreational camp-site property for the youth work of the Saratoga Springs YMCA.

FOOD FOR AMERICANS

Vegetable Medley a Summer Treat

MEDLEY of fresh vegetables simmered in bouillon, served with hamburgers, makes a delicious summer dinner.

GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A medley of fresh vegetables simmered in bouillon makes a welcome accompaniment to cold cuts or hamburgers for a summer dinner. It can be prepared in advance, refrigerated and reheated just before serving.

This vegetable medley is a good outdoor picnic supper. Chill thoroughly, pack well and heat over barbecue grill.

Fresh Vegetable Medley
(Yield: 6 servings)

1 cup fresh snap beans, cut 2-inch pieces
1 cup fresh corn, cut-off-cob
1 cup diced celery
½ cup sliced fresh carrots
½ cup onion rings
½ cup diced red pepper
Beef or chicken bouillon
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
1 tablespoon butter or margarine

Place first six ingredients in a saucepan with ½-inch bouillon cubes and salt. Cover and cook until vegetables are tender, about 20 minutes. Remove from heat and add black pepper and butter or margarine. Can be refrigerated until ready to reheat for serving.

Senator's Wife Feels U. S. Bars Girl's From Space

WASHINGTON (AP)—The PTA and bridge club can look pretty tame to a girl when outer space beckons, a senator's wife who is a mother of eight observed today.

So why, Mrs. Philip A. Hart asked a House subcommittee, doesn't the United States take a closer look at the possibility of rocketing a female into orbit?

Space agency officials have shown no enthusiasm over proposals that women be included in the space travl program.

"It is inconceivable to me," said the wife of Michigan's junior Democratic senator, "that the world of outer space should be restricted to men only, like some sort of stag club."

Mrs. Hart hastened to add that she wasn't trying to be a space ace Susan B. Anthony.

"I am not arguing that women be admitted to space merely so that they won't feel discriminated against," she said. "I am arguing that they be admitted because they have a very real contribution to make."

Her testimony was prepared for a House Space subcommittee studying the qualifications for astronauts—male and female.

Mrs. Hart is convinced the Soviet Union will send a cosmomiss into orbit this fall—and will be first unless the United States acts soon.

Rusk Is Looking To Gromyko for Clue on Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk hopes to gain a clue from Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko this weekend on whether the Russians intend to stir up further trouble over Berlin.

Rusk plans to leave at midnight Thursday for Geneva, where he has allotted approximately four working days for talks with Gromyko and other foreign ministers and for the signing of the 14-nation agreement on Laos.

This will mark a new chapter in the lengthy and so far inconclusive talks on stands that have remained unchanged: Soviet Premier Khrushchev's demands that Western forces get out of West Berlin, and the Western determination to keep them there.

Since he last met Gromyko in Geneva in March, Rusk has held a half dozen talks on Berlin here with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin, with neither side budging.

Seminole Sees Bad Season for Fla. Hurricanes

DANIA, Fla. (AP)—Billy Bowlegs, a Seminole weather prophet, saw a rat build its nest atop an oak log. He foresees a bad hurrican season ahead.

The Indian, who says he is 100, explains rats usually nest inside logs. But "when they build them on top, watch out."

He could be right. In 1947, on the same basis, he forecast a bad season. A hurricane smacked Florida.

Approval Is Expected For Lloyd Water Line

Approval of specifications for a new eight-inch water main to be installed on Vineyard Avenue, Town of Lloyd, is expected Thursday, at a meeting of the Town Board, according to Vincent Gaffney, clerk.

A group of residents at a recent public hearing voiced support of the 5,000-foot extension of the water district's main.

Bids will be received after specifications for the project are accepted. Estimated cost of the project will be made known after the engineering work has been completed, Gaffney said.

A four-inch main now serves the water district in the township.

Winnie Sits Up, Has Good Night

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill had a good night's rest, Middlesex Hospital sources said today.

A medical bulletin Monday said his progress of recovery was satisfactory and he was allowed up from bed to spend some time in a chair. No further bulleting is to be issued until Friday unless there is an important change in his condition.

Victor Is New Chairman

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Arthur Victor Jr., a Republican, is the new chairman of the Niagara Frontier Port Authority.

He was elected Monday to succeed William M. Connelly, a Democrat, at the authority's annual meeting. Connelly's term expired June 30.

Robert M. Hitchcock, one of three Democrats on the nine-member authority, was elected vice chairman.

'Rock' Guards Suspended

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two guards have been suspended as a result of last month's escape from Alcatraz by three still unaccounted for bank robbers.

Warden Olin Blackwell said the guards, whom he did not name, were suspended for 29 days each "for failing to keep an accurate inmate count."

Hollywood News, Views

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Turn on the wind machines," said the director as the actors stood shivering in the rain.

But who was to turn them on?

There was a brief meeting as the jurisdiction was decided. If the fans were electric and under 18 inches in width, they would be operated by members of one electricians' local — if over 18 inches, by members of a local of a different electricans' union.

Fine Line of Jurisdiction

If the fan is gasoline-driven, it is handled by the members of the prop men's local.

This shows you how fine the lines of jurisdiction have been drawn among unions of the movie industry. Virtually everyone but the bosses are unionized in the studio, and even the bosses have a Screen Producers Guild.

Each studio deals with about 45 unions. Actual shooting is done by members of 20 unions. Most are strong and jealous of their realm of influence.

This can lead to curious situations.

Grips (roughly, stagehands) move walls and cameras; prop men move davenports. One union brings sets material to the entrance of a stage; another takes it on the stage. Sets are delivered to the scene dock by one union, to stages by another.

Regarded as Waste

"In many instances we have two unions doing identical work differentiated by the nature of the material they deal with and its destination," said a studio labor executive. "There is nothing illegal about it; these matters are all established by contract. But the studios have been stupid not to have the guts to stand up against this waste.

"Stage crews could be cut 25 per cent if duties were not so rigidly enforced. As it is, we have sets full of workers, some of whom actually work only a small percentage of the day.

"It's ridiculous to hire a plumber for all day just to turn on a faucet once."

Labor men argue that their members are craftsmen who have worked long and hard to establish their position and that specialization provides efficiency. Even critics of Hollywood film crews concede that they are the best in the world.

Film maker Fred Zinnemann, who rose from the ranks, comments: "You can't undo the unions, and nobody wants to. I can remember the years before we had unions. We used to work every Saturday until midnight—without extra pay.

"Hollywood crews are superior in every respect. They are damn good people who are worth the difference in pay. But there is definitely featherbedding in the labor ranks."

Wednesday: Are Hollywood unions closed to newcomers?

Act Too Real

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Barbara Stanwyck cut her hand doing a drunk scene for a television film Monday.

The script called for her to brush a glass off a bar. Instead, the studio reported, the actress slammed her fist down on the glass, shattering it.

A doctor removed glass from three cuts in Miss Stanwyck's hand, covered it with a flesh-colored dressing and she went back to work.

A spokesman for Four Star productions said the injury scene will remain in the show, "Special Assignment."

Another One on Way

LINCOLNTON, N.C. (AP)—Mrs. Paul Sain is a 121-pound housewife who got tired of her truck driver husband being away from home. So she went along for the ride.

Mrs. Sain relieves her husband on long hauls in his tractor-trailer to New York, New Jersey and Atlanta.

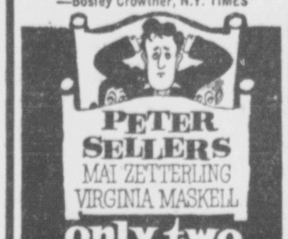

The Sains have a 10-year-old daughter. Her ambition is to be a truck driver.

EMPLOYMENT

NOTICE TO JOB APPLICANTS
The Kingston Daily Freeman does not knowingly accept help wanted advertisements from employers covered by the Federal Wage-Hour Law if they offer less than legal minimum wages. Beginning September 3, 1961, employees engaged in interstate or foreign commerce or in the production of goods for such commerce must be paid not less than $1.15 an hour and at least time and one-half for hours worked after 40 in a workweek, unless specifically exempt. Employees of certain large retail, service, construction, and other enterprises must be paid not less than $1.00 an hour after September 3, 1961, but no overtime for such employment is required until September 3, 1963. If you are offered less by covered employers, or if you have questions concerning this law or other activities of the U. S. Department of Labor, call or write the Department's local office at Bronx: Abraham Klainpard, Investigation Supr., 881 Gerard Ave., Bronx, N. Y. WYandotte 2-1235.

EMPLOYMENT

NOTICE TO JOB APPLICANTS
The Kingston Daily Freeman does not knowingly accept help wanted advertisements from employers covered by the Federal Wage-Hour Law if they offer less than legal minimum wages. Beginning September 3, 1961, employees engaged in interstate or foreign commerce or in the production of goods for such commerce must be paid not less than $1.15 an hour and at least time and one-half for hours worked after 40 in a workweek, unless specifically exempt. Employees of certain large retail, service, construction, and other enterprises must be paid not less than $1.00 an hour after September 3, 1961, but no overtime for such employment is required until September 3, 1963. If you are offered less by covered employers, or if you have questions concerning this law or other activities of the U. S. BUY ME

I'm an impressive 70' brick ranch, affording beauty in Woodstock. I'm situated on a 1 acre site with trees and expensive landscaping. I contain 1700 square ft. of better workmanship, divided into 8 well proportioned rooms including a glass enclosed family room overlooking a secluded yard. I also have a brick walled living room fireplace and wood paneling. For something out of the ordinary in a luxury home I say "Buy Me." I am expensive but do not cost much. My owner wants $26,250, and take my word I'M WORTH IT.

BUY ME

I'm an impressive 70' brick ranch, affording beauty in Woodstock. I'm situated on a 1 acre site with trees and expensive landscaping. I contain 1700 square ft. of better workmanship, divided into 8 well proportioned rooms including a glass enclosed family room overlooking a secluded yard. I also have a brick walled living room fireplace and wood paneling. For something out of the ordinary in a luxury home I say "Buy Me." I am expensive but do not cost much. My owner wants $26,250, and take my word I'M WORTH IT.

Volunteers Have A Busy Monday

Volunteer firemen were kept busy Monday when a number of fires were reported to Fire Control Headquarters on Golden Hill.

The forest fire which swept over more than 50 acres of Woodland Sunday off Chodikee Lake Road, Town of Esopus, rekindled and called Esopus and Highland firemen back to the scene.

While Esopus firemen were at the scene of the forest fire an alarm was sounded for an oil burner flash-back at the home of Howard Fowler, West Park. There was smoke damage.

Port Ewen firemen were called to the Charles Atkins home on Broadway and Clay Road Monday afternoon when fire was discovered in an overstuffed chair. There was considerable smoke and the fire communicated to a window frame. Chief Edward Mains reported the fire had apparently started from a cigarette. High pressure fog was used to put out the blaze. The Port Ewen firemen were called to Thieves Market about 7 p.m. when an alarm was phoned to the department. On arrival at the market there was no fire and no one knew of the alarm being sounded. It was branded a false alarm, which was sent in from some other location.

Boiceville also experienced a grass fire shortly after 4:30 p. m. Monday. The firemen returned at 5:03 p. m.

President, Dobrynin to Meet Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will meet this evening with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin at the White House to discuss such crucial issues as Berlin, disarmament, and Laos.

In announcing this today, White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said Kennedy had asked Dobrynin to come to the executive mansion for a conference. It will be their first meeting of any length since the ambassador presented his credentials on March 30.

Dobrynin's appointment at the White House is for 6 p.m., EDT.

Dobrynin has met several times with Secretary of State Dean Rusk in the Washington end of discussions here and in Moscow on the Berlin situation.

Administration sources cautioned against placing special significance on the Kennedy-Dobrynin meeting.

Yet they said Kennedy feels that it is important to maintain personal contact with the Soviet envoy and intends to see him from time to time.

These sources noted Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has periodically conferred privately in Moscow with U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson.

Pennsy and NYC Report Merger, Note Savings

CHICAGO (AP)—The Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads announced today a merger plan that they estimate will save an estimated $75 million a year within five years.

The lines said freight service will be improved generally and passenger service will not be changed except for terminal operations in New York and Chicago.

$70 Million Improvement

The plan, announced in Chicago and in New York, envisions a $70-million capital plant improvement program which the companies said will give new impetus to the national economy.

This will be financed partly through sale of released duplicate facilities, materials and real estate.

"Generally improved freight service with substantial economies was predicted through use of more favorable through routes, the merged equipment of both lines, and increased utilization of modern yards, shops and other facilities now used to capacity," the railroads said in a statement.

As for passenger service, it would not be changed, except that New York Central long-distance trains operating via Harmon, Albany, Syracuse and Buffalo would use Pennsylvania station in New York.

All other trains, including commuters, would continue to use present facilities.

In Chicago all trains would use Union Station except those New York Central trains now using the Illinois Central Terminal. These would continue to do so.

Benefits Anticipated

"Anticipated benefits of the merger," the statement said, "will reach an estimated $75 million per year within five years with completion of a $70 million capital plant improvement program which will give new impetus to the national economy."

The Pennsy and Central said the organization structure of the proposed merged railroad, including location of system and regional headquarters, is yet to be decided.

In general, the statement said, through freight moving between the Middle West and the New York City and New England areas would be routed by way of Cleveland, Buffalo and Albany.

Ulster Kiwanis Club Hears FBI Agent on Prints

Robert Jenkins, special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, was the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Ulster Kiwanis Club Monday evening at Aiello's Restaurant.

Jenkins' remarks were general, outlining the various aspects of the work of the FBI and its jurisdiction in criminal matters. Of great interest to the membership both during Jenkins' talk and also in the question period following were his observations on the history of identification methods from Bertillon's plan of identification via measurement of the physical features through the discovery of the individuality of fingerprints.

In conclusion Jenkins said "The FBI was set up as the investigative arm of the Department of Justice and today is at the service of the public.. Our department can work more effectively when the public calls to its attention, violations falling within their investigative function," Jenkins said.

Prior to the guest speaker's remarks, President Harold Macholdt announced that next week's meeting would be a Ladies Night and an interclub with the Kiwanis of Monticello at Monticello. Also announced was the news that the Public and Business Affairs Committee under the chairmanship of Louis Salzmann would describe at the July 30 meeting, its plans for a comprehensive project to be undertaken during October by the club.

The president also announced that the New Club Building Committee under the chairmanship of Jack Drewes was working on two projects and would be asking the assistance of the full membership during the month of September in order to conclude these two projects.

Macmillan Scored, Backed For Reshuffle, Totals 16

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan came under fire from his political foes and some friends today for his drastic reshaping of Britain's Conservative government.

Other supporters concluded that the major surgery had been necessary because of the obvious public dissatisfaction expressed in recent interim elections.

Nine more ministers, four with Cabinet rank, were fired Monday, bringing the total of top-rank dismissals since Friday to 16. Most of their replacements were younger men from the legislative rank and file.

"The prime minister has done himself enormous harm by this," said a Conservative peer, Lord Lambton, on a television program Monday night. "If you get rid of your closest lieutenants, there must be something wrong with the leadership."

Newspapers normally loyal to the Conservatives gave the reshuffle a cautious "wait and see" reception.

The Daily Mail saluted Macmillan for a high degree of political courage. It conceded the ruling party had been "shaken to the core," but said "the rot had gone deep and called for major surgery." It warned Macmillan the British people will be impatient for results.

From his political foes there were expectable demands that Macmillan himself should be the next to go.

"Macmillan's day is over and no Stalin-style purge of his old colleagues can conceal the fact," declared Liberal party leader Jo Grimond.

Geysers, Glaciers May Be Abundant, Says Moon Expert

By ROBERT GOLDENSTEIN
Associated Press Science Writer

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— The possibility that the moon may have an abundant water supply—including geysers and subsurface glaciers—was suggested today by an internationally known lunar expert.

Dr. Zdenek Kopal, British astrophysicist, said the moon's water supply may be so great that if squeezed out it could cover the lunar globe's surface to a uniform depth of 984 feet.

He told space scientists attending a lunar missions meeting of the American Rocket Society that his conclusions were reached deductively, based on known facts about the composition and behavior of celestial bodies.

Water is composed of hydrogen and oxygen and a lunar water supply would greatly simplify the supply problem of setting up a self-sufficient moon base with its own air supply.

In adding his support to those who believe water is present on the moon, Kopal said there is a possibility earth's smaller companion may have a permafrost several hundred feet deep.

Ice close to the lunar surface, he continued, could form glaciers covered by dust and debris. He said such glaciers could take the form of domes or minor bulges numerous astronomers have observed in certain regions of the moon.

Kopal agrees with the widely accepted theory that the moon was formed by an accumulation of tiny particles of cold matter in space drawn together by the mutual pull of gravity.

His theory contends further that these particles contained volatile compounds, including water, that were locked within their crystal structure. A relatively high proportion of water has been found in stony meteorites.

When the moon was formed, the spontaneous disintegration of the radioactive elements present heated its internal temperature until its interior glowed much like the inside of a terrestrial blast furnace. This heat broke the solid state bonds holding the water in crystals and liberated it as superheated steam.

Kopal gave this concept of how lunar steam might behave: "Along any cavity or crack temporarily formed in the crust, it should be able to escape under its own pressure toward the outer and cooler layers, where it should condense into the liquid phase and eventually freeze in the subsurface layer."

Crash at Intersection

A parked car and truck and two other vehicles were involved in a mishap at Clinton Avenue and Maiden Lane early Monday afternoon. Police said a car driven by Edna Helmrich, 33, of Sherry Lane, headed east on Maiden Lane and one operated by Donald Bigando, 22, of 124 Cedar Street, headed north on Clinton Avenue and crossing Maiden Lane, first became involved. One of the parked vehicles was a New York Telephone Company truck driven by Raymond Krom, 39, of St. Remy, and the operator of the parked car was listed as Robert Dennis Johnson, 45, of 60 Elm Street, Saugerties. No definite injuries were reported, but Blanche Bigando, 21, and Donald Bigando Jr. 10 months old, of 124 Cedar Street, were listed for X-rays.

Military Is In Huddle On Algeria

ALGIERS (AP)—Algeria's military leaders met secretly in the mountains south of Algiers today to seek a way to reconcile the new nation's quarreling leaders.

Leaders of the guerrilla forces in the interior wilayas—zones—and of the regular army convened in an emergency "Council of Wilayas." A large majority of the officers taking part were known to sympathize with dissident Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella in his fight to displace moderate Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda.

The military's recommendations, expected within 48 hours, will almost certainly include a demand for a meeting of the 72-member National Council of the Algerian Revolution (CNRA), on which Ben Bella also has a majority.

Difficulties were growing for Premier Ben Khedda, faced with defection and doubts in his own ranks, the determined opposition of the 45,000-strong regular army and the Algerian public's growing impatience.

The exact location of the wilaya council meeting was unknown.

Old Timers' Day

Woman, 85, First To Register for Orange Fair Fete

MIDDLETOWN — Applications for Old Timers' Day, Thursday, Aug. 9, an annual feature of the Orange County Fair, are being received at the Fair Office at the fairgrounds.

First to register for this year's event was Mrs. Idabelle Decker of 120 Wickham Avenue, Middletown. Mrs. Decker, 85, has been attending the fair's Old Timers' Day programs since 1959.

Started in 1941 as part of the Fair's 100th anniversary celebration, Old Timers' Day has become a major part of the week's activities. Last year 225 "youngsters" registered for the special event. In 1960 there were 186 registrations and in 1959 there were 217 senior citizens who registered. Richard W. Milburn of Middletown, a Fair director, will serve again this year as the official host for the special affair.

Any person 75 or older is eligible to attend the Fair as guest of the Board of Directors of the Orange County Agricultural Society, providing they have filed an application. On Thursday, Aug. 9, Old Timers will be admitted free to the grounds and will be special guests for the stadium show.

In addition tickets will be given them for either dinner or supper at the Orange County Fair restaurant or the Otisville Grange restaurant. Prizes will be awarded for various achievements during the Old Timers' program prior to the afternoon stadium show. The stadium show will be Tex Ritter, America's most beloved cowboy, and several country and western song stylists.

List Big Show Stars for State Fair Appearances

Comedian Don Adams, regarded as "one of the funniest young men in show business," will appear in the second of three all-free grandstand shows at the 1962 New York State Exposition in Syracuse.

Adams, who was seen regularly throughout the past television season on the Perry Como show, will team up with songstress Joanie Sommers of "Johnny Get Angry" fame and an all-star supporting cast for two shows daily, Thursday and Friday, August 30 and 31, according to Harold L. Creal, director.

The Exposition opens Tuesday, August 28, for seven days and nights of "fun with a family flavor."

Jane Morgan, Too

The first free grandstand show will be headlined by Jane Morgan, the "Fascination" girl, and rock-n-roll artist Neil Sedaka, whose recording of "Breaking Up Is Hard To Do" is rapidly moving to the top of the hit parade.

A native of New York, Adams began his professional career in 1948 in Florida. Since that time he has worked in many of the nation's leading night clubs and has appeared on many of the top network television shows.

Adams is best known for his hilarious "prosecuting attorney," "football coach" and "baseball umpire" routines, which he has performed on the Como show, the Tonight Show, Steve Allen show, and many spectaculars.

Adams has probably had more network television guest exposure in the past year than any other young comedian, and he is in constant demand because of his tremendous fund of material, his ability as a sketch comic and a style ideally suited to television.

22 Safe After Copter Landing In East River

NEW YORK (AP)—An airport shuttle helicopter carrying 22 persons made an emergency landing on the East River Monday after one of its two engines failed. It stayed afloat—as officials said it was designed to do—and was towed ashore.

None of the 19 passengers and three crewmen was injured.

Representatives of the Federal Aviation Agency and the Civil Aeronautics Board, called to the scene, reported foreign matter found in one of the two engines caused its failure.

The helicopter, a new Boeing Vertol 107 of New York Airways, took off from Newark (N.J.) airport for Idlewild Airport with a stopover at the Wall Street Heliport on the East River.

New Trouble Is Hinted in Georgia

ALBANY, Ga. (AP) — Negroes studied nonviolent integration techniques today in the wake of repeated hints of more demonstrations in this troubled southwest Georgia city.

Daily workshops in nonviolent protests were scheduled by Negro leaders. Albany's police force, backed by a unit of state troopers, was held on a continuing alert.

Integration leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. called Monday night for a "nonviolent protest which will turn Albany upside down."

King's statement came after Mayor Asa D. Kelley Jr., on behalf of the city commission, refused to give the Negro leaders an audience. The Negroes had requested a meeting with the commission in an effort to solve long-standing racial issues.

The mayor called the Negro leaders lawbreakers and said the commission would not negotiate with them.

Later King addressed about 2,000 persons at two Negro churches.

Without indicating what form any new demonstrations might take, King said: "We are preparing ourselves spiritually, mentally and physically."

Klein Says He's Not in Field for New Judge Post

Former City Judge Aaron E. Klein, whose name had been prominently mentioned as a possible Democratic candidate for the new position of Family Court Judge of Ulster County, has announced he will not contend for the post at the Democratic convention Thursday night.

Attorney Klein stated that he considers it is his duty to remain as Democratic city chairman rather then seek the judgeship nomination.

The Democratic convention will be held at 8 p. m. Thursday at the county court house.

Nixon Is Certified

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Richard M. Nixon has been certified as the Republican candidate for governor of California.

Secretary of State Frank M. Jordday gave him a certificate Monday after Nixon turned in a statement of his personal campaign expenses, saying he had spent $1,056. His campaign committees previously reported expenses of more than $500,000 in the primary race.

Boy Found in Woods

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N.Y. (AP) —A search party today found an 8-year-old boy who spent the night in a densely-wooded area of Bear Mountain State Park.

Matthew Messinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Messinger of Manhattan, was reported in good condition.

He was found about four miles from Camp Edalia, where he was staying. He had wandered from the camp Monday.

Nearly 150 persons took part in the search, including 100 soldiers from the U.S. Military Academy, state and park police and civilians.

Volunteers Have A Busy Monday

Volunteer firemen were kept busy Monday when a number of fires were reported to Fire Control Headquarters on Golden Hill.

The forest fire which swept over more than 50 acres of Woodland Sunday off Chodikee Lake Road, Town of Esopus, rekindled and called Esopus and Highland firemen back to the scene.

While Esopus firemen were at the scene of the forest fire an alarm was sounded for an oil burner flash-back at the home of Howard Fowler, West Park. There was smoke damage.

Port Ewen firemen were called to the Charles Atkins home on Broadway and Clay Road Monday afternoon when fire was discovered in an overstuffed chair. There was considerable smoke and the fire communicated to a window frame. Chief Edward Mains reported the fire had apparently started from a cigarette. High pressure fog was used to put out the blaze. The Port Ewen firemen were called to Thieves Market about 7 p.m. when an alarm was phoned to the department. On arrival at the market there was no fire and no one knew of the alarm being sounded. It was branded a false alarm, which was sent in from some other location.

Boiceville also experienced a grass fire shortly after 4:30 p. m. Monday. The firemen returned at 5:03 p. m.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— The possibility that the moon may have an abundant water supply—including geysers and subsurface glaciers—was suggested today by an internationally known lunar expert.

Dr. Zdenek Kopal, British astrophysicist, said the moon's water supply may be so great that if squeezed out it could cover the lunar globe's surface to a uniform depth of 984 feet.

He told space scientists attending a lunar missions meeting of the American Rocket Society that his conclusions were reached deductively, based on known facts about the composition and behavior of celestial bodies.

Water is composed of hydrogen and oxygen and a lunar water supply would greatly simplify the supply problem of setting up a self-sufficient moon base with its own air supply.

In adding his support to those who believe water is present on the moon, Kopal said there is a possibility earth's smaller companion may have a permafrost several hundred feet deep.

Ice close to the lunar surface, he continued, could form glaciers covered by dust and debris. He said such glaciers could take the form of domes or minor bulges numerous astronomers have observed in certain regions of the moon.

Kopal agrees with the widely accepted theory that the moon was formed by an accumulation of tiny particles of cold matter in space drawn together by the mutual pull of gravity.

His theory contends further that these particles contained volatile compounds, including water, that were locked within their crystal structure. A relatively high proportion of water has been found in stony meteorites.

When the moon was formed, the spontaneous disintegration of the radioactive elements present heated its internal temperature until its interior glowed much like the inside of a terrestrial blast furnace. This heat broke the solid state bonds holding the water in crystals and liberated it as superheated steam.

Kopal gave this concept of how lunar steam might behave: "Along any cavity or crack temporarily formed in the crust, it should be able to escape under its own pressure toward the outer and cooler layers, where it should condense into the liquid phase and eventually freeze in the subsurface layer."

Crash at Intersection

A parked car and truck and two other vehicles were involved in a mishap at Clinton Avenue and Maiden Lane early Monday afternoon. Police said a car driven by Edna Helmrich, 33, of Sherry Lane, headed east on Maiden Lane and one operated by Donald Bigando, 22, of 124 Cedar Street, headed north on Clinton Avenue and crossing Maiden Lane, first became involved. One of the parked vehicles was a New York Telephone Company truck driven by Raymond Krom, 39, of St. Remy, and the operator of the parked car was listed as Robert Dennis Johnson, 45, of 60 Elm Street, Saugerties. No definite injuries were reported, but Blanche Bigando, 21, and Donald Bigando Jr. 10 months old, of 124 Cedar Street, were listed for X-rays.

Electrician Killed

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — An electrician, Donald C. Marks, 57, was killed Monday while testing an induction furnace for melting glass at Bausch & Lomb Optical Co. He apparently was killed by electric shock. There were no witnesses.

Military Is In Huddle On Algeria

ALGIERS (AP)—Algeria's military leaders met secretly in the mountains south of Algiers today to seek a way to reconcile the new nation's quarreling leaders.

Leaders of the guerrilla forces in the interior wilayas—zones—and of the regular army convened in an emergency "Council of Wilayas." A large majority of the officers taking part were known to sympathize with dissident Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella in his fight to displace moderate Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda.

The military's recommendations, expected within 48 hours, will almost certainly include a demand for a meeting of the 72-member National Council of the Algerian Revolution (CNRA), on which Ben Bella also has a majority.

Difficulties were growing for Premier Ben Khedda, faced with defection and doubts in his own ranks, the determined opposition of the 45,000-strong regular army and the Algerian public's growing impatience.

The exact location of the wilaya council meeting was unknown.

Old Timers' Day

Woman, 85, First To Register for Orange Fair Fete

MIDDLETOWN — Applications for Old Timers' Day, Thursday, Aug. 9, an annual feature of the Orange County Fair, are being received at the Fair Office at the fairgrounds.

First to register for this year's event was Mrs. Idabelle Decker of 120 Wickham Avenue, Middletown. Mrs. Decker, 85, has been attending the fair's Old Timers' Day programs since 1959.

Started in 1941 as part of the Fair's 100th anniversary celebration, Old Timers' Day has become a major part of the week's activities. Last year 225 "youngsters" registered for the special event. In 1960 there were 186 registrations and in 1959 there were 217 senior citizens who registered. Richard W. Milburn of Middletown, a Fair director, will serve again this year as the official host for the special affair.

Any person 75 or older is eligible to attend the Fair as guest of the Board of Directors of the Orange County Agricultural Society, providing they have filed an application. On Thursday, Aug. 9, Old Timers will be admitted free to the grounds and will be special guests for the stadium show.

In addition tickets will be given them for either dinner or supper at the Orange County Fair restaurant or the Otisville Grange restaurant. Prizes will be awarded for various achievements during the Old Timers' program prior to the afternoon stadium show. The stadium show will be Tex Ritter, America's most beloved cowboy, and several country and western song stylists.

List Big Show Stars for State Fair Appearances

Comedian Don Adams, regarded as "one of the funniest young men in show business," will appear in the second of three all-free grandstand shows at the 1962 New York State Exposition in Syracuse.

Adams, who was seen regularly throughout the past television season on the Perry Como show, will team up with songstress Joanie Sommers of "Johnny Get Angry" fame and an all-star supporting cast for two shows daily, Thursday and Friday, August 30 and 31, according to Harold L. Creal, director.

The Exposition opens Tuesday, August 28, for seven days and nights of "fun with a family flavor."

Jane Morgan, Too

The first free grandstand show will be headlined by Jane Morgan, the "Fascination" girl, and rock-n-roll artist Neil Sedaka, whose recording of "Breaking Up Is Hard To Do" is rapidly moving to the top of the hit parade.

A native of New York, Adams began his professional career in 1948 in Florida. Since that time he has worked in many of the nation's leading night clubs and has appeared on many of the top network television shows.

Adams is best known for his hilarious "prosecuting attorney," "football coach" and "baseball umpire" routines, which he has performed on the Como show, the Tonight Show, Steve Allen show, and many spectaculars.

Adams has probably had more network television guest exposure in the past year than any other young comedian, and he is in constant demand because of his tremendous fund of material, his ability as a sketch comic and a style ideally suited to television.

LITTLE FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Frank S. Badocha, 34, of Utica, died early today in Little Falls Hospital of injuries suffered in an automobile accident near Saint Johnsville, Montgomery County, Saturday.

22 Safe After Copter Landing In East River

NEW YORK (AP)—An airport shuttle helicopter carrying 22 persons made an emergency landing on the East River Monday after one of its two engines failed. It stayed afloat—as officials said it was designed to do—and was towed ashore.

None of the 19 passengers and three crewmen was injured.

Representatives of the Federal Aviation Agency and the Civil Aeronautics Board, called to the scene, reported foreign matter found in one of the two engines caused its failure.

The helicopter, a new Boeing Vertol 107 of New York Airways, took off from Newark (N.J.) airport for Idlewild Airport with a stopover at the Wall Street Heliport on the East River.

New Trouble Is Hinted in Georgia

ALBANY, Ga. (AP) — Negroes studied nonviolent integration techniques today in the wake of repeated hints of more demonstrations in this troubled southwest Georgia city.

Daily workshops in nonviolent protests were scheduled by Negro leaders. Albany's police force, backed by a unit of state troopers, was held on a continuing alert.

Integration leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. called Monday night for a "nonviolent protest which will turn Albany upside down."

King's statement came after Mayor Asa D. Kelley Jr., on behalf of the city commission, refused to give the Negro leaders an audience. The Negroes had requested a meeting with the commission in an effort to solve long-standing racial issues.

The mayor called the Negro leaders lawbreakers and said the commission would not negotiate with them.

Later King addressed about 2,000 persons at two Negro churches.

Without indicating what form any new demonstrations might take, King said: "We are preparing ourselves spiritually, mentally and physically."

Klein Says He's Not in Field for New Judge Post

Former City Judge Aaron E. Klein, whose name had been prominently mentioned as a possible Democratic candidate for the new position of Family Court Judge of Ulster County, has announced he will not contend for the post at the Democratic convention Thursday night.

Attorney Klein stated that he considers it is his duty to remain as Democratic city chairman rather then seek the judgeship nomination.

The Democratic convention will be held at 8 p. m. Thursday at the county court house.

Nixon Is Certified

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Richard M. Nixon has been certified as the Republican candidate for governor of California.

Secretary of State Frank M. Jordday gave him a certificate Monday after Nixon turned in a statement of his personal campaign expenses, saying he had spent $1,056. His campaign committees previously reported expenses of more than $500,000 in the primary race.

Boy Found in Woods

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N.Y. (AP) —A search party today found an 8-year-old boy who spent the night in a densely-wooded area of Bear Mountain State Park.

Matthew Messinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Messinger of Manhattan, was reported in good condition.

He was found about four miles from Camp Edalia, where he was staying. He had wandered from the camp Monday.

Nearly 150 persons took part in the search, including 100 soldiers from the U.S. Military Academy, state and park police and civilians.
